Magee Resists Judge In Quentin Appearance

Shouts 'This Not A Court'

By MARY LEYDECKER

Amid cries of "power to people" and "death to the pigs," the lone surviving convict of the Aug. 8 Civic Center shootout was dragged into a makeshift courtroom at San Quentin today.

His eyes filled with hate, 31-year-old Ruchell Magee repeatedly shouted at Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court that he wanted "to be removed from this booby trap you have here."

Charged with assaulting and murdering Judge Harold J. Haley, Magee claimed that "the prison guards killed the judge."

CLENCHED FISTS

Most of the 50 spectators in the courtroom inside the prison fence arose and gave clenched fist salutes to Magee as two officers carried the chained convict into the room for his arraignment.

Judge McGuire warned the spectators that if they continued to "make demonstrations," he would have to clear the courtroom but less noisy comments continued throughout the short proceedings.

Magee, indicted last week by the Marin Grand Jury, was advised of his constitutional rights by the judge, but refused to answer any questions at first, saying that he wanted removal "from the Klu Klux Klan trial."

An attorney appearing at the arraignment for Magee, Henry Ramsey Jr. of Richmond, explained to the judge that Magee "feels it is impossible for him to receive a fair trial in this country" and does not want to make any court appearances.

'I WAS CHOKED'

Magee shouted out that "I was drug into the courtroom. I was choked and thrown into the back seat of a car like a dog."

"This is not a court — the people know it's illegal."

He also accused Judge McGuire of hiding facts about the Marin Sheriff's department and "playing two roles in those robes."

He shouted that such proceedings are "what caused the Marin County incident" and accused guards of killing Judge Haley.

Charges Of Failure On Air Pollution

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Charges of failure were leveled today at the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District by a group of Stanford University students.

They blamed the failure to keep up with growing pollution largely on the 12-member board of directors. The board, the students declared, "has failed to provide effective leadership, has taken a go-slow approach to problems, and has been resistant to reform."

They also noted that while the district has "established a close and cooperative working relationship with the industries it regulates, no similar rapport exists between the BAAPCD and conservation-oriented segments of the public." The few citizens groups that have been critical of the district often have been treated as antagonists, rather than as potential supporters, the students said.

Their findings were in a 380-page report they issued today after a nine-month study of the district. The study was headed by Edward Groth III, a graduate student of biology and an instructor at the university. Groth long has been a critic of the district, and recently was named a member of its advisory council.

Their wide-ranging report also called for replacing autos with rapid transit in urban areas, and explored the host of polluters contributing to air contamination.

One startling finding was that gas stations release more organic gases each day than all of the Bay Area's five major oil refineries. Most of the pollution from some 10,000 gas stations

Stanford Team Raps Gnoss On Clear Air Performance

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Marin County's representatives on the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District board got mixed, but generally low, ratings in a critique of their performances today by Stanford University students.

Supervisor William A. Gnoss was rated "poor on performance" and "fair" on attitude. Gnoss, the only member of the present air board who has served on it since its formation in 1955, was found to have played "a relatively minor role in BAAPCD decision making." Students described him as "almost totally ineffective."

Former Director John A. Miskimen, who resigned both from the board and the San Rafael City Council last spring, was rated fair in performance and excellent in attitude. The students knocked Miskimen's rating on performance because he had missed more than 30 per cent of the board meetings.

Miskimen's replacement, Sausalito Councilman Wyman Hicks, was not rated because he is new to the board. However, he was praised for his strong advocacy "of the environmental point of view." The students predicted that Hicks "will be able to strengthen significantly the board's commitment to make rapid progress toward cleaner air."

The students rating of the 12 directors was based on the board membership of last spring.

Six of the 12 were rated poor, but only two of those six will still be on the board at the end of this year.

The board's new chairman, Victor Calvo, chairman of the Santa Clara Board of Supervisors, won a rating of excellent both on attitude and performance for pushing for tighter regulations on industrial pollution.

Calvo long led a minority favoring tighter regulations, a minority now strengthened by the addition of four new directors into what the students

Guerrillas Extend Deadline, But Again Threaten To Blow Up Jets

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Palestinian guerrillas holding more than 250 hostages aboard three hijacked airliners in the Jordanian desert today extended their ultimatum deadline for 72 hours but threatened once again to blow up the passengers and planes unless their ransom demands are met.

The International Red Cross was still trying to negotiate their release in exchange for seven Arab commandos held in West Europe but informed sources in New York in touch with the negotiations indicated there was a hitch—that the guerrillas wanted to release only the non-Israelis aboard the planes.

The United States and Britain were reported demanding the release of all passengers and crew regardless of nationality or religion. The guerrillas in announcing the deadline postponement criticized the Anglo-American "attitude."

Israeli Premier Golda Meir said today in Tel Aviv Israel opposed releasing imprisoned Arab guerrillas in exchange for the passengers. She did not say flatly Israel woud refuse to release guerrillas if such an exchange was part of an international package deal.

In a speech to the Organization of Working Mothers from the Trade Union Federation she said the world was being held up to bribery and blackmail because the lessons learned from earlier attacks on Israeli jetliners and El Al offices had been ignored.

"Now the whole world is confronted with a horror the like of which it has never known before," Mrs. Meir said. "The only thing it can do is pay a bribe. And what sort of a bribe? To free criminals and murderers. We know who the people are who are sitting in our jails. They are terrorists who attacked and murdered innocent people."

The airlines involved, TWA, Swissair and BOAC, issued a breakdown of passengers which said 258 or 259 passengers and crewmen remained aboard the planes and 154 women and children were taken to the Inter-Continental Hotel in Amman—where a near civil war raged.

The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine originally said they would blow up the plane at 7 p.m. PDT Wednesday if West Germany, Switzerland and Britain did not release seven jailed Arab commandos.

Mill Valley Couple Volunteers To Replace Two Skyjack Jet Hostages

A Mill Valley psychologist and his wife, who think "international problems can't be solved by piling up corpses," have volunteered to replace two of the hostages being held on three captured planes in the Jordanian Desert.

Dr. William H. Pemberton and his wife, Oma, made the offer to President Richard M. Nixon and Secretary of State William Rogers in identical telegrams yesterday.

Since that time, they said today, "A dozen people have called and asked us to count them in."

The 58-year-old clinical psychologist and his 56-year-old wife said they made the dramatic gesture "as an alternative to violence."

"If the President accepts our offer and we get blown up over there," said the gray-haired Pemberton, "The shock may well mean the beginning of the end for hijackings and hostages."

The effect of such an atrocity, Pemberton believes, may cause world opinion to prevent similar occurences from ever happening again.

Pemberton, who is a Quaker, said "We don't solve problems by piling up corpses. All my life I've sought nonviolent solutions to world crises."

Revolution is obsolete in the modern world, he said, because "humans tend to overreact, and then the problem gets bigger than it was before. The spiral has to be stopped somewhere."

The main concern of the Pembertons is that the hijackers know that they "can't get away with this sort of violence. If they succeed, there's no stopping them."

No word has been forthcoming from the White House, and Pemberton declined to speculate on the chances that he will be allowed to go to Jordan.

The telegram to the President read:

"At some time in man's destiny there must come an end to violence as problem-solving devices. With this in mind, I do hereby request that I be allowed to replace one of the hijacked plane occupants on the Jordanian Desert.

"I hope that other volunteers will join me and let the consequences take place."

"Th only proviso: That we do not give in to the demands for the release of other hijackers and those convicted of crimes in the courts of civilized nations."

New Outbreaks In Amman Despite Cease-Fire Pact

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

New fighting broke out today in the Jordanian capital of Amman between Palestinian guerrillas and Jordanian army troops, but official Amman Radio reported tonight the two sides had agreed to respect the cease-fire they declared Wednesday.

At height of the fighting mortar shells and gunfire struck the Inter-Continental Hotel in the heart of the city where 154 hostages from three hijacked airliners had taken refuge. None of the refugees, mostly women and children, were hurt.

A cease-fire on Wednesday ended temporarily eight days of fighting that followed a Palestinian assassination attempt against King Hussein. The fighting resumed almost immediately in Amman and other parts of Jordan and the Palestinians said the army was trying to exterminate them.

The authoritative Jerusalem Post reported that 5,000 of the 15,000 Iraqi troops stationed in Jordan had sided with the guerrillas during the fighting. Other reports said some units

UNRUH BLUNDERS IN REAGAN CHARGE

Reagan Scorns Unruh's Tactics

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan, charging Jess Unruh with "cheap demagoguery" for campaigning at the governor's leased home, today announced the defection to his side of a major Democratic party contributer.

The Republican governor refused again to bare his wealth but for the first time said he was willing to submit his assets to an accountant for examination to determine "whether they constitute any conflict of interest, which they don't."

KLEIN BACKING

The chief executive's campaign organization reported that Eugene V. Klein, board chairman of the National General Corp., a conglomerate, had endorsed Reagan for re-election over Unruh.

Klein was a co-chairman of former Gov. Edmund Brown's 1966 re-election campaign and supported John F. Kennedy, Lyndon B. Johnson, and Hubert H. Humphrey for president, campaign aides said.

He will be chairman of a major fundraising event Oct. 8 in Los Angeles, headlining Frank Sinatra and Dean Martin, both Democrats supporting Reagan. Klein said that Reagan "has brought common sense management to the state's business."

MAKES CLEAR

"One thing my opponent has done is make it perfectly clear that I was right in refusing to debate him, because his idea of debate is obviously cheap demagoguery," Reagan said.

Unruh stood in front of Reagan's fashionable leased home in Sacramento and listed the names of the 17 landlords he said also contributed to Reagan's re-election campaign.

"Maybe I ought to put up a sign: keep off the grass," Reagan said. "That might be a warning to other citizens, because who is next? Like termites, it might be spreading and maybe we need tighter pest control laws."

The state two months ago took over the $15,000 a year rent on the Tudor-style home.

Alleged Payee Dead 10 Years

SANTA BARBARA (UPI)—Free-swinging Jess Unruh, in a major campaign goof, has accused Gov. Ronald Reagan of awarding a "political payoff" to a man he contended helped the governor run for president in 1968.

Actually, the man died in 1960.

The alleged "payoff," according to Unruh, was the appointment of the man's 28-year-old son, Earl W. Brian Jr., as state Medi-Cal director, a $30,000 per year job.

Unruh made the charge Wednesday in Fresno, citing it was an example of Reagan's appointments of "political hacks." The Democratic gubnatorial nominee said it was "common knowledge throughout the medical profession" that Brian's father, whom he identified as a wealthy North Carolina doctor, supported Reagan in 1968.

REPEATS CHARGE

Unruh repeated the charge in Bakersfield, and later in Santa Barbara before aides learned late Wednesday the candidate was mistaken.

"Dr. Brian's father has been dead for 10 years so there obviously could not have been a political payoff," said a spokesman for the State Department Health Care Services in Sacramento.

Brian's father died Aug. 1, 1960, and the son does not have a stepfather because his mother never remarried.

There was no immediate reply from Unruh, whose aides began checking to determine whether any "payoff" existed at all.

The foulup over the "political payoff" issue marred what Unruh had planned as a major attack on the Reagan administration handling of Medi-Cal.

Unruh demanded Brian's "immediate firing" on grounds he was "an inexperienced, political incompetent," and "totally inept."

INSURANCE POLICY

Unruh revealed he soon will propose a new pre-paid medical insurance program to cover "all Californians" from cradle to grave. It would replace Medi-Cal, a federal-state venture which provides health care services for the poor and aged.

The assemblyman termed Medi-Cal "a colossal failure" and said Reagan's "obvious mismanagement may have cost the state hundreds of millions of dollars."

Paris Peace Round—Same Old Dialogue

PARIS (UPI)—The Vietnam talks went through another unproductive session today in which the United States rejected a new Communist demand for an immediate unilateral withdrawal of American troops and overthrow of the South Vietnamese government.

North Vietnam and the Viet Cong, speaking at the 83rd session of the deadlocked talks, said the conference will remain stalemated until the United States "changes its policy and shows good faith."

U. S. Ambassador David K. E. Bruce accused Communist diplomats of dragging the talks through "sterile and endless debate." He said the Communist demands were preconditions for the talks which the United States could not accept, and that the Communist stand was "disappointing to those who are hoping for a new and more productive phase of these talks."

"Our proposals are not preconditions to discussion and they are not presented on a take-it-or-leave-it basis," Bruce said. "Your side, on the contrary, continues to pose preconditions to meaningful discussion of the issues involved."

The sesison today was one of the shortest to date, and Hanoi's chief negotiator, Xuan Thuy, sharply reduced the length of his statement. He accused the United States of lying about the situation in Indochina.

Thuy added, "the Vietnamese people will never let the United States implement neocolonialism in South Vietnam and are resclute to unite with the other Indochinese peoples to defeat the U.S. maneuver of expanding the war of aggression in this part of the world.

"It is time that the United States changes its policy and shows good faith in these negotiations."

Thuy and Tien reiterated the two basic demands: Complete U.S. military withdrawal from South Vietnam, — and the overthrow of the Saigon regime of president Nguyen Van Thieu.

Cambodians Break Major City Siege

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—A mile-long troop-laden gunboat convoy swept up the flood-swollen Stung Sen River in a surprise attack that broke the 60-day Communist siege of Kompong Thom, the Cambodian command said today.

Military spokesmen said the river force struck Wednesday night while Viet Cong and North Vietnamese attention was focused on the 4,000-man Cambodian task force pushing slowly toward Kompong Thom from the south.

The task force, which made up the biggest operation of the Cambodian campaign, was still 36 miles south of Kompong Thom on Highway 6 when the river units attacked.

Military spokesmen declined to say how many Cambodian troops were involved in breaking the long encirclement of Kompong Thom but said the gunboats "stretched for more than a mile" on the Stung Sen.

Kompong Thom is a city of 10,000 persons 80 miles north of Phnom Penh and not only is a provincial capital but an important transportation and communications center. Viet Cong and North Vietnamese units have shelled the city almost daily for two months.

Cambodian spokesmen said the flotilla began its trip to Kompong Thom two days ago from a point 40 miles southwest of the beleaguered city. The gunboats crossed Tonle Sap, Cambodia's huge lake, then entered the Stung Sen River, encountering only light Viet Cong resistance along the way and losing one man killed.

The 4,000-man task force edging northward toward Kompong Thom has covered nine miles in three days, the spokesman said.

Premier Lon Nol went on nationwide radio Wednesday night and said, "after six months of fighting, one thing is clear: the Viet Cong cannot win in Cambodia.

"In the coming week, we will capture as many North Vietnamese as possible, and this will force the North Vietnamese government to bargain for the prisoners and our price will be war indemnities."

Communiques from Saigon said Communist ground fire shot down two U.S. helicopters Wednesday, wounding three Americans. One AH1 Cobra gunship was downed 360 miles north-northeast of Saigon and another was hit near Quang Ngai City, 318 miles north-northeast of the capital.

In Saigon, South Vietnamese spokesmen said a 2,000-man force of government rangers, militiamen and armored and artillery units Wednesday completed a week's operation in the Cambodian Parrot's Beak after killing 58 Communists at a cost of five dead and 15 wounded. Allied military sources said it left 15,000 South Vietnamese troops in Cambodia.

The U. S. Command listed 83 Americans killed in South Vietnam last week and 323 wounded. The death toll was the highest in 10 weeks and included 22 men killed in a helicopter crash Aug. 27 and previously listed as missing.

Ford Fears Clean Air Plans For '75

DETROIT (UPI)—Ford Motor Co. says it can meet the "very low" auto emission levels already proposed by the federal government for 1975 models but says it is possible that new changes in the Clean Air Act "may not permit us to build cars after Jan. 1, 1975."

Lee A. Iacocca, president of Ford's North American Automotive Division, wrote dealers and suppliers Wednesday, "No matter how much we spend and how many people we assign to the task, we do not think we can do it."

He warned of huge price increases and "irreparable damage" to the American economy that would still lead only to small air quality improvements.

J. J. Riccardo, president of Chrysler Corp., agreed.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Blames Army

FT. MCPHERSON, Ga. (UPI) — A young soldier charged with murder in the alleged My Lai massacre says Army Chief of Staff William C. Westmoreland should shoulder the blame for whatever happened in the Vietnamese village.

Sgt. Esequiel Torres, 22, of Brownsville, Tex., charged Westmoreland with dereliction of duty in the purported incident. The surprising move was made Wednesday during a preliminary hearing at Ft. McPherson.

His attorney, Charles Weltner, said he would ask that any action against all defendants in the My Lai case be delayed until the question of ultimate responsibility is settled. Twelve officers and enlisted men are charged in the alleged 1968 slaughter of Vietnamese civilians.

Typhoon Georgia

MANILA (UPI) — Typhoon Georgia swept toward the Philippines with 120-mile-an-hour winds today and the weather bureau warned the Manila area to prepare for the storm.

Chinatown Detail Will Be Abandoned

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Police Department's Chinatown detail, in existence since the days of tong warfare, is being abolished next Monday.

The Police Commission took the action on the advice of Chief Alfred Nelder and Chinese leaders.

In the future, the area's gambling complaints will be handed by Central station or the vice squad, the chief said while declaring the six-man detail could be used more efficiently in uniform.

Dennis Wong, speaking for community leaders, said the detail involved "subtle discrimination" since other areas do not have special details.

Third Rail Strike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With five extra days of breathing time, government mediators today began the task of settling the third major rail strike crisis of the Nixon administration. They were given little chance of success.

The unions agreed Wednesday to postpone a strike deadline until 12:01 a.m. Tuesday. It had been set for 12:01 a.m. today.

The major issue is wages. The union demanded increases of more than 40 per cent over three years and the railroads said they couldn't afford it.

Arms Sale Hit

LUSAKA, Zambia (UPI) — Indian Prime Minister Indira Ghandi said today Britain's reported intention to sell arms to South Africa was a "dangerous and retrograde step" which might encourage South African militarism and threaten the entire continent.

Addressing the third World Nonaligned Summit Conference, Mrs. Ghandi also demanded the withdrawal of "foreign" troops from Indochina and sided with the Arabs in the Middle East conflict. She expressed disapproval of Israeli "intransigence."

On the British-South African arms deal, the Indian prime minister told the leaders of 55 nations attending the third and final session of the summit that the move was a "dangerous and retrograde step which will threaten the neighbors of South Africa and also the Indian Ocean area."

Astronaut Surplus

"It's just the facts of life that we've got a surplus of astronauts to fly missions," Donald K. Slayton said Wednesday. "We've got plenty of work for them to do, always have had, but not the kind they'd like to be doing."

Slayton said last week's cancellation of two more flights to the moon compounded the problem and left the United States with only seven manned orbital flights between now and the mid-1970s at the earliest.

There are now 49 pilots on flight status and 32 of them have yet to fly in space.

Less Smokers

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — The total number of Americans who have kicked the cigarette habit has risen 10 million since 1966, says Dr. Daniel Hern, director of the National Clearinghouse for Smoking and Health.

Hern spoke Wednesday before delegates to the National Conference on Smoking and Health and said he based his statistics for both 1966 and 1970 on a survey involving interviews with a 5,000-person sample of the population.

The total number of smokers also decreased — from 49.4 million to 44.9 million — during the period even though the population grew by an estimated 7.5 million, according to Horn.

Chavez Pickets

SALINAS, Calif. (UPI) — Cesar Chavez picketed for 90 minutes Wednesday in defiance of a court order against his striking farm workers union, but was not arrested.

"We have checked with our attorneys, and they agree that the injunction violates our rights," the union leader declared before his stint at a picket line.

Although Chavez was allowed to picket without arrest, 13 of his followers were taken into custody during the day. Deputies said the arrests were for failure to obey an officer. Chavez' AFL-CIO United Farm Workers Organizing Committee said they were arrested while picketing.

A CLEAN AIR CHIMNEY

This 580-foot chimney at a Mannheim, West Germany, power plant is designed to help keep the air clean over the Rhine River city. Once in operation, the chimney will funnel gases through at the rate of almost 40 miles per hour, purifying them 99.5 per cent. The smokestack was built in record time by 50 men working in two shifts. It is made of reinforced concrete with an acid-resistant ceramic lining. Further north in the industrial Ruhr District, chimneys must be over 800 feet to keep down pollution.

Police Arrest Son As Shooting Suspect

Arthur R. Furnas, 41, and his father, Arthur B. Furnas, 74, had been in Marin General Hospital since they apparently shot each other with pistols Friday.

The younger Furnas was freed without bail yesterday to appear in Marin Municipal Court tomorrow. Asst. Dist. Atty. Joshua W. Thomas said a charge of assault with a deadly weapon was filed against him today.

He said no final decision has been made on charges against the father who was reported in satisfactory condition today at the hospital.

However, Thomas indicated the elder Furnas probably would not be charged.

Corte Madera police reported that the father began the shooting in which Harriet Furnas, 69, the wife and mother, was also wounded, but Thomas said the father apparently expected to be attacked by his son.

Three-Ring Acts Will Play Novato For Club Benefit

A three-ring circus which includes a lady leopard-trainer, two aerial acrobatic groups and dancing elephants among its acts will play Novato at 1 and 8 p.m. Saturday.

The Gatti-Charles Circus performances, sponsored by the Novato Professional Firemen's Association, will be held at the Novato Horsemen's Arena on Bugeia Lane.

Half the profits will be donated to the Novato Boys Club, with the remainder supporting firemen's association activities including community service activities, according to fireman John Rentz, chairman.

A sword-balancing act, dog act, and clowns will play, and traditional circus refreshments, including cotton candy, popcorn, peanuts, hot dogs, snow cones and candy apples, will be sold at the show.

Auto Is Stolen From Base Lot

A white 1963 Buick, Oklahoma license LW 976, was stolen between 10:45 and 11:15 a.m. yesterday from Hamilton Air Force Base Commissary parking lot, Novato police reported today.

The wife of the owner, Donald Ray Shaw, of Building 104, Apt. 12, of the base, had parked the car while shopping and removed the keys, police reported.

Landmarks Booklet Is For Sale Again

SACRAMENTO — A California Historical Landmarks booklet which describes the state's 827 missions, forts, ghost and mining towns is again being sold by the state Department of Parks and Recreation.

The book was revised a year ago and has sold 18,000 copies. It is now available at most state park offices or through the department at P.O. Box 2390, Sacramento.

Mailliard Is Held Denying Contributions Wrongdoing

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Indiscretion on the part of campaign aides may have gotten two west coast Congressmen into trouble.

Spokesmen for the lawmakers, Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., and Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Calif., however, denied Wednesday that they knowingly accepted illegal campaign contributions from corporations.

Federal law prohibits corporate contributions to congressional campaigns.

Magnuson and Mailliard, along with Rep. Edward A. Garmatz, D-Md., were identified in news accounts (by the Associated Press) as recipients of campaign contributions from the American President Lines and Pacific Far East Lines shipping companies.

Garmatz and Mailliard are chairman and ranking minority member, respectively, of the House Merchant Marine Committee and Magnuson is chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee.

They were reported to have received several hundred dollars apiece from the companies.

Mailliard's office acknowledged his campaign had been the beneficiary of some $500 from the two companies, but the aide said the check was a personal one accepted by a local campaign committee along with many others. There was no indication it came from a corporation, he said.

"No check drawn against any corporation was accepted by Senator Magnuson's campaign organization," the spokesman said. "In accordance with the law, only personal checks were accepted as campaign contributions, and all such contributions were received by the campaign organizations supporting his candidacy."

An aide to the senator said that if there were any personal checks from ship company employes who were later reimbursed by their corporations, the senator and his staff were not aware of it.

Garmatz was not available for comment.

New Voting Age

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The government argued today that the 21-year-old vote is a "historical hangover" and urged a special three-judge court to uphold the constitutionality of a new law lowering the minimum voting age to 18 for Americans.

David L. Norman, deputy assistant attorney general for civil rights, presented the Justice Department's arguments in a case involving a suit brought by five New Yorkers who challenged the law.

Besides that lawsuit, the government has filed its own suits in the Supreme Court to force several states to obey the law and, in turn, has been sued by other states challenging the law.

$4 Million Cost To Convert Mint

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Converting the abandoned U.S. Mint at Fifth and Mission streets into a federal courthouse would cost $4 million, Rep. Phillip Burton, D-Calif., said Wednesday.

The congressman said Thomas E. Hannon, the General Service Administration's regional administrator, had estimated that 37,823 square feet in the building could be turned into courtrooms and offices.

Federal judges have urged conversion of the mint, which was constructed in 1874.

Theft Of Tape Deck

Police said the tape deck was taken from an auto owned by Darrell I. Haberman of 415 Seventh Street, Apt. 18, while it was parked at his residence between last Friday and Tuesday.

AIR

comes from evaporation of fuel, the report said.

It also found that as much as 50 per cent of the particles in the air comes from natural sources such as soil, pollen, salt spray and other background air contamination.

The students' report was the second in two weeks to give black marks to pollution control efforts. A nationwide team of 20 professors concluded on Aug. 27 that contributing reasons were the district's "narrow interpretation of its mission, an absence of clearly stated goals and methods to achieve these goals."

The Stanford group, however, stressed that many of the district's shortcomings are on the way to being corrected. The district's regulations are being revised, making them much more stringent, they noted.

But the students also noted that industry has succeeded in weakening some of the revisions proposed by the district's staff.

Their report credited the turnabout with the addition of several new directors to the former minority of active and progressive board members. One of the three new members is Sausalito Councilman Wyman Hicks.

The report also noted a marked increase in pressure for reform from the state and federal governments — but especially from aroused citizen groups.

The students, both graduate and undergraduate, termed the district's public education efforts "a near disaster," noting that their survey of almost 2,000 Bay Area citizens had found only 10 per cent of the public can identify the district.

The public has been virtually excluded from the district's decision-making process, the students concluded.

Better pollution control will require new state legislation giving the district "sufficiently stringent sanctions to bring about rapid compliance with existing regulations," their report recommended. Also needed were new funding powers to replace a "ridiculously small" budget of about $2 million.

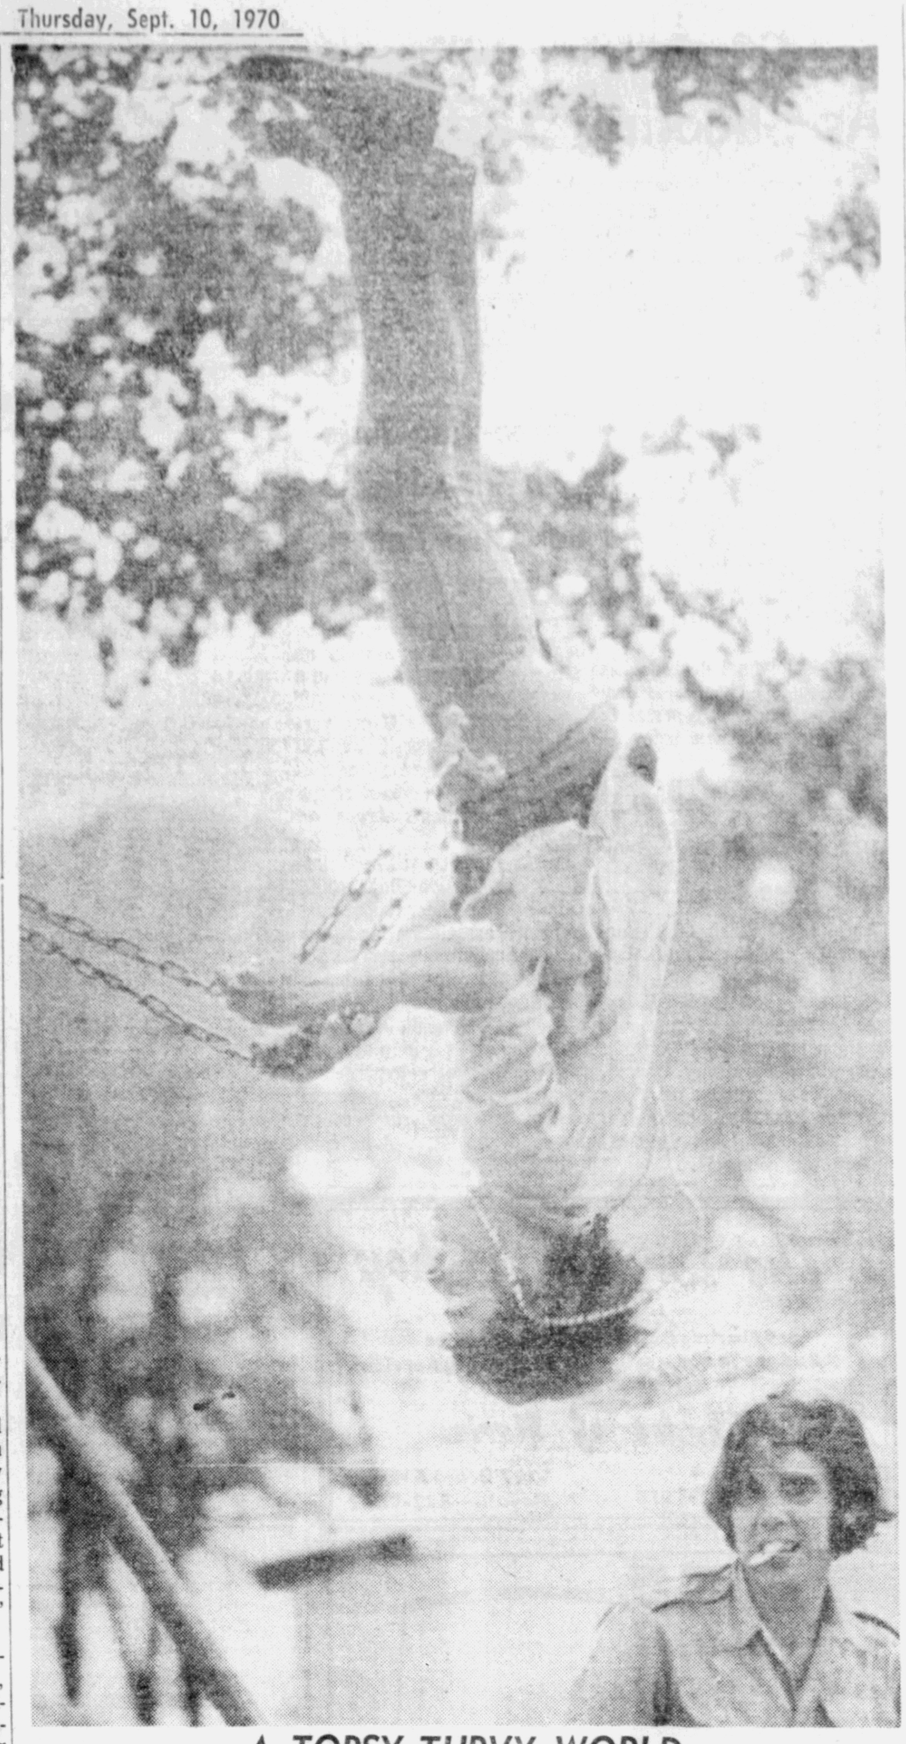

The district's chief administrative officer, D. J. Callaghan, was praised as a "forceful leader" and "an excellent administrator," but criticized for being "less than daring in seeking to advance the district's pollution control program."

In a section dealing with the students' investigation of more than 30 industries, the report said that "industry has moved only so far and as fast as required to by law." It asserted that industry "still has a long way to go before it will be as clean as the community as a whole could wish it."

One local industrialist was quoted as saying: "all that would be gained is an aesthetic improvement, so we don't feel it would be a justifiable investment."

Industry's lobby, the Bay Area League of Industrial Associations, was accused in the report of too much "foot-dragging." The students cautioned that political pressure generated by the current wave of public interest in environmental problems may force industry to clean up much faster than the companies themselves would like.

Controlling emissions from motor vehicles, they said, was a "band-aid approach" to pollution. Instead, short-range vehicles such as bicycles and small, battery-powered cars will be needed to supplement rapid transit — both replacing the dependence on autos.

tiently tried to keep the legal proceeding moving.

Judge McGuire appointed the Marin public defender for Magee since Attorney Ramsey, a young black man, said he did not know yet whether he would represent Magee, now held in the prison adjustment center.

Ramsey explainded to the judge that Magee wants the case tried in federal court, and the judge agreed that there is a possibility of a change of venue, although he did not comment on the federal possibility.

Magee also indicated that he might wish to represent himself at a trial and said, "Don't threaten me with the public defender."

After Judge McGuire continued the arraignment until next Tuesday, Magee, thinner than he was at the time of the shootout, walked from the room and responded to cries of "Power to the people," by shouting, "Beautiful!"

The first 50 persons who wished to enter the prison gate to attend the court session were allowed to do so. The group consisted mostly of young activists with only two blacks present.

Routine court proceedings involving San Quentin inmates have been held at the prison since the Aug. 7 shooting in which three convicts and Judge Haley were killed in an abortive kidnapping escape try.

Guards Use Tear Gas To Move Sirhan

Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, convicted slayer of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, was moved to a disciplinary cell yesterday following an incident yesterday in which tear gas was used to force him from his cell, according to San Quentin Associate Warden James W. L. Park.

The incident occurred, said Park, after Sirhan was refused permission to send a telegram.

"It was not a legal thing relating to his case in our judgment," said Park. "I think the staff did the right thing in refusing his request in this instance." Park would not disclose the contents of the telegram.

Sirhan refused to return his meal tray and eating utensils and was forced out of his cell with tear gas so that the tray and utensils could be recovered, said Park.

"Other than special security provisions, we try to treat him like any other man up there," said Park.

Maddox Ahead In Late Returns

ATLANTA (UPI)—Gov. Lester Maddox inched ahead on the basis of late returns today in his bid for a no-runoff victory for lieutenant governor, and wealthy peanut farmer Jimmy Carter was counting on a similar stretch drive to avoid a runoff in the Democrtic gubernatorial race.

With 1,397 of the state's 2,049 precincts reporting Maddox had 274,144 votes, or 49.3 per cent of the total. He needs 50.1 per cent to avoid a runoff. His nearest rival was incumbent George T. Smith with 192,559 or 34.6 per cent of the vote.

New Outbreaks In Amman Despite Cease-Fire Pact

of the Jordanian army attacked the guerrillas without authorization.

Amman Radio said Premier Abdel Moneim Rifay and Al Fatah leader Yasser Arafat attended today's peace talks. There was no immediate word from the guerrilla sources but Palestinians said earlier Arafat had called for a cease-fire on Wednesday.

Tel Aviv dispatches said Israeli Premier Golda Meir, who goes to Washington next week, would press President Nixon for U.S. action against an alleged Egyptian missile build-up in the Suez Canal Zone.

Dispatches from UPI correspondent David Zenian in Amman on the 10th consecutive day of fighting there said Jordanian army forces renewed the conflict at 4 a. m. today in a brief firefight near the Inter-Continental Hotel where a battle raged Wednesday night.

An hour later, army troops reoccupied a building under construction opposite the hotel. Firing in various sections of Amman with rifles, machine-guns and mortars resumed at 7 a. m. today, then subsided again by midmorning.

Guests at the Inter-Continental Hotel, including many American hostages from two hijacked planes in guerrilla hands, huddled in a nightclub which was converted into a makeshift bomb shelter, Others bedded down in hallways, away from windows.

The hotel took at least 12 hits in the fighting, and bullets splattered plate glass windows in the downstairs area. A mortar shell exploded near the hotel swimming pool.

Bullets struck several cars in the hotel parking lot. One slug punctured the hotel's water supply system, flooding the downstairs lobby and offices. Power was cut for a time; Amman airport was closed.

Guerrillas manned barricades in Amman; army troops established their own checkpoints on the outskirts.

The heaviest fighting Wednesday night was in the building opposite the Inter-Continental. Some guests watched from balconies as guerrillas and army troops fought at close quarters, moving from floor to floor and using hand grenades, small arms and mortars.

In Lonlon, authoritative diplomatic sources quoted official reports from Amman as saying the British chancellery in the city was hit during shooting Wednesday, but that there were no casualties.

The sources said Britain has made contingency plans for evacuating British citizens from Jordan.

HIJACK

miles north of Amman and said the guerrillas had repeated their threat to destroy the planes and passengers and threatened to hijack two El Al Israel planes if Britain does not release a girl guerrilla captured when the Israelis foiled an attempt to hijack an El Al plane Sunday.

Wilkinson said the guerrillas today released 22 persons from the BOAC plane and sent them into Amman—21 Bahreinis and an English girl engaged to a Bahreini. But heavy fighting raged in the streets of Amman between guerrillas and the Jordanian army and the Inter-Continental Hotel itself was hit by gunfire as the refugees huddled in a basement nightclub.

The Red Cross said in Geneva the plight of the refugees on the desert was becoming more and more precarious. It sent in senitary supplies and equipment, cooking facilities, food and medicine but efforts were hampered by the fighting in Jordan.

The International Red Cross was negotiating with the guerrillas on behalf of the United States, Britain, West Germany and Switzerland but again was hampered by the near civil war in Jordan.

A guerrilla communique issued in Jordan announced extension of the deadline but that "the United States and England have to understand that their attitude is not in favor of the safety of the craft.

The communique did not elaborate but it was understood the United States and Britain were seeking guarantees that the scores of Israelis and American Jews held aboard the planes would be released with the nationals of other countries.

The guerillas have made unspecified demands for the release of Arabs held in Israeli jails and at one point were reported demanding the release of 3,000 Arab and guerrilla prisoners. Israel has said it would not negotiate with the guerrillas.

In Bern, Swiss Federal Chancellor Karl Kuher said Switzerland had appealed to the Arab countries to do all they could to support Red Cross efforts to secure the release of the passengers. He said they were told they had a "great moral responsibility in the affairs."

termed "the immerging progressive majority."

The students critique of Gnoss said that he "is generally passive at board meetings, and seldom taken an outspoken position on any issue. An exception was the ban on backyard burning, which Gnoss opposed, apparently due to political pressure from his constitutents in Marin.

"While Gnoss is not a leader, he occasionally provides a crucial swing vote on issues on which the board is divided," student report said.

The students were especially critical of Gnoss's deciding vote which defeated Calvo's proposal for complete disclosure of data on industrial pollution.

The students said that their interview with Gnoss indicated he felt the district progress probably had been too slow, "but he seems unable or reluctant to make any effort to quicken the pace," the students said.

Their report also said that Gnoss "does not appear to keep himself very well informed on matters that come before the board, but drifts along, supported by staff reports and comments from other board members.

The student critique concluded of Gnoss that "his years of useful service to the district are probably past." Gnoss automatically will retire from the air board after he leaves the board of Supervisors next January.

He served as a field judge for many Bay Area dog shows and was a member of Marin Barracks No. 550 of the Veterans of World War I.

Suit Filed In Police Shooting

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The wife of an alleged bank robber shot and killed by a policeman who was moonlighting as a bank teller has filed a $2 million damage suit against the policeman, the city of San Francisco, and the Bank of America.

Mrs. Patricia Brumfield and her two children, Lashawn, 3, and Charles, 18 months, claim Officer William D. Taylor "negligently and carelessly" shot Charles Brumfield last Nov. 7.

The officer was not taught how to use a firearm nor "when to discharge a dangerout firearm," she said, and the bank and the police department should have known he was "prone to use unnecessary physical force."

Higher School Bond Rate To Be On Ballot

The Mill Valley School District, stuck with $760,000 worth of school construction bonds that no one wants to buy, will ask the voters on Tuesday to approve raising interest rates on them.

The bonds, part of a $3.5 million package approved by voters in 1967, remain unsold because buyers in today's inflated market are not interested in purchasing them at only 5 per cent interest, the legal limit.

Voters in Tuesday's election will consider a measure to raise the interest rate to 7 per cent. The bond money would be used to build the planned middle school at Camino Alto and Sycamore Avenue.

ADDS TWO CENTS

On a 20-year redemption period, school officials estimate that the interest increase will add 12 cents per $100 assessed valuation to the tax rate, which now stands at $3.20 per $100. If the bonds had been sold at 5 per cent, the tax rate would have gone up 10 cents. The 2-cent difference would mean a $1.50 a year increase in taxes for the owner of a $30,000 house.

If the measure does not receive the required two-thirds majority, the school district board may have to sell the bonds at 5 per cent over a five-year period. The resultant high interest rate would cost the district about 40 cents per $100, according to Supt. James A. Collins.

COURT ISSUE

Although the California Supreme Court has ruled that the rekuirement for two-thirds approval is contrary to the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney has advised school districts the state court's decision cannot be regarded as final since the issue is before the U.S. Supreme Court. The statutory two-thirds requirement therefore still applies, Maloney said.

The $760,000 worth of bonds includes $260,000 on which trustees asked a similar interest rate hike in June. That attempt failed when only 61 per cent of the voters favored the measure. Trustees then decided to combine the $260,000 with an additional $500,000 in bonds after they called for bids on the latter sum but got no takers.

School officials have predicted that time-consuming delays in the construction of the middle school will result if the bonds are not sold. Ultimately, they say, these days will drive the cost of selling the bonds higher, and the taxpayer will have to foot the bill.

Bennet Flattered By Reagan Dig

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — It's flattering and astounding that Governor Ronald Reagan called him "an enemy of privately-owned business," says William Bennett, of Kentfield, candidate for the State Board of Equalization.

The onetime State Public Utilities Commission member said the governor had opposed his actions that reduced telephone and electric bills for Californians by a total of $60 million.

Neither telephone or electrical firms are "private enterprise," Bennett said. Instead they are publicly-regulated utilities, he added.

Old Adobe To Ask Voters For Hikes

Voters in Petaluma's Old Adobe School District will be asked Tuesday to increase the interest rate on previously approved bond issues and to increase the district's maximum general tax rate from $1.90 to $2.40.

The polling place at La Tarcera School, 1600 Albin Way, will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Supt. Dean D. Magowan said the district has not sold $875,00 in bonds out of a total of $1,250,000 approved by district voters during the last three years, partly because state law set the interest rate at 5 per cent, a limit raised this year, to 7 per cent.

Old Adobe voters will decide whether to increase the rate on the $875,000 worth of bonds to the maximum 7 per cent.

Dr. Lee Panttaja, deputy superintendent of the Sonoma County Office of Education, has informed the district that attorneys report that a two-thirds majority is still required for passage of bond interest increases, because the U.S. Supreme Court has yet to act on a ruling by the California Supreme Court that the two-thirds requirement violates the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. A simple majority is required for the tax rate increase.

Magowan said $130,000 worth of the bonds must be sold this year to qualify for state aid for the planned Miwok Valley School.

If voters aprove the interest rate hike and the bonds are sold, Magowan said, bids on construction of the school will probably be called for in late fall, and the school completed a year to a year and a half later.

In addition to the Miwok Valley School, Magowan said, the bonds must also be sold for the district to keep up with area population growth and he estimated an additional two more new schools will be needed in the near future.

Approval of the higher interest rate, Magowan said, will not increase taxes.

The district is limited by law, he said, to using no more than 40 cents per $100 assessed valuation for redemption of bonds and repayment of state loans.

The 40 cents is already being used, he said, and payment of a higher interest rate on the bonds would increase the number of years it will take the district to pay off the bonds, rather than increasing the rate of payment.

On the same ballot Tuesday, voters will be asked to raise the district's maximum general tax rate from $1.90 to $2.40 per $100 assessed valuation.

The district's total tax rate this year is $2.39 per $100 assessed valuation. The figure includes the maximum $1.90 general tax plus tax overrides for retirement and health plans and repayment of state school building loans.

Magowan said the rate increase is needed to enable the district to keep up with increased operating costs. "There is no other way a district can either maintain or improve its program," he said.

If the increase is approved, he said, the earliest the school district tax could be increased would be fiscal 1971-72.

Probably only a portion of the 50-cent increase would be taxes then, he said.

Resurrection City Flag Burns

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A flag that has flown over Resurrection City near the Lincoln Memorial in 1968 was destroyed Wednesday in a fire at the Smithsonian Institute. The blaze was believed set.

The flag, bearing a portrait of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., was on display in a political history exhibit on the second floor of the museum of history and technology. District of Columbia fire officials say a match or cigarette lighter apparently was touched to the flag. Museum guards extinguished the fire which caused an estimated $50 damage to the ceiling.

Resurrection City was a temporary shanty town set up on the Mall as part of the Poor People's March on Washington.

Influx Of Poor Feared By City

SAN FANCISCO (UPI) — An influx of poor persons would deteriorate life in this city, the San Francisco Planning and Urban Renewal Association declares.

In a report Wednesday, SPUR urged against the immigration of those who would increase the costs of welfare and other public subsidies.

"Any significant increase in San Francisco's population, size, density, or the proportion of residents dependent upon public assistance would lead to a deterioration in the quality of life in our community," the private agency's report said.

The report also urged that a new low or moderate income housing unit be built only if a substandard unit is torn down.

Do something for your environment this weekend!

It's simple. All you do is fill a spreader with Scotts new SUPER TURF BUILDER and take a stroll over your lawn. Super Turf Builder provides twice as much greening power as Scotts famous Turf Builder. It goes right to work on grass or dichondra—makes them green up, thicken up and stay that way longer.

Right now is a great time to spread new Super Turf Builder too. Not only because it will help your lawn "bounce back" from the ravages of summer, but also because it's on special sale now. So this weekend why not join the movement to better the environment? Right in your own front yard.

TO SEA — The future of the ferry service seems assured as tourists and commuters line up for blocks on pleasant Sausalito days to ride the blue and white vessel back into a nostalgic era, before the days of freeways and commuter crushes on the Golden Gate Bridge.

BREAKFAST TOO — Golden Gate concessioneers Jim and Dorothy Cosmos provide a friendly word, along with coffee and doughnuts, to Sal Quezada of San Leandro. Both hungry tourists and commuters who have slept late and skipped breakfast are happy to take advantage of concession goodies which will soon include mixed alcoholic drinks, even on morning runs.

THE GOOD LIFE — Ferry travelers relaxing with cups of coffee or conversation are treated to an unparalleled view of San Francisco and other Bay sights such as Angel Island and the Marin headlands. Card games are already becoming a habit among some Marin commuters, while others use the 25-minute ride as a chance to spread out their papers on a table in the vessel's lounge and complete last-minute work.

LONG LINE — Ferry patrons wait to buy tickets and bus transfers for use at their destination. A round trip on the Golden Gate, which began service Sept. 15, costs $1 with a total cost of $1.50 to those who ride commuter buses from outside Sausalito.

BIG BROTHER — Passengers crowd the Golden Gate's decks as it pulls into Sausalito along the old Ferry Berkeley, a veteran of thousands of Bay trips now used as waterfront shopping center. After disembarking from the ferry, passengers who come from out of town are bussed to their cars, parked in a northern parking lot.

INTO PORT — Captain Charles Holland, one of the Golden Gate's several skippers, keeps a close watch on the dock as the ferry slides into its landing place in San Francisco. Already, passengers and interested spectators are lined up on the docks, perhaps some waiting for their first ferry ride since the service was discontinued in 1940.

WHERE IT IS — This map by Independent-Journal artist Jack Lucey plots the major points, routes and bus stops serving commuters and tourists using the Golden Gate Bridge District's ferry between Sausalito and San Francisco. The Sausalito City Council hopes ferry users will enter the city from the north, to relieve congestion downtown. Parking is available in the lot opposite Nevada Street and just off Harbor Street. Shuttle buses run between there and the ferry dock at the end of Park Street, stopping en route at Nevada, Easterby, Napa, Turney and Johnson streets. There is also shuttle service from Old Town with stops at Second, Valley and Richardson streets.

Curtis Vows To Fight Direct Vote

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., has emerged as the leader in a fight to kill a proposed constitutional amendment for the president to be elected by a direct vote of the people.

Curtis told UPI in an interview he would never agree to let the issue come to a vote until he was sure he had at least 34 votes lined up against it.

It would take two-thirds of senators present and voting to adopt the amendment —67 if all 100 senators are on hand. Such a vote would send it to the states, three-quarters of which, or 38, must ratify before it could become part of the constitution.

PREVENT VOTE

Curtis could prevent the amendment from coming to a roll call vote by asking to speak on the measure before the roll was called. Anyone else could do the same, and it would take a special vote to cut off debate on the issue — something that hasn't happened very often in the Senate.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., chief senate sponsor of the amendment, offered to agree to a vote at any time. "I see no reason why we shouldn't put this to a vote right now," he said. "We've been ready for some time. I see no need for prolonging the debate."

Under the amendment, the Electoral College would be abolished and voters would cast ballots directly for presidential-vice presidential slates. If no slate got at least 40 per cent of the vote, a runoff election between the top two would decide the winner.

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., who opposes the amendment, announced he would propose a change requiring a runoff if no candidate got 50 per cent of the vote.

Eastland, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, said "it is imperative that we make certain that the will of the majority be done, not the will of a minority."

SMALL STATES LOSE

Curtis believes the proposal would weaken the advantage that less populous states now have under the Electoral College system. Under that system, states are allocated electoral votes equal to their total representation in Congress. Thus, because a small state has two senators, the same as large states, it gets an electoral advantage.

Curtis stopped short of promising a filibuster against the amendment. But he conceded his position of not permitting a vote until he was sure he could win amounted to the same thing.

"Time is on our side. The more we debate it, the more senators will be opposed to it. The longer it is debated more of the press and public will come to our side. There is nothing we have to gain by an early vote," Curtis said.

Chrysler Gives UAW Second Contract Offer

DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corp. presented the United Auto Workers with a second contract offer today, less than five days before a possible strike.

General Motors Corp., which together with Chrysler make up the union's twin strike targets, was expected to follow up the Chrysler offer with one of its own in the near future.

Leary added there was no agreement between the company and the union to impose a news blackout—the traditional sign that serious bargaining has begun in automotive negotiations.

"We hope we have the basis for a settlement," Leary told newsmen after presenting the offer to UAW President Leonard Woodcock across the main bargaining table at the company's headquarters.

Woodcock, who unexpectedly showed up at Chrysler this morning, had said that if a new contract offer was made today, it would be "terribly late." But such an offer might still avert a strike against GM or Chrysler or both when the present contracts between the UAW and the Big Three auto makers run out at midnight Monday.

The union had no immediate comment on the company's offer.

Wednesday Woodcock visited the twin strike targets, General Motors and Chrysler Corp., in an effort to "get things moving" to avert a walkout. But he said "unless something radical changes," the auto makers are "stalling themselves into a strike."

Passing Of Fake $1 Bills Is Suspected

Richard C. Lemaster told police he grew suspicious of the bill later when he noted its color and newness.

Police said the bill is a 1935 Series A silver certificate and is possibly the second such bill passed at the ice cream parlor in the last week.

Officers said the bill will undergo tests today to determine if it is counterfeit.

Approval On Sewage Pump Draft Plans

The Ross Valley Sanitary District board last night authorized J. Warren Nute Co. of San Rafael to proceed with drafting plans for a new sewage pumping station in Kentfield.

The pumping station and sewage trunk line on Stadium Way is expected to cost about $350,000 and will be constructed next year, Ralph C. Noah, district manager, reported today.

He also announced a special meeting set last night for Sept. 28 for board consideration of recommended routes for the trunk line, which will extend from the pumping station to Bon Air Shopping Center.

In other action last night, the board approved a resolution deannexing a portion of College Park in Larkspur from the district.

Noah said the action was taken by the district to halt double taxation by the district and the city on about 30 per cent of College Park.

The area deannexed was not being serviced by the district he added, but rather by the City of Larkspur.

43 Cases Of Strep Lead Marin Diseases

Forty-three cases of strep infection and 32 cases of gonorrhea led the list of communicable diseases reported in Marin last week, Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer, has reported.

Also reported were six cases of infectious hepatitis and two cases of salmonella.

Rezoning In Sunny Hills Is Approved

A rezoning request for a small parcel of Sunny Hills property was approved last night by the San Anselmo Planning Commission by a 4-to-1 vote.

Voting against the measure was Commissioner Duane C. Reagan who said the matter should be delayed until adjacent property comes under consideration at the next commission meeting. According to the commission's secretary, Sunny Hills asked last night that the half-acre of land be rezoned from commercial to single family residential. Ragan said adjacent property, which is now zoned residential, as well as the same half-acre, will be considered in two weeks for rezoning to a planned development.

The parcel's zoning split occurred in 1965 when the city approved commercial zoning for the Red Hill Shopping Center at 910 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. A year later, the land was subdivided for the construction of the center and the half-acre, considered last night was not used.

The San Anselmo Planning Commission also:

USE PERMIT — Approved a use permit for Zola Grissell to teach cake decorating classes at her home at 120 Broadmoor Avenue. The commission restricted class sizes to six members in morning and evening classes, two days a week, for two hours each.

SEMINARY — Approved a request from the San Francisco Theological Seminary for relief from off-street parking standards required with the construction of a small education building.

MUNICIPAL CODE — Approved recommended changes in teh city's municipal code governing obstruction of sidewalks and driveways. The changes will now be forwarded to the city council.

PUBLIC HEARING — Set Oct. 5 for a public hearing on the city proposed rezoning of an undeveloped 65 unit subdivision at the end of Sonoma Avenue from planned development to single family residential.

Deputies Will Walk If Attorney Advises

Marin sheriff's deputies, holding out for a 12.5 per cent raise instead of the 7.5 per cent offered by the county, are prepared to walk out if San Francisco attorney Jake W. Ehrlich so advises them.

"We can't rule out a strike," said Sgt. Wade R. Powell of the sheriff's office, who met with Ehrlich yesterday for the second time. He did not disclose what advice the attorney had given him.

"We got some information and we're putting it out to the deputies for a discussion sometime next week." Powell said the deputies plan to meet next Wednesday night at the Hall of Justice. Until then, the men will work as usual. "We have nothing rash planned," said Powell. But if Ehrlich advises a walkout, Powell said the deputies are prepared to take that advice.

Only sheriff's deputies are involved in trying to get Ehrlich's help, not county firemen or communications workers, Powell disclosed. He said Ehrlich is not yet retained, and no fee has been agreed on.

There is no agreement on the total number of safety employees in the county. The county personnel director estimated the total at about 180, including 130 sheriff's deputies, 30 county firemen and about 20 communications workers.

The safety employees estimate the number at 200 or more because they include certain categories like captains, which the personnel office considers outside the safety employees bargaining unit.

$1,400 In Goods Is Stolen From Dryer

A $1,200 ring and $200 in clothing were taken from the dryer at her apartment house, Evelyn Ruby Georgia of 129 Canal Street, Apt. 108, reported yesterday to San Rafael police.

She said that she had left the ring in a pants pocket when the clothing was taken. It was stolen July 30 but not reported until yesterday.

Manufacturing Sales Seen Increasing

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Commerce Department reports the nation's manufacturing firms expect their sales to increase by 3 per cent in the three-month period which ends Sept. 30.

In addition, the department said, the manufacturers foresee another 1 per cent increase during the final three months of 1970. The department said the outlook was based on its surveys.

1971 MERCURY COMET
2 or 4 doors, "6" or V-8.

1971 Mercury Comet (4-door sedan also available)

1. Take the best small-car ideas.
Comet has them all. Easy parking and turning: the 2-door can turn in a circle only 35.6 feet in diameter! Low price: this is Mercury's lowest-priced car. Good gas mileage: rivals imports. Simple servicing: a handy repair manual is available for do-it-yourselfers containing dozens of tips on how to adjust the automatic choke, set idle speed, etc.

2. Add the styling and performance of a bigger car.
Notice the big-car grille with dramatic power dome hood. Big-car luxury, too, with rich, wall-to-wall carpeting. And this Comet gives you a lot of that big-car get up and go. The standard "6" is a 170 cubic inch engine with 100 horsepower. Or you can order two optional "sixes" with 115 or 145 horsepower. Or you can get Comet's biggest engine option, a 302 cubic inch V-8 with 210 horsepower.

3. Result: a better small car.
Comet offers you 3 ways to own a better small car: the 2-door sedan seats four adults, a slightly larger 4-door sedan seats five or there's a GT model with buckets, hood scoop, special GT striping, the works. Options include automatic transmission, vinyl roof, power steering, even air conditioning.

Mobil Oil—A Strong Diverse Company

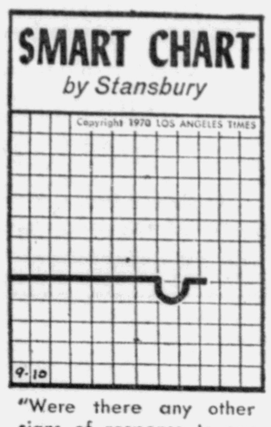

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I would appreciate your comments on Mobil Oil. I accumulated quite a few shares while working for the company. — C.T.

A. Mobil has long been ranked as a high-quality, well-balanced oil company. The fact that it is represented in the North Sea discovery area underscores its vigorous exploration activities which have resulted in Mobil having one of the best-balanced geographic representations in the industry. Mobil is strongly positioned in Europe, with eight refineries, to capitalize on any discoveries on its three blocks offsetting Phillips' Echofish hit. Drilling on the North Slope has produced oil in five test wells up to 3,000 barrels a day. Exploration and drilling are in progress in other petroleum hotspots, including Indonesia, Rainbow Lake and Hudson Bay. For the first half, earnings increased to $2.25 a share from $2.17 on an 8 per cent advance in revenues. Oil stocks have been one of the best-acting groups in an otherwise dull market, reflecting their not-so-bad earnings reports in the second quarter and a possible energy shortage. Shares should be held for growth and reasonable (4.5 per cent) return.

Q. I am a 74-year-old widow; own my home and have $14,000 in the bank. I get $84.30 monthly from Social Security, hold common stock of five companies and need advice desperately. — F.P.

A. Since your total monthly income from all sources is under $125, your desperation is understandable. Other than your savings, you have two large capital investments, your home and your stock. Depending on the real estate values in your area, and expenses involved in running a home as compared with an apartment, you may find property ownership a burden you can ill afford. If you cannot face selling your home, liquidation of your securities would free $13,500 which should be deposited in a savings account. Annual withdrawals from this of $1,200 would give you $31 more in monthly income. Including accrued interest, this portion of your capital would not be exhausted for 16 years.

"Were there any other signs of response to our aggressive back-to-school merchandising program?"

Company To Close Pawtucket Plant

WORCESTER, Mass. (UPI) — Cromption & Knowles Corp. will close its Pawtucket, R.I., plant as a further step to realign its Worcester Division machinery manufacturing operations.

Manufacturing of Jacquard attachments for weaving equipment and needle loom assembly, which has been done in Pawtucket, will be transferred to Worcester and North Carolina plants.

New Bank Leases Space Downtown

Security Pacific National Bank has leased space in downtown San Rafael for its first Marin County office.

The bank will be located at 1242 Fifth Avenue, presently occupied by Coldwell, Banker and Co., which plans on moving to Greenbrae by next month. The lease transaction was negotiated by Coldwell, Banker commercial property salesman J. Ray Van Meter Jr.

The office, which covers more than 4,500 square feet will require remodeling and an opening is not anticipated until later this year.

Security Pacific National was granted a permit by the regional administrator of national banks to locate in the central business district of San Rafael last January. Headquartered in Los Angeles, the bank has branches throughout California and resources of over $7 billion.

Early Trading Shows Prices Backing Off

With a little more than an hour remaining, the Dow Jones industrial average showed a loss of about 4 points at 762.39. Declines outnumbered advances, 795 to 424.

A four-hour turnover of 8,910,000 shares was considerably below the 12,230,000 shares traded during a similar period yesterday.

Chrysler Corp. presented the United Auto Workers with a second contract offer, but UAW president Leonard Woodcock, said "It hasn't filled in much of the gap for settlement . . . we're a long way from home."

Woodcock noted that "unless something radical changes, the automakers are stalling themselves into a strike."

Newton Zinder, analyst for E. F. Hutton & Co., said the market is consolidating some of its recent gain. But he added "it is giving ground quite grudgingly in what seems to be a pretty encouraging performance."

Among the day's most active issues were Occidental Petroleum, Atlantic City Electric, Roan Selection Trust, Natomas, and Xerox.

RST traded an early block of 131,500 shares at 5, up ⅛, while a 125,000-share block of Xerox changed hands at 78, off 2.

Prices were mixed in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

Business Executives, Employees Can Gain From Extension Classes

Business executives and employees will find many seminars, lecture series and evening classes helpful to their work in University of California Extension's fall program.

The schedule includes 30 seminars and lecture programs from Sept. 12 to Dec. 16 and 49 evening classes (most will get under way the week of Oct. 5). Seminars are from one to three days in length, lecture series from six to 10 weeks and evening classes from 10 to 12 weeks.

Bulletins with program descriptions and schedules may be obtained from Continuing Education in Management at the Berkeley extension offices at 2223 Fulton Street or from the Extension Center at 55 Laguna Street, San Francisco.

Early fall seminars deal with real estate investing, executive motivation, time management for executives and secretaries, improving standards and documentation in the computer division, human relations skills for supervisors and managers and pension and profit sharing plans.

Lecture series in San Francisco include decision making techniques for marketing management; semantics, communication and human relations; modern techniques of management; investment analysis and planing; legal aspects of contracting; independent business management; and consumer protection.

Evening classes include accounting, business and labor law, contract administration, credit management, economics, finance and investment, industrial and personnel management, retail management, planning and control, real estate, mathematics and administrative training for secretaries and many other subjects.

PHILLIP L. STEWART of San Francisco has joined the San Rafael office of Dean Witter and Co. as an account executive. Previously he was in sales and marketing for International Telephone and Telegraph Co. Prior to that he was a contract administrator for North American Rockwell.

RICHARD W. WESTWOOD of Novato has been appointed vice president of finance for the Brennan Financial Group, San Francisco.

REDWOOD BANK, San Rafael is displaying the paintings of San Rafael schoolteacher Mrs. Ruth Michaels Noe during the month of September.

FIRST WEEKLY breakfast meeting for the fall season of the Marin County Board of Realtors will be next Tuesday at The Rafters (Edgewater Inn Restaurant). Robert D. Dolman is program chairman.

JOHN J. RYAN of San Rafael has been appointed general sales manager of Tahoe Condominium Sales, Inc. Previously he was a divisional manager of a Transamerica-owned land development project. He came to the Bay Area six years ago from Boston where he owned his own real estate firm and had a weekly Irish variety radio show.

Ryan

Newman

ALLAN M. NEWMAN of San Rafael has been named vice-president in charge of radio programming for Golden West Broadcasters. He joined the chain's San Francisco station, KSFO, in 1959 and has been program director there since 1961. He will continue to maintain headquarters at KSFO while working in the development and coordination of programming for all of Golden West's four stations. Prior to joining KSFO he headed a Chicago production company developing live and filmed presentations for industrial shows.

MOTORCRAFT: The Vintage Chevrolet Club of America will hold its California meeting Saturday and Sunday at the Golden Tee Resort in Morro Bay. Owners of pre-1942 Chevrolet cars are invited to bring them to the meet (this is not a vintage car show). Prizes will be awarded in several categories.

Refinery To Meet Ecology Standards

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cities Service Co. has begun construction of new facilities to produce fuel oils and coke it said will meet the most stringent environmental standards now foreseen.

The facilities, which will cost $7,500,000, are being added to the company's Lake Charles La. refinery. One is a 25,000 barrels per day fuel oil desulfurizer, while the other will be an expansion of an existing unit that makes low-sulfur metallurgical coal.

TODAY'S LATE NEW YORK STOCK PRICES

OVER, AROUND AND DOWN IT WENT

FOR FALL GRIND

Agnew On Campaign Swing; Muskie, Too

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI)— Vice President Spiro T. Agnew accused congressional Democrats today of "a whimpering isolationism in foreign policy, a mulish obstructionism in domestic policy, and a pusillanimous pussyfooting on the critical issue of law and order."

"Your country just cannot afford any more ultra-liberals in the United States Senate," Agnew said in a speech prepared for a party rally here kicking off an intensive campaign schedule for the vice president in behalf of Republican candidates.

"There was a time," Agnew said, "when the liberalism of the old (Democratic) elite was a venturesome and fighting philosophy —the vanguard political dogma of a Franklin Roosevelt, a Harry Truman, a John Kennedy.

"But the old firehorses are long gone. Today's breed of radical-liberal posturing about the Senate is about as closely related to a Harry Truman —as a chihuahua is to a timber wolf."

Campaigning on behalf of Sen. Ralph T. Smith, who is in a tough race with Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III, Agnew said: "Ultra-liberalism today translates into a whimpering isolationism in foreign policy, a mulish obstructionism domestic policy, and a pusillanimous pussyfooting on the critical issue of law and order.

After criticizing congressional Democrats on a number of familiar issues, Agnew said in his text:

"If any of you are regular readers of the liberal eastern press — the organ grinders of the old elite — you will probably read on your editorial pages tomorrow, 'The terrible Mr. Agnew has done it again.'

"Don't let this bother you as, assuredly, it does not bother me. When you have been head-to-head with our Korean ally for six hours of tough negotiation — you are not likely to be stampeded off the range by an editorial writer for the Washington Post.

"Let them run right up the wall. We are going to be out with the other 'happy warriors' on the campaign trail this fall —roasting marshmallows along the way."

For his six-day, six-state swing to the Midwest, Far West and Southwest on behalf of Republican candidates, Agnew got a sendoff from President Nixon at the White House.

Agnew will be acting as the White House chief spokesman in the campaign aimed at overcoming or at least reducing Democratic majorities in the House and Senate. Nixon told Agnew as the two posed smilingly for photographers that he faced some "long days" between now and election day.

Nixon apparently will limit himself to a few spot appearances during the campaign, with Agnew carrying the load.

The Democrats also launched one of their brightest stars, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, on a campaign tour, beginning tonight in Pennsylvania and followed by a cross-country jet trip that will have him dogging Agnew's footsteps in some cases.

Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien, also on a two-month campaign tour, spoke at a Chicago rally this afternoon for Stevenson.

O'Brien said more Democrats like Stevenson are needed in Congress to provide forward-looking policies that he said the Nixon administration lacks.

O'Brien spoke Wednesday in Kansas City, charging that Agnew was making his campaign forays while neglecting official duties in Washington.

Smith is one of several Republican senators facing hard struggles that Agnew was trying to help. He also will be concentrating on states where Democratic senators are in trouble.

From Springfield, Agnew's entourage will fly to Casper, Wyo. for a fund-raiser rally, followed by a fund-raising dinner in San Diego Friday.

After a weekend off, Agnew campaigns in Las Vegas Monday, New Mexico Tuesday, and Michigan Wednesday.

In four of the six states, Republicans are trying to unseat Democratic senators as part of their quest to pick the seven seats that would give them control of the Senate.

In Wyoming, Republican Rep. John Wold is giving up his House seat to challenge Sen. Gale W. McGee; in Nevada, William Raggio, 44, goes against Sen. Howard W. Cannon; in New Mexico, party chairman Anderson Carter meets Sen. Joseph M. Montoya; and in Michigan, Lenore Romney is paired against Sen. Philip A. Hart.

While Agnew's campaign embraces all Republican candidates in the states he visits, Muskie is making more selective appearances on behalf of specific candidates.

Tonight, the 1968 Democratic vice presidential candidate and possible 1972 presidential contender, goes to Lackawanna County to campaign for gubernatorial candidate Milton Shapp.

Then, next Wednesday as Agnew completes his swing, Muskie will campaign for Stevenson in Chicago; on Sept. 17 for gubernatorial candidate Robert Straub in Portland, Ore., and senatorial candidate John V. Tunney in San Francisco.

On the following day, Sept. 18, Muskie will be in Los Angeles to campaign for Jesse Unruh, running against Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Muskie has at least two other trips scheduled in September and possibly a third for Hart in Michigan.

On Sept. 22, Muskie will campaign for Sen. Harrison Williams in Middlesex County, N.J., and on the 25th for Howard Metzenbaum, running for the Senate in Ohio.

Annexation Of School Is Approved

The 10-acre San Pedro School on South San Pedro Road, opposite Loch Lomond, will be allowed to annex to the city of San Rafael for city fire and police protection.

The Marin County local agency formation commission last night approved the annexation by unanimous vote.

The commissioners also approved the annexation to Novato Sanitary District of a 160-acre parcel where a regional shopping center and 1,100 units of townhouses and apartments are planned.

The property is on the west side of Highway 101 on both sides of San Marin Drive and is owned by Standard Growth Properties Incorporated and Humble Oil and Refining Co. The shopping center will go on the north side of San Marin Drive, and townhouses, apartments and offices on the south side.

The local agency formation commissioners also:

PAGANINI POINT — Approved the annexation of 4.65 acres at Paganini Point in East San Rafael, between Bellevue Avenue and Bay Way, to the city of San Rafael. William J. Purdy of Burlingame wants to use this and an adjoining 27 acres, already in the city, as a planned community of homes.

MARION AVENUE — Approved the annexation of 1.25 acres at the corner of Marion Avenue and Eighth Street in Novato to the Novato Sanitary District. Owners are William P. and Mary Ann Tarrant.

TIBURON — Granted Irving V. Moulin permission to annex 20 acres near the top of Tiburon Ridge, north of Mount Tiburon Unit 2, to the Tiburon Sanitary District. The owner plans to develop one-family homes.

HOOPES ANNEX — Granted L. Scott Hoopes and John Allen, both of San Francisco, permission to detach their properties on the ridge between San Rafael and Greenbrae, from San Rafael Sanitation District and annex to the Ross Valley Sanitary District. The properties total 2.01 acres.

FIRE DISTRICT — Continued until Oct. 14 the proposed formation of a Marin County Fire Protection District for all areas not served by cities or special fire districts. Commissioner Roy Farrington Jones of Ross asked for a delay so that he can get the views of various fire chiefs. Commissioners who attended last night were Chairman Hugh C. Marchant of Kentfield, supervisors Louis H. Barr and Michael Wornum, Jones, and J. Wayne Womack of Novato.

Car Stolen

A 1969 model car, valued at $2,750, was taken between 9:30 p.m. yesterday and 1:15 a.m. today from the Montecito Shopping Center parking lot, owner John Dansby of 420 Canal Street, Apt. 14, San Rafael, reported to police. The license on the white car is 793-AMX.

Striking Teachers Close More Schools

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Philadelphia's 290,000 public school children were on an extended vacation today because of a teachers strike. So were thousands of children across the nation as teachers kept school boards working on 'rithmetic — higher-pay demands.

Nearly 96,000 Michigan students stayed out of school as 4,500 teachers across the state were on strike. Teachers strikes also were in progress in Toledo, Ohio; Hammond, Ind.; Niagara Falls, N.Y.; Nashua, N.H.; East St. Louis, Ill.; and at least six Connecticut cities.

Today was to have been opening day for Philadelphia school children, but the school board ordered the city's 270 public schools closed until a settlement was reached with the Philadelphia Federation of Teachers over a new contract. The union called the board's closing of schools a lockout.

Philadelhpia's 13,000 teachers were to have reported Tuesday for two days of preparation. The chief issues are salaries — the board had offered a $17 million increase package and the union wanted $24.3 million— the length of the high school day, retroactivity of any pay hike, teacher accountability and absenteeism.

The state's ninth-largest city, Kalamazoo, had 1,070 teachers and 19,000 students absent. The Michigan Education Association reported Wednesday five districts had reached contract agreements, leaving 70 districts without contracts.

A judge Wednesday granted a restraining order against the Hammond (Ind.) Teachers Association strike. Fifty to 75 per cent of the city's 1,050 teachers stayed out of classes. Other teachers and administrative personnel held classes for most of the 23,800 students.

About 2,500 teachers struck the Toledo school system Wednesday, the first day of school for 61,000 students, to enforce their demand for pay raises. The teachers wanted a $7,000 starting salary with a top of $18,000. They rejected the board's offer of $5,800 to $12,000.

Up to 35 per cent of Niagara Falls' 1,000 teachers struck Wednesday in defiance of a court order but most classes were opened to the 17,000 students.

Strikes closed schools in the Connecticut cities of Bristol and Milford and classes were let out early in Middletown. Teachers voted to strike in New Haven and East Haven and the high school at Somers was closed to 750 students. Teachers in seven other Connecticut cities were without contracts.

Teachers in Nashua, N.H., ignored a court injunction and continued the second week of a strike but classes were underway in the city's 14 schools as volunteers and substitutes taught.

East St. Louis' 22,000 students were out of school as 1,150 teachers continued a strike that began last week. Ninety teachers and 1,500 students were out because of a strike at Eldorado, Ill.

Nearly 200 teachers were on an extended summer vacation at Tallmadge, Ohio, Wednesday after voters rejected one of two operating levels.

The first three Presidents elected after the Civil War — Grant, Hayes and Garfield — were Ohio natives.

Unidentified Body Found Shot On Span

The body of a young man believed to have shot himself was found at midspan of the Golden Gate Bridge yesterday, the California Highway Patrol reported today.

The unidentified man, thought to be about 25, was found slumped over the railing of the east walkway at 1:24 p.m. by officers who were alerted by a woman motorist.

The body was taken to Harbor Emergency Hospital in San Francisco, where a doctor said he apparently had shot himself with a pistol, possibly a .38-caliber. A bullet hole was found below his right ear.

No weapon was found at the scene, however, and officers speculated that it fell into the bay.

The man wos described as five feet five inches tall, 125 pounds, with blue eyes and brown hair. He was wearing a light blue sweatshirt and brown jacket. In his pocket was $28 in cash and on his wrist was a gold watch. No note was found.

New Zealanders To Perform Dance

Featuring eight Maori dancers, the National Band of New Zealand will conclude the Marin Music Chest summer concert series Sunday at 3 p.m. at Forest Meadows, Dominican College, in San Rafael.

The program will range from Hungarian Rhapsody Two by Lizst and Journey into Freedom by Eric Ball to Tschaikowsky's 1812 Overture and John Philip Souza's "Stars and Stripes Forever."

Parking will be available in the Coleman School grounds behind the stage.

New Trustees On Kentfield Board

The Kentfield Fire Protection District board last night named two new trustees, bringing the number to five.

Appointed were R. J. Mullen of 21 Oak Knoll Road in Kentfield and H. K. Trembley of 14 McAllister Avenue, Kentfield.

The fire district trustees also decided to make more refinements in specifications for a new pumper truck before letting bids.

The board also approved purchase of a $60 speaker for one of their pickup trucks and accepted a bid of $325 from John Thoelecke of 25 Alta Mira Avenue, Kentfield, for a 1961 pickup truck the fire district is selling.

Degeneracy Of Nations Revealed By Kidnapings

The kidnap-hijacking of three airliners by Palestinian guerrillas has served to bring sharply into focus the mawkish degeneracy that has weakened the fiber of national governments.

The guerillas took it upon themselves to seize the planes and hold almost 300 passengers as hostages for the release of fellow outlaws who had been nabbed in acts of banditry.

What followed shocks the senses quite as much as kidnaping themselves. Governments of Switzerland and West Germany quickly agreed to release prisoners charged with felonies in return for the release of the kidnap victims. Great Britain at first turned down the blackmail coldly, but was pressed by the Swiss and Germans to join in yielding. Israel likewise was pressed to free guerrilla prisoners it has captured. The United States, with no prisoner to release but with American citizens among the kidnap victims, reportedly was attempting to mediate.

Here we had a band of outlaws operating so boldly that it made no attempt to hide its actions or the location of he seized planes. A reporter from United Press International drove to the desert airstrip and talked with some of the victims. The location was in Jordan.

IS WHAT the guerrillas did different from what some San Quentin prisoners and their accomplices tried to do at the Marin County Hall of Justice last month? We see little difference.

Yet we have the spectacle of sovereign nations yielding to the blackmail "to save lives"!

Charles A. Lindbergh yielded to blackmail by paying $50,000 to save the life of his son — but his son died. The parents of Peter Levine paid $125,000 to save his life — but he died. Ransom of $200,000 was paid for the release of Bobby Greenlease — but he died. There have been plenty of other cases where the futility of yielding to blackmail has been proved.

A LONG TIME AGO, on May 18, 1904, a similar band of North African outlaws, Riffs headed by a chief named Raisuli, kidnaped Jon Perdicaris, an American citizen, from a villa near Tangier in Morocco President Theodore Roosevelt ordered a battle cruiser of the Mediterranean fleet to steam for Tangier. Secy. of State John Hay dispatched a note to the sultan of Morocco that said simply: "Perdicaris alive or Raisuli dead!"

Perdicaris was freed. The battle cruiser turned around and rejoined the fleet.

The guerrillas are outlaws in Jordan, as the Riffs were outlaws in Morocco. Their whereabouts certainly is known to the Jordanian government. Yet in the strange moral climate of the 1970s, nobody apparently even considered serving King Hussein with a demand such as the U.S. served on the sultan of Morocco 66 years ago. Instead, we had the spectacle of two sovereign nations begging that other sovereign nations join them in paying blackmail to the kidnapers.

If the world is to be ruled by blackmail, we may as well forget all pretense of civilization, law and order.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Game Of Topical Legislating Sometimes Is Booby-Trapped

By JACK COOPER

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Legislators seem to develop more faith in the efficacy of legislation than most of us citizens are able to share.

On occasion, though, it appears that their trust may lie less in the effect of their legislation than in the attraction to news editors of a Sacramento sidebar to a good story that happened elsewhere.

The game and the parachute jump took place on New Year's Day, of course.

AND EQUALLY of course, when the Legislature convened four or five days later, one of our eagle-eyed lawgivers was ready with a bill to put a stop to this.

Some of us considered that there must have been something already on the books to meet this fell situation — walking on the grass, dropping a packaged substance from a plane, mopery with intent to gawk.

But the bill was topical and our shrewd solon made the papers all over the state. Even the sports pages in some cases.

It was irreverently suggested that he missed in the comic sections, but he didn't care. His name had been spelled right.

THE GAME is to see who can be first in the hopper with a bill reflecting the latest headlines. There are no second and third places. The first one in takes the only prize. News editors are funny that way, too.

Once is a while this harmless pasttime backfires and the fun-loving player gets burned — as in the case this session of Assemblyman Don Mulford, R-Oakland, who seems to have been in several editorial backfires lately.

MURFORD SOUGHT to capitalize on a riotous city council meeting early this year in Berkeley in which some 300 believers in the much-overworked concept of participatory democracy shouted down the local lawmakers as they tried to conduct the city's business.

He introduced AB 981, which would allow the council under such circumstances to clear the public from its chambers and get on with arranging for getting the streets swept, the garbage collected, or whatever.

In accordance with the American tradition that somebody'd better keep an eye on the proceedings lest the city hall disappear by tomorrow, he provided that newspaper reporters could remain.

A Senate committee amended the bill to provide that the council could throw the reporters out too, and Mulford accepted the amendment when AB 981 came back to the Assembly.

SO NOW Mulford has all the news editors in the state on his neck, and we suspect the governor isn't too happy about having the bill on his desk.

Just as though without AB 981 the Berkeley police couldn't have used the tried-and-true charges of distrubing the peace or destruction of city property.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

Radie Harris reports that Noel Coward's favorite parlor game these days consists of fitting names of VIPs into famous books, plays or story titles. Example: "U Thant Take It With You"; "I'll Be Don Ameche in a Taxi, Honey"; "Ina Claire Day You Can See Forever." Now that you have the idea, how's for dreaming up a few on your own?

An investor, deeply troubled about the state of the country's economy, sought help from the town's most prestigious crystal-gazer. "I'd like to talk with the famous Mr. Kahn" he confided. "Make yourself at home," she nodded, nd few moments later, after some tinkling of bells, and a banjo or two floating through the air, a deep voice intoned, "I am the only man who ever conquered all of China and India."

Puzzled, the investor asked, "What's he talking about? Is that the great banker, Otto Kahn?" "I'm very sorry," apologized the crystal-gazer. "I thought you wanted Genghis Khan!"

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

I hold that if the Almighty had ever made a set of men that should do all the eating and none of the work, He would have made them with mouths only and no hands; and if He had ever made another class that He intended should do all the work and no eating, He would have made them with hands only and no mouths. — Abraham Lincoln.

A slum cannot be destroyed merely by knocking down buildings. It will arise elsewhere, worse than before. — Sen Edward W. Brooke.

Many people, though not all, will be deterred from serious crimes if they believe that justice is swift and sure. Today no one thinks that it is. — Justice Warren E. Burger.

Differs On What Happened In Court

It was stated in your Sept. 1 issue that I interrupted the court when in fact I was not only on the court calendar but was called to present my motion, which the public defender stated to the court I was quite capable of and had done so on several occasions in the past.

Also the motion was incorrectly called. It was not a "motion to dismiss" but a motion to transfer to court of proper jurisdiction, the U.S. District Court.

I would appreciate this correction being made.

Liberated Woman Can Remain Feminine

I applaud the article on women in today's (Sept. 7) Independent-Journal by Mr. T. N. Alexakos. It is gratifying, in this day and age, when women are fighting so strongly for their rights, to have them so well and gallantly portrayed.

However, while I try to understand the aims and policies of the Women's Liberation Movement, I do not condone their method of operation, nor the crude manner they often use to put their operation into effect. While their goal of equal treatment in employment, and equal pay for a job well performed, is commendable, surely, wearing men's attire and using profane language is but a belittlement of their female status, of which they should be proud, and invading the private domain of a man's drinking establishment can but be considered childish.

. . . Now that women are realizing their capabilities, and invading all fields of endeavor that once were considered exclusive male provinces, I am sure we may look for major accomplishments by them also in these aforementioned fields.

These accomplishments need not in any way detract from a woman's femininity, or make her less attractive to the opposite sex, merely raise her in his estimation as a person of equal intelligence, not endeavoring to compete with him for a superior position, but merely to take her place by his side, a separate but equal personality.

Creek Development Solution Proposed

Halting construction along the north side of Corte Madera Creek by the Larkspur City Council for 30 days to permit "study of construction impact on creekside ecology" is ridiculous in this conservationist's opinion. It is doubtful if it can be more than just delay, legally speaking.

What could be a happy solution to the objections of various conservation bodies desiring access to the water would be for the owners of the present open spaces (Schultz Building Co.) to donate a lot or two, thus providing public access to the creek as a parking lot for the boat trailers desiring use of a state park provided boat launching ramp.

The gardens of projected apartments facing lengthy Elisio Drive would be a desirable community embellishment as well as tax revenue producers.

Highway Fund Debate: New Approach Needed

(Reprinted from Washington Evening Star)

With the interstate highway system almost three-fourths completed, the country is edging into a major debate over transportation priorities. A change of course may be and certainly should be in the making.

Most Americans, even those far out on the prairies, know that the main domestic assignment is dealing with the seam-bursting cities. They know that the real transportation dilemmas are in the urban sectors, where people and automobiles have conglomerated almost to the point of strangulation.

That this nation-wide awareness exists was illustrated by the surprising resolution recently adopted by the nation's governors, assembled in Missouri. Reversing an earlier position, they advocated legislation permitting the states to spend some of their federal highway money for non-road projects, such as rapid transit systems. This mortified the powerful "highway lobby," which holds that there is an inviolatle commitment on the Highway Trust Fund.

BUT THERE IS a discomforting question: When will the vehicle saturation point be reached in those congested and polluted sections in which most of the population now resides? If the number of automobiles really doubles in the next decade, as some forecasters predict, what will be done with all of them? Construction of enough paved thoroughfares to accommodate twice the current traffic is unacceptable for reasons relating to the environment, safety and sanity. The interests of motorists will be far better served by holding the vehicular inventory within reasonable bounds than by concreting half the country. Systems for transporting urbanites and suburbanites en masse, swiftly and comfortably, are the only alternative to street and highway chaos.

The case for a single transportation trust fund (excluding aviation) is compelling, and there is no sound reason why it should not draw income both from user taxes and general revenues. Presently authorized highway commitments of course should be met, and road requirements should not be neglected. None of the trust money should go to endeavors that are not related to transportation.

TRANSPORTATION Secretary Volpe favors retention of the Highway Trust Fund system of allocations to the states, but he would add the authority for states to spend perhaps 15 per cent of the funds for non-road programs, including rapid transit. This approach has more merit than Sen. Jennings Randolph's legislation . . . which would remove some spending prohibitions, but still would withhold the trust money from new rapid transit projects.

A bolder, broader formula is required for progress toward a balanced transportation system, and we hope it will be advanced by Secretary Volpe.

Government Spending's Effect On Population Shown In Maine

NEWAGEN, Maine — The summer visitors are going south in flocks like birds of passage, and the rockbound coast is once again left to the lobster men and the fishing boats. While tourism provides more than 40 per cent of all jobs in the private sector, thoughtful citizens are more and more concerned that this state cannot earn its way by summer visitors and winter skiers.

In the decade of the '60s, Maine was one of a half-dozen states that either stood still in population or grew so imperceptibly as hardly to count. The net increase was 7,995 souls, or .8 of one per cent, bringing the total to 977,260, according to the preliminary estimate in the '70 census.

THE DECADE just ended has shown the power of the federal government to determine population trends, and nowhere is that demonstrated more dramatically than here.

The drama at the moment is in Washington, with the state's senior senator, Margaret Chase Smith, in a barely controlled rage at the rejection, if not the downright double-crossing, of her state. What set off her fury was the award of a $2.1 billion contract for 30 destroyers to Litton Industries in Mississippi.

It happens, of course, that Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi is chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee. It happens, too, that the lady from Maine is the ranking Republican on the armed services committee, and if the Democrats should lose control of the Senate in November, she would be chairman, with all the power of that office to stop or advance the Pentagon's new weapons systems.

NOT ONLY DID the 30 destroyers go to Mississippi rather than to Maine's shipyards, the Bath Iron Works, but Senator Smith charges that the bidding was rigged. On July 1 she wrote a letter to the attorney general setting forth her allegation in strong language. Not until 41 days later, after a second letter and two telephone calls did she receive a reply from the Department of Justice informing her there was no basis for an investigation into the charges.

On the Senate floor, she quoted reports from the comptroller general and the General Accounting Office that the Navy apparently had given no consideration to alternative bids or to the possible advantage of having the destroyers constructed in more than one shipyard.

THE DEMOCRATIC governor, Kenneth M. Curtis, in this once rockribbed Republican state, prodded the legislature into passing a state income and corporate tax. As a result, Curtis is in bad trouble.

The two new taxes returned in 1969 (the first year they were imposed) $26.5 million. Yet even with a 5 per cent sales and use tax on top of this that brought a record $83 million last year, the state is hard pressed for the kind of money that might go to attract new industries and open up vast areas of unused forest land.

California, in the decade of the '60s, had a growth rate of 25.3 per cent. The aero-space and the aircraft industries, largely financed by the federal government, built up a new complex of cities and suburban satellites. And while both these industries are currently in trouble with a fairly high rate of unemployment, they were a large factor in the growth of the most populous state in the union.

With Maine's 5,500,000 visitors concentrated largely in the southern coastal counties, the threat of overdevelopment and pollution is great. At the same time, in the interior it is estimated 200,000 persons live below the poverty level. This is poverty that the visitors never see as they enjoy the rugged beauty of the shore until, at the first hint of fall, they migrate southward.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Land Seizures Pose New Threat To Indian Regime

By PHIL NEWSOM, UPI Foreign News Analyst

Mrs. Indira Gandhi, prime minister of India, disapproved. So did President Varahgiri Venkata Giri. So did the chief ministers of all of India's 17 states.

To a visiting group of 150 American professors and school teachers Mrs. Gandhi described India's land-grab movement as "unconstitutional and undemocratic." Certain political parties, she declared, were trying to outdo each other by adoption of undesirable methods.

There had been, she admitted, some delay in implementation of land reforms.

THE PRIME minister's mild manner and speech scarcely described the movement sweeping across close to a dozen Indian states where landless peasants were carrying out one of the largest land grabs in Indian history.

SPONSORED by the pro-Moscow branch of the Communist party and later joined by two socialist groups, the demonstrators seized tens of thousands of uncultivated acres owned either by absentee landlords or the government.

By the end of August, police had jailed more than 20,000 of the demonstrators, including members of Parliament.

Demonstrations had begun in West Bengal in mid-July and spread from there. It was not, however, a problem new to India.

IN 1948, one year after India achieved independence, a farmers' revolt in what then was Hyderabad state sought to drive out the big landlords and redistribute their lands.

In 1967, near the West Bengal village of Naxalbari, peasant extremists aligned with the Peking branch of India's Communist movement, staged a short but bloody revolt against rural "class enemies."

Land reform is but one of the many problems India has not been able to solve in 23 years of independence.

The extreme poverty of the cities and the countryside, the caste system, and linguistic and religious conflicts present just as great a problem now as in 1947.

LAND REFORM in India falls under the authority of the state governments rather than New Delhi, with 30 acres the usual ceiling on the amount one person can hold legally.

But the laws have been poorly enforced, one reason being that the Congress party which has dominated Indian political life since independence, draws most of its financial support from the landowning class.

The mounting popularity of the peasant revolts has the government worried on two counts.

One is the danger of a total breakdown in law and order should the demonstrations be permitted to continue.

The other is that national elections are coming up in 1972 and whether Mrs. Gandhi likes it or not she cannot ignore the fact that the poor and landless make up the largest bloc of Indian voters.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Sept. 10, 1960

More than 3,500 officers and airmen at Hamilton Air Force Base participated in the "Sky Shield" air defense exercise, and all civilian aircraft was grounded throughout the U.S. for six hours during the night.

Ah! Imperishable, Romantic Love! Place Your Bet It Won't Last

MARTHA'S VINEYARD, Mass. — The British are now considering a plan to provide women with divorce insurance. The idea is that since marriage is getting more hazardous all the time, women should be protected in case their husbands can't support them and the children after the marriage is dissolved.

If the plan is adopted and is successful, there is no reason why divorce insurance in the United States would not become a big thing.

This is how it might work

AN INSURANCE agent for the Niagara Falls Marriage Casualty and Life Insurance Co. would scan the engagement notices of his local newspaper. Then he would select a likely prospect, perhaps Miss Mary Philpott of Roxbury, Conn., who has just announced her engagement to Mr. Seymour Rocks of Philadelphia.

The agent would call on Miss Philpott with a bouquet of red roses.

"Miss Philpott, I read in the newspaper this morning that you are going to marry Mr. Seymour Rocks, and I wish to offer my heartiest congratulations."

"Oh, thank you. I'm so happy, I'm flying. Who did you say you were?"

"Nate Bienstock of the Niagara Falls Marriage Casualty and Life Insurance Co.," he says, handing her his card.

MISS PHILPOTT says, "Thank you very much, but I don't need any life insurance."

"I'm not selling life insurance, Miss Philpott. I'm selling divorce insurance."

"You've come to the wrong person," Miss Philpott giggles. "Seymour and I will be married forever."

"Forever? Are you so certain?"

"Of course I'm certain. We're madly in love, hopelessly, endurably, unforgettably."

"MISS PHILPOTT, for your sake I truly and sincerely hope that everything you say is true. But our statistics, kept up to date by our own computers, show that your marriage has one chance in three of being dissolved in the next seven years."

"Not my marriage, Mr. Bienstock. Not with a wonderful man like Seymour."

"But you're only seeing the good side of Seymour now. Wait until you're married. Miss Philpott, in every Seymour Rocks, there's a Joe Namath screaming to get out: a Seymour who will spend his evenings with the boys, a Seymour who will sit every weekend watching football on television, a Seymour longing and yearning for his carefree bachelor days. This divorce insurance policy was written for that Seymour, not the one who put a diamond ring on your finger."

MISS PHILPOTT is almost in tears.

"Seymour is forever," she cries.

"That's what Liz Taylor said about Eddie Fisher, Miss Philpott, that's what Zsa Zsa Gabor said about Conrad Hilton, and that's what Jean Peters said about Howard Hughes."

"But how can I buy divorce insurance before I'm even married?" Miss Philpott asks.

"That is what your Niagara Falls Casualty agent is here for. To help you plan ahead. Now, we have some very good all-inclusive policies, including one in case you break up in a foreign country."

"How much divorce insurance should I get?" Miss Philpott asks, sobbing.

"Well, from what you've told me about Seymour being such a swinger and scoundrel, I'd advise you to take the maximum."

U.N. Set For Silver Jubilee —A Tarnished Anniversary?

LONDON — The United Nations, created 25 years ago, is celebrating its silver jubilee this year amid growing awareness of the minimal role the organization plays in world politics today.

The successes and failures of the past 25 years are being recalled, but, more than anything, the 126 members of the United Nations are asking: What kind of organization have we created?

It is an organization that operates only by the grace of its members. They use it at will and ignore it at convenience. Perhaps the saddest thing is that many of the international agreements of recent years —the Partial Test Ban Treaty, the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty, etc.—have been reached outside the United Nations and have come here only for a final blessing.

U Thant, who has held the thankless job of U.N. Secretary-General for the past nine years, has warned of a "crisis of commitment" to the United Nations. In a speech in Ottawa, he complained that "too many nations still regard the United Nations as peripheral to their foreign policies."

"They tend to evaluate it according to its possible uses in advancing their own goals rather than the central instrument for forging solutions to world problems in concern with the rest of the community," he said.

For this reason the special session commemorating the U.N.'s twenty-fifth anniversary between Oct. 19 and 24 has taken on an extra symbolic significance. As many as 80 heads of state and government should be in New York during that week and the United Nations will be the scene of the biggest summit gathering in history.

Today the U.N. reflects a world of big power politics, where the mass of developing countries can do little to influence the course of human events. And only a reduction of national sovereignty can improve this situation.

The United Nations was born 25 years ago as the creature of the World War II allies, but it was dominated by the West, and above all by the United States. The United Nations became an instrument of American foreign policy, with the built-in majority of Latin American and West European countries in the General Assembly guaranteeing approval of Washington's will. In the Security Council, the Soviet Union used its right of veto almost 100 times in the first 15 years of the organization's existance.

But in the 1960s the tables turned and Moscow's constant campaign for the independence of the African and Asian colonies won it increasing support in the General Assembly and forced the isolation of the western powers on the perennial issue of colonialism in Africa.

The vast majority of the members of the United Nations have now come to realize that their interests lie wtih allegiance neither to Washington nor to Moscow.

This majority forced America and Russia to revise their Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty and many countries have refused or been reluctant to sign what they felt was a treaty to "denuclearize the non-nuclear states." Last year this same majority told the United States and the Soviet Union to rewrite their draft treaty to denuclearize the sea-bed to take account of the interests of the developing world.

In the U.N. Sea-Bed Committee, the developing countries have gathered together again to defend their interests against states that have greater technical know-how but fewer natural resources. They are insisting that the vast untapped areas of the ocean remain the "common heritage" of mankind to be exploited by an international regime for the benefit of all.

In fact, the Soviet Union and the United States have recognized they can no longer manipulate the U.N.'s Silent Majority and have chosen to deal with each other outside the auspices of the organization.

The preference of the big powers to settle their economic and political differences outside the United Nations has led to a serious downgrading of its objectives—what Brazil's U.N. Ambassador Joao Augusto de Araujo Castro has called "a stagnation of initiatives and a careful freezing of the expectations of the overwhelming majority of mankind."

The main concern of this majority is development, yet it sees the United Nations sidetracked into peripheral issues of environmental and population control and scientific and technological cooperation while ignoring the obstacles that prevent most countries from climbing out of centuries of backwardness. The fear is that these issues are being taken up as substitutes for viable development policies.

Users Taxes Apportioned For Marin

Marin County received $138,780 in highway users taxes and $4,795 in cigarette taxes as its August apportionments, the state controller's office has announced.

Highway users taxes were apportioned to Marin cities as follows: San Rafael, $26,563; Novato, $21,290; San Anselmo, $9,827; Mill Valley, $9,236; Larkspur, $6,317; Corte Madera, $6,314; Fairfax, $5,686; Sausalito, $5,202; Tiburon, $4,832; Ross, $2,384; and Belvedere, $2,263.

Cigarette taxes in Marin were apportioned as follows: San Rafael, $16,302; Novato, $7,145; Corte Madera, $4,101; Mill Valley, $3,448; San Anselmo, $3,118; Sausalito, $2,839; Larkspur, $2,260; Fairfax, $1,621; Tiburon, $1,538; Ross, $489; and Belvedere, $482.

In Southern Sonoma, Petaluma was to receive $17,594 from highway users taxes and $6,784 in cigarette taxes; Rohnert Park, $4,960 highway and $1,369 cigarette; and Cotati $1,486 highway and $527 cigarette taxes.

Trial Is Ordered On Arson Charges

Grace Patricia Halloran, 24, of Novato has been ordered to stand trial in superior court on a charge of arsona fter a preliminary hearing in municipal court.

Miss Halloran is accused of setting fire to her home on Aug. 18.

Streams Bill Ammendment Is Defended

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Assemblyman Eugene Chappie (R-Cool) has denied any wrong doing in a last minute amendment he tagged on a bill which would deny public access to streams and reservoirs developed by nonprofit corporations.

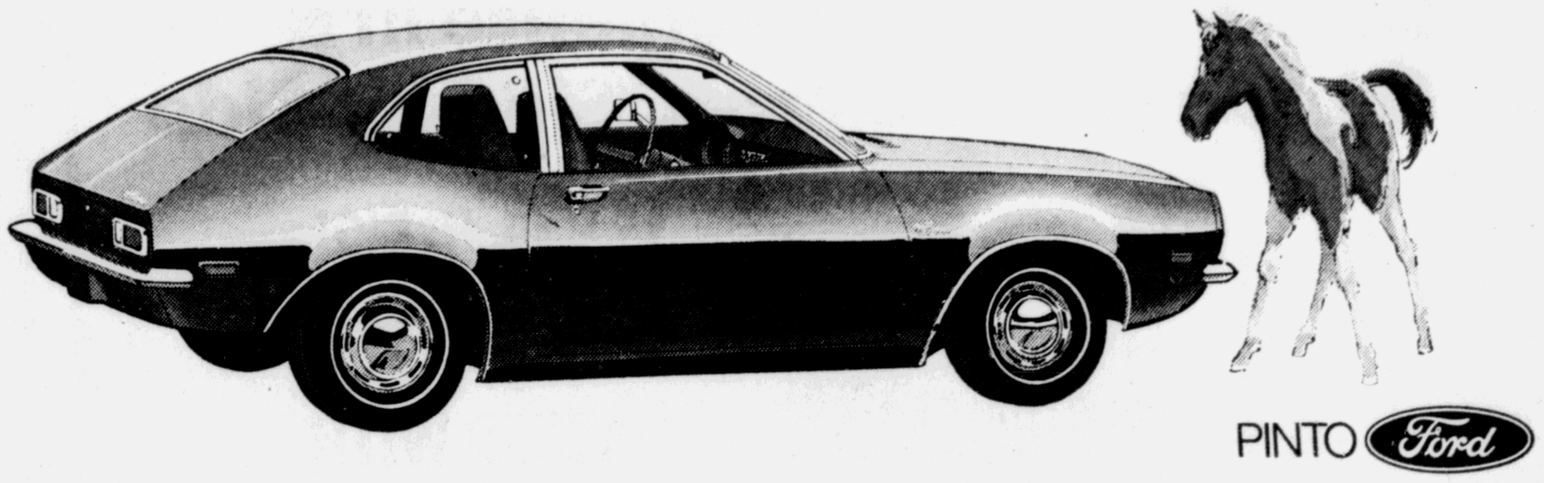

Chappie said that the bill, if signed by the governor, would not exclude any areas where a prior right to fishing had been established.

Originally drafted by the Department of Fish and Game and introduced by Senator Robert Lagomarsino (R-Ojai), SB 945 revised provisions of the law relating to the cultivation of shellfish and oysters and established procedures for the leasing of state-owned water bottoms for the cultivation of marine life.

The bill still deals with those subjects, but the amendment was added, at the request of Assemblyman Frank Murphy (R-Santa Cruz), the day before the session ended t to exempt nonprofit corporations from allowing public access to private streams, dams and reservoirs.

Lagomarsino issued a press release saying he was "duped" into allowing the amendment, but Chappie said he found it "hard to believe that a farmer could dupe an outstanding California lawyer."

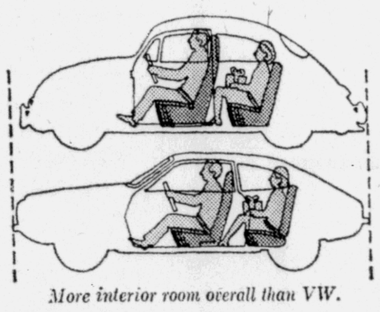

Meet Ford's new Pinto. The little carefree car.

If you have the questions, Pinto has the answers.

Q. What do you mean, "the little carefree car"?
A. In brief, Pinto can free you from car cares, big and little. Pinto takes care of big gas bills, it averages over 25 miles per gallon in simulated city suburban driving. Pinto takes care of passing slower traffic with a 75-horsepower engine. For handling stability, Pinto offers a wider track than any popular little import. Pinto's roomy, quiet, fun to drive. And Pinto's so simple, it almost takes care of itself.

Q. You say Pinto is little. How little?
A. A handy 13½ feet from bumper to bumper. That's only 3 inches longer than Volkswagen. But Pinto's turning circle is smaller—3 feet smaller. So they can both slip through traffic and into the same kind of small parking spaces.

More interior room overall than VW.

Q. How about inside?
A. Pinto gives you more roominess overall than Volkswagen. There's 6.6 inches more shoulder room in the front seat. More head and knee room for the rear seat passengers, too. And getting in and out is easier, especially from the back seat, because Pinto's doors are a good half-foot wider.

Q. What about price?
A. Pinto is priced like the little imports.

Q. And what will that price include?
A. Plenty. The standard engine gives you 75 horsepower. Also, Pinto is the only American economy car equipped with a 4-speed, fully synchronized transmission at no extra cost. And you get precise rack & pinion steering, the same as you'll find in expensive European sports cars like Porsche and Jaguar. Pinto has High Back bucket seats. Full-width rear seat. Thick foam-padded upholstery. A rich-looking all-vinyl interior. All-steel, rattle-resistant, unitized body chassis construction, welded together like a battleship. DirectAire ventilation with upper-level fresh air outlets. Heater defroster with 3-speed fan. Two-speed electric windshield wipers. Electric windshield washers. Anti-theft steering column lock. Inside and outside rearview mirrors. Courtesy light. Backup light. Your choice of 15 exterior colors. And more.

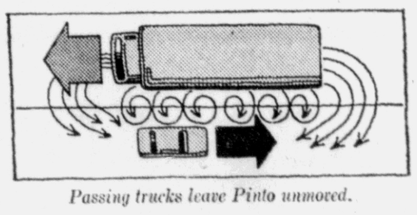

Q. How about optional extras?
A. Pinto is an economy car, so we kept the list of extras short and to the point. Like a more powerful overhead-cam-shaft, 100-hp engine with a 3-speed fully automatic transmission. (Some of our competitors offer only a 2-speed automatic.) Front disc brakes. Built-in air conditioning. Vinyl roof. Tinted glass. Rear window defogger. "Flipper" rear quarter windows. Fold-down rear seat. A few dress-up extras so you can personalize your Pinto. Bumper guards and side molding with vinyl inserts to protect the paint. Sensible things like that.

Q. About Pinto's engine. Is it aluminum? Air-cooled? Or in the back of the car?
A. It's made out of rugged, lightweight cast iron, the most reliable engine material we know of today. Pinto's engine is already backed by 50 million owner-driven miles. It's water-cooled for maximum efficiency and minimum noise. And it's mounted up front for better stability.

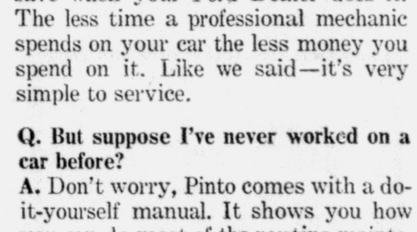

Q. That's quite an engine.
A. There's more. Unlike combustion chambers in many car engines, Pinto's chambers are specially machined smooth so that buildup of power-robbing carbon is reduced. And Pinto's precision-balanced engine crank is fully supported by five main bearings while many economy imports have only three or four. Result: Pinto runs smoother and quieter.

Q. How about acceleration?
A. Compare Pinto's 75 horsepower with other cars Pinto's weight and size. Volkswagen, for instance, has only 57 horsepower. In a Pinto, merging with fast-paced American traffic is no problem. (Neither is stopping, by the way. Pinto's brakes require 30-50% less pedal effort than typical nonpower systems, even after hard use. And we don't offer power brakes or power steering for Pinto—you don't need them.)

Q. Many small cars seem to get blown around a lot in gusty crosswinds, when you're passing a big truck (or when a big truck is passing you)! What about Pinto?
A. Pinto has a low silhouette and a wider stance than any little economy import. These are not mere stylist's whims—they give you more predictable handling under all conditions. Add Pinto's rack & pinion steering, and you really have a feeling of control.

Passing trucks leave Pinto unmoved.

Q. Any other advantages for Pinto's rack & pinion steering?
A. Pinto's steering effort is lower than VW's, so you don't tire yourself out getting into tight parking spots.

Wider stance than any economy import.

Q. That brings up a point—what about service?
A. Pinto is designed to require little routine maintenance. The usual service interval for cars in this class is 3 months or 3,000 miles. We doubled this—to 6 months or 6,000 miles—and eliminated many traditionally required items of maintenance. Like Pinto's lubed-for-life steering gear. Or Pinto's brakes—we made them self-adjusting. And you lube the chassis only once every 36,000 miles, or 3 years. Some economy cars ask you to do this twice a year, or six times as often. Pinto takes care of that.

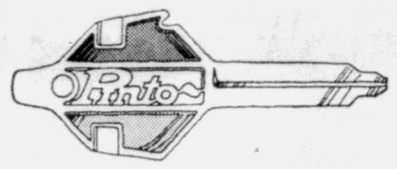

Q. Pinto's that easy to service?
A. We've taken a car's most often repaired or replaced items and made it especially easy (and inexpensive) for the owner to do this service himself. If you don't service Pinto yourself you still save when your Ford Dealer does it. The less time a professional mechanic spends on your car the less money you spend on it. Like we said—it's very simple to service.

Q. But suppose I've never worked on a car before?
A. Don't worry, Pinto comes with a do-it-yourself manual. It shows you how you can do most of the routine maintenance yourself.

Q. What have you done to make it easier for the owner to work on his Pinto?
A. We designed the front suspension to get those bulky spring towers out of the engine compartment, so there's plenty of room to work. And the hood can be opened all the way—vertically—so you can get at everything easier. You can even adjust the hand brake from inside the car.

Q. What else?
A. You can change the oil yourself. And the plugs, points, condenser. Replace the air, oil and fuel filters. Aim the headlights. Adjust the ignition timing. Set the idle speed and fuel mixture on the carburetor. The bumpers remove easily. And the front fenders unbolt, facilitating replacement or repair at less cost, less bother. Finally, please note this odd-shaped widget we made especially for Pinto. It's really an ingenious Do-It-Yourself Key. It's yours —free—with the car.

Q. Well, it certainly sounds easy to fix if anything goes wrong, but how do I know you've got the bugs out BEFORE I buy Pinto?
A. We didn't just test Pinto in our own laboratories and proving grounds. We ran prototypes all over the country to make sure Pinto would stand up under American driving conditions. We wanted extra rust protection, so key metal in the Pinto's body chassis is galvanized for better corrosion resistance--something no economy import does. And after a primer coat, we apply the final coat of paint with 60,000-volt electrostatic sprayers, so the paint gets everywhere it's supposed to, more evenly. And that acrylic enamel finish is so hard, so bright, it never needs waxing.

Free Do-It-Yourself Key.

Q. Tell me more.
A. Pinto's brake lines are a special rust-resistant alloy, with critical areas wrapped for extra protection. The strength of some of Pinto's parts makes ordinary little economy cars puny by comparison. Parts like the starter motor, ball joints, rear wheel bearings are heavy duty. And the transmission and differential are lubed for life. Craftsmanship? Pinto is the only American car with individually hand-matched transmission gears. And Pinto's optional automatic transmission is so tough we could use it in pickup trucks.

Q. Pinto sounds pretty good. It'd be a shame if you changed it. What are your plans for Pinto in the future?
A. To quote Henry Ford II: "The Model T lasted virtually unchanged for 19 years and with that in mind I felt we should try to accomplish the same objective with the Pinto. Any changes in the Pinto will be aimed at making it a better car, not just different looking."

Q. One last question. Where can I try one out to see if I like it?
A. Test-drive Pinto at any of the 5,800 Ford Dealers, coast to coast, Alaska and Hawaii. And if you have any more questions, they can answer them.

Long Walk To Show The Need

By JOAN LISETOR

Blisters hurt, so does hunger.

You can say it over and over again, according to two Marin girls who attended a conference sponsored by the American Freedom from Hunger Foundation, but it takes more to make people aware of hunger.

Colleen Fitzhenry of Kentfield, 18, and Annette Lareau of Fairfax, 17, are coordinating the Marin Walk Against Hunger to be held Sept. 20. At the conference held last month in St. Paul, Minn., the girls were versed on how to organize a walk.

"MORE THAN 180 walks have been held so far in the country and have raised more than one million dollars," says Colleen. "We learned so much at the conference because most of the 300 people there had already put on a walk."

"The walk has a dual purpose," explains Annette. "One purpose is to raise funds for hungry people at home and abroad. The other is to make the community aware of hunger by getting youth involved by action."

The walk, Colleen emphasizes, is not a demonstration but a positive mood and expression of spirit. Each walker will be sponsored, which is how funds are raised.

Although the walk is coordinated by youth, persons of all ages are asked to participate. The route of the walk covers 20 miles with check point stations every three miles. At the check point stations volunteers will verify that the walker has passed that point to satisfy his commitment to his sponsor. A sponsor pays his walker an amount per mile determined prior to the walk. There is no minimum or maximum amount, and a walker may have as many sponsors as he can get.

"THE CHECK points will have food, rest areas and bathroom facilities," says Colleen, "and walkers can quit any time. There will be cars, we call them poop-out pick-ups, travelling the route to pick up stragglers. Also we will have nurses at each check point, who will determine whether or not walkers can continue."

The walk will start at Redwood High School at 7 a.m. with a brief opening ceremony. The first check point is the Walk Against Hunger headquarters at the corner of Sir Francis Drake Blvd. and College Avenue in Kentfield, and others in order are Redwoods Presbyterian Church in Corte Madera, Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Church in Mill Valley, Tamalpais Hills Lutheran Church in Tiburon, Church of All Faiths in Corte Madera and back to Redwood High School.

The coordinators have obtained parade permits and permits to solicit funds from each city but had to alter the route because the City of Tiburon refused them permits, according to Colleen.

Committee members will participate in a preliminary walk Sunday to check the route and satisfy their sponsores' commitments so they will be free to do other work the day of the walk.

IN OTHER cities, the girls learned at the conference, people who lived along the routes left their hoses out so walkers could have a drink and also served them lemonade and cookies.

"It would help if they left garbage cans out," says Colleen. "We want to be sure there is no litter, and there will be monitors walking who will see to this and also make sure everyone stays in single file and the streets and sidewalks are not blocked."

After the walk it is the walkers' responsibility to go back to his sponsors, show the sponsors his check point card and collect the amount of pledge.

All of the money is sent to the American Freedom from Hunger Foundation in Washington, D.C. The foundation keeps 15 per cent for its own promotion use, and the remaining 85 per cent is divided evenly between a local project and a foreign project chosen by the walk's local coordinators.

The Marin project is the Marin County Supplementary Food Program, which pays the handling cost of government surplus food supplied to mothers and children with nutritional deficiencies. The money will be used to expand the pilot program.

FOR AN overseas project the walk committee has chosen a project to help equip a multi-purpose food factory in South Korea.

"People are surprised when they hear about the walk," says Colleen. "They think there are no hungry people in Marin."

The reason for sending 42 per cent of the funds out of the country, according to Annette, is because the quality and quantity of hunger is greater abroad.

"And," says Colleen, "a hungry child is a hungry child — anywhere."

If costs for printing, insurance, water, gas and electricity are not donated they will have to come out of the proceeds.

"We need walkers, so the committee will show films and speak at junior high and high schools and at our headquarters. We need volunteers the day of the walk to drive cars and man check points, and in addition to money we need food, salted celery is great, and bandages," says Colleen.

"It's hard to convince people of the need and also that it is not a Communist plot. The walk idea has been endorsed by many people including Governor Reagan and Senator Cranston. Hunger brings people of different political views together."

MOST OF the committee members will be off to college the week after the walk. Colleen is going to the University of California at Los Angeles, and Annette will be a student at U.C. at Santa Cruz. They are concerned about a follow up after people are aware of hunger and a continuing effort to help other people.

The walk is important, they say, because it raises money, but it is really a gimmick and it is the work that is done after that is more important. In other cities where walks have been held, they learned at the conference, groups dedicated to helping others have been formed.

They wonder, "Will it happen in Marin?"

U.C. Extension Course On Images Of Women

Images of women in literature, from Aristophanes to Dorothy Parker, will be studied in a new University of California Extension course scheduled this fall in San Francisco. The class will consider mythical, traditional and current roles of women and will study heroines of drama and fiction, legends and symbols of ancient cultures, works by women poets and images in painting and film. Gretchen E. Milne will teach the course on Tuesdays from 7 to 9:30 p.m., Sept. 22 through Dec. 8 at the U.C. Extension Center, 55 Laguna Street.

Another new extension course scheduled this fall is "The Second Time Around," a weekend program for the divorced or widowed. A husband and wife who are counselors will lead the program of lectures and group encounter sessions Oct. 16 to 18 at El Rancho Rodeo in Sonoma. They are Ben Ard Jr., professor of counseling at San Francisco State College, and Constance Ard, marriage, family and child counselor.

A career planning workshop for women titled "The Next Step" will be conducted by social psychologist Martha Sturm White on Thursdays, 9:30 a.m. to noon, Sept. 24 to Nov. 19 at the U.C. Extension Center in San Francisco. The program offers workshops and lectures on educational, volunteer and second career possibilities for women in the Bay Area. Special attention is given to women's changing roles, evaluating capabilities and goals, the educated

How You Achieve Chic, Casual Look

By JANE ROGERS

London Express Feature

LONDON — The evening out scene gets more complicated all the time. When you're invited to join a rather smart party for the theater, to go to the local hotel for a dinner dance, or simply to dine out with some friends who, you know, make quite an occasion of a meal, the choice of what exactly to wear looms large.

At one time it was so simple — a straightforward decision between a fussy little dress in crepe or something similar, probably black or brown, which you then jazzed up with some glitter if the evening was likely to be extra smart, played down without any jewelery if it was not. Or else it was obviously a grand occasion, and you had to wear something long.

Now, it seems, anything goes. The idea is to dress to express yourself — if you have the time to organize the wardrobe to go with it. And there's hardly a woman around who has not gnashed her teeth at the sight of the girl who turns up at a party, apparently very casually dressed, but looking so stunning that the men have eyes for nothing else.

YOU KNOW, and she knows that the apparently casual effect — the slightly windblown tumbling curls, the simple little silk dress that clings exactly where it should, the unmade up face that is in fact coated with several different glistening preparations — has taken her far more time to achieve than it took you to struggle into your rather fussy garment, run a comb through that set, boiled-look hairdo that the hairdresser dreamed up for you and tuck the kids into bed. But the men all think that the lady looks as delectable as that all the time, even in bed.

If your time and your budget are limited, unless you're a professional playgirl just how can you achieve that chic "I-just-slipped-something-on" look the easy way?

First, take a long hard look at your make-up. The heavily powdered made-up face is dated, even more so for day than for evening. Everyone can seem to have that casual beautifully cared-for skin if they use the right preparations. Anyone who is powdering her face right now is stuck in a groove five years back in fashion time.

Take another look at the foundation you use. Have you stuck to the same type for years? Then try another, lighter and slightly browner in its tone. Most women make the mistake of walking around with faces one shade lighter than their real skin tone, that's what makes them look so mask-like.

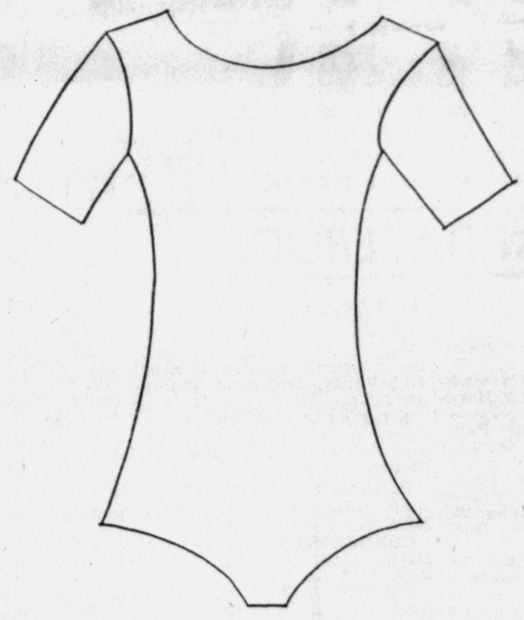

THEN YOUR rouge — if you are using a powdered one, switch quickly to the liquid or gleaming kind. Mary Quant and Estee Lauder, at two opposite ends of the price range, both make transparent rouges which can be smoothed high on the cheekbone for a natural look.

Then your eye-shadow, if that hasn't got a built in gleam of some kind, then you're out of date. A silvery sheen is the most natural and the most flattering, and does wonders for deepset eyes.

Try a pearly shiner, for instance. Finally an all-over high-lighter and a gleamer is a necessity now, especially for evening. If you like a tanned look then you can buy one in stick form or if you want something more pink and lady-like try an illumination make-up accent.

Pin-on ringlets of man-made hair that match your own are the easiest way of giving your-

This is a thing.

A thing is a thing to wear with anything. With pants. With shirts. With a suit. With a new midi skirt. With anything. Or just with you. Furthermore, a thing is a thing for the seventies. For the new instant way of dressing. Where inner things go out into the world. And where stereotyped ideas about clothes just aren't anymore. So have yourself a thing. With sleeves. Or without. With neckline high or low. Have it in any number of groovy colors. At our place. Where things are really happening.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

He's Great Looking But Not Exactly The Last Big Spender

DEAR HELEN:

The guy I'm dating is great looking, but not exactly the last of the big spenders. His idea of fun is feeding dry bread to the ducks in the park, or parking by the lake for two or three hours. (just necking and talking.)

Then when we come back, it's always "Sorry, but there isn't time to eat." So he takes me home starved. Then he cleans out the fridge.

He has a part time job and more money than most of the guys I know. But he sure hangs on to it where I'm concerned. Of course his car is different — nothing's too good. That Mustang has upholstery that won't quit, but we don't even sit in it at a drive-in — though sometimes he parks on a hill above it so we can watch the picture without sound — for free.

What bugs me is, the always has some perfectly good excuse for not going anywhere that costs money: Like the county fair is just too hick-townish or there isn't a decent movie in town or "Milk shakes are fattening." I'd be glad to go Dutch. No luck.

What do you do with a guy like that? — FASTING AGAINST MY WILL

DEAR FAMW:

I could do without him very easily. But if you can't, in spite of his pinch-penny ways, then maybe you should take along a sack lunch.

("And then give him the sack" adds our teen-age daughter.) — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I am a girl of 14. I dated a 16-year-old boy a couple of times and then he called me up and asked me to meet him that night at a school parking lot.

I was surpirsed to find five of his friends were with him when I got there. He hung back a little and they started to gang up on me. My boy friend got in a fist fight, but it didn't seem real. It was as if he knew what was going to happen or even planned it that way. They said they'd beat me if I didn't keep quiet, but I yelled anyway. I was scared to death.

Two policemen heard me screaming and the boys all scattered. I didn't tell them about the attack because I didn't want to cause trouble, and besides, I still can't help loving this guy, even though he might be mixed up with this gang.

How can I find out if he's clean? — W.S.S.

DEAR W.:

If this fellow scattered with the other hoodlums, he is probably as guility as they are. At the very least, he's a coward who runs with dangerous friends, and should be avoided like the plague. — H.

The most frightening thing about this letter, and all too many others like it, is that a girl feels she must confide in an advice columnist rather than her parents, whose duty is to protect her. Where did family communication go?

DEAR HELEN:

I am 13 and my cousin is almost 12. We were up in my room when my cousin asked me for a cigarette. I gave her one, but didn't smoke with her.

My Mother came in and saw her smoking, so she punished me. She thinks my cousin never smoked before, but I could tell her different except I'm no fink.

Why should I get grounded when my mother didn't see me smoking this time. (She'd caught me two weeks before though.) — CINDY

DEAR CINDY:

You're guilty on two counts: Being "in possession" (you don't have cigarettes in your room unless you intend to smoke them, right?) and "contributing" to the stupidity of an 11-year-old.

If the blow fits, bear it. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

SHIRLEY LOUREIRO

Couple Plan Oct. 17 Rite

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Loureiro announced the engagement of their daughter, Shirley Ann, to John J. Mahoney Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Mahoney, all of San Rafael.

Shirley and John, both graduates of San Rafael High School, plan an Oct. 17 wedding.

(Art's Photo)

Marianne Birgit Larsen became the bride of Thomas C. Nance Aug. 29 at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Knud Larsen of San Anselmo, Marianne chose Anne Gade of San Anselmo as her maid of honor. Best man was Mike Merdith, also of San Anselmo.

After a reception at the bride's home the couple left on a wedding trip to Arizona. She is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School attended Marinello School of Beauty and is employed by Pacific Telephone Co,. in San Francisco.

Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Nance of San Anselmo, is also a graduate of Drake High School and he attended the College of Marin. Now in the U.S. Air Force, Thomas is also the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Theodor Parker of San Anselmo.

Gayle Rovero Is A Bride; Couple Will Live In Italy

Gayle Jean Rovero of Greenbrae became the bride of Claudio Piero Cantore of S'Antonino D'Susa, Italy, in a Saturday evening rite at SS Peter and Paul Church in San Francisco.

Gayle, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Rovero of Greenbrae, was attended by Janis Massucco of Kentfield as maid of honor, and Linda Vernazza of San Mateo as the bridesmaid.

The couple left on a wedding trip to Washington, D.C., London and Paris and will continue to Italy to live in S'Antonino D'Susa.

The bride is a graduate of Marin Catholic High School and was employed with Pacific Telephone Co. in San Rafael. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene F. Muzio and Mr. and Mrs. Rinaldo Rovero, all of San Francisco.

Claudio is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mario Cantore of S'Antonio D'Susa and the brother of Franco and Giorgio Cantore, both of that city.

Organize Wardrobe To Get The Casual Look

self a casual evening hairdo, even if your hair is short. Otherwise get your hairdresser to set it simply. Those giant lacquered cauliflower hairdoes perched on the back of your head give the impression you have spent all day trying to achieve the effect.

FINALLY YOUR dress. It must be casual in its appearance. Anything in stiff satin or heavily tailored rayon looks too contrived. This year crochet is the answer, whether it's real or fake.

There are some superb crochet-look dresses around, some of them in gleaming fibers like lurex that give exactly the right balance of casual chic, and they're so comfortable to wear too.

You can roll them up in the corner of a suitcase, and they'll spring out uncrumpled, ready for the evening ahead. Coming up now for next season are full length dresses in knitted wool lace that looks just like crochet, complete with a giant stole which you can wrap round you like a college scarf for an extra casual look or drape round you as if it was a fur.

For the girl who is wedded firmly to the trouser suit, there are some all-in-one catsuits with that crochet look that are washable and trimmed with fringes.

Falsie Curls

Now you see curls, now you don't. Carousel wigs is making these "falsies" for the head in synthetic stretch that can look either smooth and close to the face or else teased and flipped out into soft curls.

MAVIS KATHLEEN LEE

Mavis K. Lee Will Be Wed

The engagement of Mavis Kathleen Lee to William G. Troutman has been announced by her parents Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Lee of San Rafael. A graduate of San Rafael High School and the College of Marin, Kitsie, as she is called, attends Sonoma State College. She is the sister of Carol Jean Lee of San Rafael.

William, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy W. Troutman of San Rafael, is also a graduate of San Rafael High School and the College of Marin. He attends the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco and is serving hospital pharmacy internship. Robert W. Troutman of Sonoma and Michael M. Parker of Petaluma are his brothers.

The couple plan a Dec. 19 wedding.

"The Story of Diana . . .

The Making of a Terrorist"

A startling document of our times

This 5-part series tells the story of Diana Oughton, a rich girl who became a revolutionary . . . only to die at age 28 in the explosion of a "bomb factory" run by the radical Weathermen in Greenwich Village. Thoroughly documented, it adds up to a compelling story of a disturbing and continuing aspect of the American scene today . . . how intelligent young people often from affluent and cultured homes, become dedicated agents of destruction. Thought-provoking, disturbing - and well worth reading.

Elizabeth Henerlau, Arthur Butler Wed

Mrs. Elizabeth K. Hererlau of Novato and Arthur M. Butler, formerly of Cedar Grove, N.J., were married at the campfire circle at Samuel P. Taylor Park in Lagunitas on Friday.

The Rev. Karel Botermans of the Unitarian Church officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Beach of Upper Montclair, N.J. She was attended by her 9-year-old daughter, Heidi. She is also the mother of Gretchen, Paul, Meggan, Wendy and Eric Henerlau.

The bridegroom was attended by his son, Arthur N. Butler Jr. He is also the father of John Butler and the son of Mrs. Dorothea Little of New Hartford, N.Y.

Wide Variety Of Meats For Weekend Shoppers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service reports that shoppers this week will find a wide variety of meats offered. Good beef buys include several kinds of steaks and ground beef.

Hams highlight the pork offerings. Broiler-fryers will be the feature at most poultry counters.

Vegetable bins will have abundant supplies of potatoes, onions, cabbage, and tomatoes.

TOP FRUIT buys will be apples, bananas, canned fruit cocktail, and dried prunes.

The Department of the Interior reports best buys in fish are canned salmon, fish sticks and portions, and canned tuna.

Foods listed on USDA's plentiful foods list for September are canned peaches, canned applesauce, split peas, and peanuts and peanut products.

Now a closer look at food supplies in the West.

THERE ARE few significant price changes in West Coast markets this week, and consumers will do well to check advertised bargains to locate the most attractive buys.

Among fruits and vegetables in best supply are apples, bananas, cantaloups, casaba melons, watermelons, cabbage, carrots, onions and potatoes.

Broiler-fryers are slightly lower at wholesale in the Portland area, and butter has advanced slightly at San Francisco.

Hemline News

Mostly, the look was the long hemline in the Paris collections. But couture designers also are offering alternatives. The suits of Gabrielle Chanel, for instance, just cover the knees as they have for years. Pierre Balmain and Hubert de Givenchy pegged daytime clothes at two to three inches below the knee, depending on the height of the model. Christian Dior, Jeanne Lanvin and Jean Patou elected for the mid-calf length.

COURSES

woman and her family, the interview and resume and new outlooks in volunteering.

Other classes of interest to women include "The Adolescent and His World" scheduled Saturdays from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., Sept. 26 to Nov. 14 at the San Francisco Center, and "Psychological Aspects of Pregnancy and Infant Development," meeting Thursdays, 7 to 9:30 p.m., Sept. 24 to Dec. 17 on the U. C. Berkeley campus.

Information and enrollment forms are available from U.C. Extension offices in Berkeley and San Francisco.

Cook-Holmquist Vows Said

Dianne Holmquist became the bride of Harold Cook Aug. 30 in a ceremony at Christ the Victor Lutheran Church in Fairfax.

Mrs. Diane Franco of Corte Madera was matron of honor, and the bride's sister, Patricia Perkins of Petaluma, was the bridesmaid.

Peter Akin of Fairfax was best man, and guests were ushered to their seats by Jim Coffey, Bill Gibson and Bruce Ayala.

Following a reception at the San Geronimo Country Club the couple left on a wedding trip to Southern California. They will live in San Rafael.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Perkins of Petaluma. She was graduated from high school in Anchorage, Alaska, and is employed by Pacific Telephone Co. in San Francisco.

Harold is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cook of San Anselmo and the brother of Cecil Sanders, also of San Anselmo. A graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School, he is employed by Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael.

Mrs. Douglas Abel Heads CHS Chapter

MRS. DOUGLAS ABEL

Mrs. Douglas H. Abel of San Rafael will lead the Tom Thumb Chapter of the Children's Home Society of California as its new president this year.

Mrs. Abel and her husband, who is a trust officer with Crocker-Citizens Bank in San Francisco, have been Marin residents for four years, and Mrs. Abel has been a member of the chapter that long.

She has previously served as its corresponding secretary and vice president.

She plans for the chapter's activities a fashion show in November and a games night and dinner in March. The chapter raises funds to aid the Children's Home Society's adoptive and counseling services.

Letitia Abel is also a member of the board of directors of the diocesan altar guild, Diocese of California, and vice president and past president of the Episcopal Churchwomen of the Church of the Nativity in Marinwood.

Born in Tacoma, Wash., Mrs. Abel attended the University of Washington and California State College at Los Angeles, majoring in music and elementary education. She lists her interests as sewing and tailoring, music, singing and "experimental cooking."

Other officers for the Tom Thumb Chapter are Mmes. R. Frank Wilson, vice president; Fred Salomon, membership chairman; James Brainerd, recording secretary; Louis Lombardi, corresponding secretary; Robert Stephens, treasurer; Douglas Scudamore, publicity chairman and Edwin Ela, council representative.

How come the rooms in your head are never the rooms in your home?

Most every woman harbors dreams of a lovely new home that someday she'd like to live in. But somehow those dreams never become a reality. How come? Because most women never get the kind of decorating help they need. Never "see" before they buy. But we've changed all that. Now in one visit to our store you can browse through our exciting idea-filled Ethan Allen American Traditional room settings and actually see everything in place. The rugs, the lamps, the pictures, the wall paper, even color TV and bedding. It's as if you've stepped into someone's lovely home. And best of all, we've got Home Planners who can help you put that same kind of look into your own home. So come visit us now. Stop dreaming of the home you want "tomorrow" when you can easily have it today.

MUSIC, ART, DRAMA

'Hair' Now Into Its Second Year

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

"HAIR," the American tribal love rock musical, passed a milestone a couple of weeks back in San Francisco. The occasion, its first birthday in the Bay city.

From all indications, the musical of the now generation will be around for a lot longer. Shifted from the Geary in early spring, the musical is still holding sway at the Orpheum Theater.

Turning to a more classical nature, the San Francisco Opera season opener is only 10 days away. The company will open its 48th season in the War Memorial Opera House Friday, Sept. 18, with Puccini's "Tosca," with Regina Crespin.

In connection with the opera season, Jan Popper, opera scholar and director, will give eight Monday evening lectures at the University of California Extension Center on Laguna Street in San Francisco beginning Monday on the 13-program series. Details can be obtained through the U.C. Extension office.

DRAMA

Ticket sales open Monday for the world permiere engagement of Dame Judith Anderson's "Hamlet," which will open at the Geary Theater Sept. 28. The production is under direction of William Ball, general director of the American Conservatory Theater in association with Paul Gregory. The three-week San Francisco engagement will mark the beginning of a 26-week nationwide tour.

Other attractions:

Curran Theater — "Promises, Promises," 8:30 p.m. except Sundays; also 2:30 p.m. Wednesdays and Saturdays.

Marines' Memorial Theater — "Adaption/Next," Tuesday through Friday, 8:30 p.m., Saturday 7 and 10 p.m., Sunday 3 and 7 p.m.

Little Fox Theater — "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," nightly except Monday at 8:30 p.m. and Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

On Broadway Theater — "Oh Calcutta!" nightly except Monday at 8:30 p.m., Saturday at 7:30 p.m. and 10:45 p.m. and Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Orpheum Theater — "Hair" Tuesday through Friday, 8:30 p.m; Saturday, 6 and 10 p.m.; Wednesday and Sunday, 2:30 p.m.

Wharf Theater — "You're A Good Man Charlie Brown," Thursday, Friday, Saturday, 8 p.m.; Saturday 3:30 p.m.

Pair Of Murder Suspects Nabbed

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (UPI) —Two murder suspects who escaped from the Fort Ord stockade have been arrested here, according to the FBI.

They were identified as Sgt. Thomas G. Stidham, 22, and Sgt. John E. Foppiano, 21, who broke out Aug. 17. Mrs. Dolores Stidham, 21, was also arrested at Monterey, Calif.

The FBI arrested the men on kidnapping charges, however, since they allegedly took Eustace W. Brooks of Prescott, Ariz., from Hollister, Calif., to Nampa, Idaho, after their escape before releasing him unharmed.

The FBI men said the men had been in Great Falls for the past three weeks.

Survey Shows Drink Prices On Increase

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Prices per drink are increasing in many San Francisco bars and the cost of wine by the bottle may be expected to jump also.

A survey of taverns Wednesday by the San Francisco Chronicle showed most drinks up by a nickle a nip because of the boosted prices of bottles and pay increases won by employes.

Study Tour Of Mexico Slated

Dominican College will sponsor a winter study tour through Mexico from Dec. 28 to Jan. 14 to study pre-Columbian and colonial art.

An Oct. 10 deadline has been set for registration for the tour which will be headed by Sister M. Joanne, an artist and sculptor on the college staff.

12th Petaluma Art-In-The-Park

Painting, pottery, weaving and wood cuts will be among arts demonstrated Saturday and Sunday at the Petaluma Art Association's 12th Annual Art-in-the-Park.

Artists will be on hand to present their media from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days in Walnut Park on Petaluma Boulevard South.

New in the show this year will be the opportunity for children to try clay sculpturing and drawing.

Opera Workshop Opens Auditions

Auditions for the Sonoma State College Opera Workshop's production of "Hansel and Gretel" will be held at 7 p.m. next Tuesday in Room 101 of Ives Hall of Music on the college's Rohnert Park campus.

The opera, directed by Dr. Peggy Donovan-Jeffry, will be presented Dec. 16-19.

'Dolly' Now The Queen Of Broadway

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ethel Merman climbed the aluminum stepladder at 43rd Street and Broadway, pointed to the street sign that now read "Hello Dolly Square," and the photographers took their pictures.

Before the yellow and black cardboard was taped over it, the sign read "Times Sq." but Wednesday for the theater crowd it was Dolly Square and Miss Merman, toute en plumage, was Dolly and "Hello, Dolly!" had never begun and would never end.

Wednesday's matinee was the 2,718th performance for "America's Favorite Musical." With that, it became the longest running musical in the history of Broadway, passing "My Fair Lady."

To celebrate, producer David Merrick pulled all the stops and even had a long-distance runner jog all the way from Yonkers, N.Y. where much of the show is set, to the St. James theatre on West 44th Street off Broadway where it is staged.

Everything was timed for Hirsch, at a leisurely pace of 14.2 miles in just over 2 1-2 hours, to come jogging up to the St. James at 1:40 p.m., 20 minutes before showtime.

But Hirsch, who ran the 26-mile, 365 yard Boston Marathon last year in less than 3 hours, got to Manhattan 45 minutes early, he said, so he dropped into Central Park for an extra four miles and trotted by the marquee at 1:38 p.m.

After he posed, wet more with rain than with perspiration, with Miss Merman, Merrick and director Gower Champion in front of a little plaque by the door commemorating the record, he doused the torch in a coffee can and disappeared.

When the curtain went up Dolly stopped the show before she ever said a line.

The Queen (Eliza Doolittle is dead. Long live the Queen (Dolly Levi).

At the finale, out rolled a huge birthday cake-looking device on wheels — slanted, so the audience, and the cameras, could read the red frosting message and see the candles forming "2,718."

Merrick and Champion and music and lyrics writer Jerry Herman and book author Michael Stewart came out and joined the cast

Ross Valley Players Set 'Wait Until Dark' Opener

The Ross Valley Players will present "Wait Until Dark," a mystery drama by Frederick Knott, on Friday and Saturday nights, Sept. 18 through Oct. 10 at the Barn at the Marin Art and Garden Center.

The play centers on three con men who attempt to regain a heroin filled doll, which was smuggled into the country from Canada by an unsuspecting Greenwich Village photographer and his blind wife.

Featured in the play will be Sue Glausen, Mike Lopez, Hugh Leppo, Barry Hicol, Dea Belrose, Bill Derveniotes, Tom Hendricks and Scott Burton. The play is directed by Manny Miro.

Five of the eight performances will be performed as fund raising events. They include the Peter Behr for State Senator Campaign on Sept. 18, the Marin Symphony Guild on Sept. 25, Centerpoint on Sept. 26, Marin Star Club on Oct. 3 and the Joe Forrest for Assembly Campaign on Oct. 9.

Tickets for all performances are available through the Ross Valley Players, P.O. Box 626, Ross.

Hobby Spans Age Gap

By WAYNE RATLIFF

What do an 11-year-old Novato boy, who doesn't like horses because they bite, and a 55-year-old woman probation officer talk about when they meet? Flying — what else?

They are both enthusiastic boosters of flying lessons at Marin County's Gnoss Field.

Gertrude Cherry, of 296 Butterfield Road, San Anselmo, a grandmother who took up flying after she turned 50, made her first aerobatic solo flight on her 55th birthday last month.

Cameron Conacher, a sixth-grader at Olive School who doesn't share his classmates' interest in horses, is almost ready to solo after logging about a dozen flying hours — except that he has to wait until he's 16 because of federal regulations — according to John R. Hess of Spectrum Air, flight instructor for both.

Cameron is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Conacher of 180 Atherton Avenue, Novato.

Mrs. Cherry is a Marin County adult probation officer and the wife of Fred Cherry, owner of Fred Cherry's Wine Discovery Shop in San Anselmo. She has four children aged 19 to 27 and a 5-month old granddaughter.

"Somebody turned my husband on to flying first," she said, "We started out together at first. He didn't like it, but I'm hooked. There's no way I could quit flying."

Mrs. Cherry said she couldn't really explain why she loves flying, and especially aerobatics. "I don't get philosophical about it; I just feel."

She had thought about learning to fly during World War II, Mrs. Cherry said, but was unable to start because of her children.

She didn't think much about flying after the war until her husband interested her in it about four years ago, she said.

"I wish I had thought about it. There were all those years wasted when I could have afforded it and had all sorts of time," she sighed wistfully.

Mrs. Cherry, who has logged around 285 flight hours and earned her private license in May 1968, classified herself as a slow student.

Her first flight instructor gave up after a few weeks, she said. "He told me to forget about it, take up golf or something."

Although her husband no longer flies with her, she said, "He thinks it's wonderful; he's very proud of me and happy — the kids think I'm crazy."

Her 27-year-old married daughter, Ruth Coman, and sons Charles, 25, and Joe, 22, have flown with her, she said; but her youngest son, John refuses.

"He just grins and says 'no,'" she said, "I don't really know why. He's working at the Grand Canyon this fall. I'm going to fly down and see him . . .maybe I can get him."

Mrs. Cherry plans to continue learning aerobatics and work on the side to get a commercial license, she said. "I'd go right up to getting an instructor's license, but I don't want to sit there while somebody else flies."

Young Cameron, who got his first flying lesson as a Christmas present last year, has to sit on two pillows with another one behind him to reach the controls of the Cessna 150, his instructor said, but that doesn't keep him from being an unusually quick student.

He makes his own preflight checks, does his own radio communications, knows traffic patterns and landing and departure procedures and has even made unassisted landings in crosswinds and done spins, Hess said.

He has also had training in short field and soft-field landings (landings on grass or dirt runways), Hess said.

Hess characterized Cameron as a "very cooperative student," and said, "I could tell right from the first lesson that he was really interested. From the questions that he asked and things he knew I could tell that he'd done some reading."

Cameron's father said that after his first lesson "Cam was so pleased and excited that we just kept going, letting him have a lesson every now and then. I thought it would give him a confidence that would stay with him throughout his life. Some of his chums are practically cowpunchers on horses and Cam wasn't, so I thought this would be a good idea for him."

Cameron has two sisters, Sharil, 7, and Susan, 9, both interested in flying.

"Susan had one flying lesson a few months ago and she came back all smiles," said Cameron's father, "Cam is like that, too. The day before a flying lesson he's like an angel, but afterwards he's back to fighting with his sisters again."

Conacher does not fly but did log about 10 hours in a seaplane 15 years ago, he said.

Cameron said he likes cross-country and instrument flying best.

He has no particular plans for the future, he said, because he has to wait until he is 16 to solo and until he is 17 to get a private pilot's license to carry passengers.

FLIGHT PLANNING — Cameron Conacher, a flying sixth-grader at Olive School, Novato, and Gertrude Cherry, a Marin County adult probation officer, confer on flight plans. Mrs. Cherry, a licensed pilot for two years, recently took up an aerobatics course because she was afraid of air turbulence and made her first aerobatic solo on her 55th birthday. Innovation Held Sausalito School Key

By PAT ANGLE

(Third of four articles on candidates for the Sausalito School District board)

Because of the depth and complexity of problems in the Sausalito School District, Robert A. Thompson, a candidate for the school board, believes run-of-the-mill, everyday solutions may not be effective. (See a candidates' night story, page 32)

If elected, Thompson would like to thy "innovative approaches" to improving education in the district. He expressed interest in the possibility of hiring a private educational corporation to administer the Sausalito school system until significant academic progress is achieved.

Several such corporations exist in this country, according to Thompson, who said the firms will come into a district with a guarantee (on a money back basis) that at the end of three years youngsters in the schools will equal or exceed scholastic averages set by the National Education Association.

He said such a program is currently operating in Geary, Ind., a multi-ethnic district with many problems similar to those in Sausalito.

He explained a corporation would study the problems carefully, then decide what programs are needed. Existing faculty and administration would be retained and used by the firm, while the school board would act as "caretakers for the program."

In Geary, the corporation charged $880 per year per student, he said, or the cost the district was already paying to educate each youngster. Money for the program would be no problem in Sausalito, he feels, since the cost per child per year is approximately $1,900.

"This is certainly the type of avenue which should be immediately and exhaustively explored as a possible solution to our problems," the 39-year-old attorney said. "It might provide the means for taking politics out of the district and making education the obvious and immediate goal."

According to Thompson, those who would benefit most from this kind of program would be youngsters who are below average in their academic achievement. "They would get the biggest boost, the children everyone talks about, those who have not yet been reached by programs in our district," he explained.

The candidate feels his 17 years experience in practicing law and engaging in various kinds of businesses would be a valuable asset to the school board. As an attorney for the Interstate Commerce Commission, the candidate said he became "thoroughly familiar" with administrative procedures. In addition, the job gave him the experience of working with many kinds of people, including special interest groups.

The work also involved cost accounting, he said, and the task of proving that budgets of many millions of dollars would work — often furnishing proof to adverse groups.

"I think some of Sausalito's problems are business-oriented problems," he said. "The administration and the board have often reflected an almost incredible naivete in business procedures and administration."

He believes his long experience in trial law and litigation, which included civil liberties work in the 1950s, has given him "a certain amount of ability to sift the facts and come up with a program people can understand."

Thompson expressed serious concern for the future of the Sausalito School District if present trends — and decreasing enrollment — continue. Unless parents can be convinced their children will receive a safe, enlightened education in Sausalito," the exodus will continue," he said.

If this happens, Thompson said the "overwhelming number of students left in the schools will be black youngsters from Marin City. These children will find themselves in a situation of defacto segregation which cannot be allowed to continue under present interpretations of the Constitution," he added. And this would result in involuntary busing of black youngsters to schools all over the county.

In addition, if conditions do not improve, Thompson fears voters will reject the continuation of a tax base for the district in the 1972 tax election required by law. "Then the district will be bankrupt and the county will take over and Sausalito children will be sent to schools throughout the county," according to the candidate.

He believes the district is suffering from "the aftermath of a grandiose sociological scheme foisted off on the people of Marin City and Sausalito under the name of 'integration,' which we already had in the district."

According to Thompson the district, "trying to acquire a racial balance in teaching and administrative staff, in some instances let race overwhelm professional considerations. The racial balance began to be more important than acquisition of top professionals," he said.

Thompson believes all children in the district have been "receiving a ghettoized education under the heading of 'education relevant to a black child.'"

He feels "some of the parents and many of the black personnel will settle for nothing less than an education tailor-made to their needs, whether or not it will provide all children with the tools" necessary for advancement in life.

"People who are determined to give every child in the district a competitive education are frustrated by this militant group which views every act and gesture with deepest suspicion and distrust," he added.

Thompson said the district cannot be changed for the better "unless you convince these black militants their approach has been unsuccessful or, failing that, remove them for positions of influence."

As for bringing people in both communities together, Thompson is convinced "people are going to come together if they have something positive to work on. If they have a school district they are proud of, most of the communication problems will evaporate," he commented.

The candidate admitted he does not feel he would be able to work with either Robert E. Fisher Jr. or Royce McLemore, the two Marin City candidates for the school board. "I don't think they are genuinely qualified or understand what the problems are," he said.

Approval On Purchase Of Site For Schools

Purchase of a 63-acre site for new Petaluma junior and senior high schools has been approved by the Petaluma Board of Education.

The board authorized the purchase, following review by the Sonoma County Counsel's office, of three parcels for a total of $435,029 at a meeting Tuesday night.

Board secretary Marion Beltzner said a combined junior and senior high school building for 1,100 students should be ready to open on the site at Ely and Casa Grande roads in the fall of 1972.

As enrollment increases, a second building will be constructed on the site, and the two schools will be split.

The Petaluma Board of Education also:

NOTE — Authorized sale of $500,000 worth of tax anticipation notes to tide the district over until tax revenues are received in December.

CONTRACT — Authorized staff to renew a contract with the Sonoma-Marin Fair board for use of the fairgrounds as a site for San Antonio High School, but ordered an investigation of other possible sites for the portable school buildings at a cost less than the annual $6,000 paid for the fairgrounds site.

Marin Art Auction To Offer Many Crafts

Paintings, sculpture, jewelry and other crafts will be offered Sept. 20 when the Marin Society of Artists holds its 11th annual double auction at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

The silent bidding will begin at 1 p.m. and the vocal bidding at 2 p.m. Auction items may be previewed any day from 1 to 4 p.m. beginning tomorrow at the center.

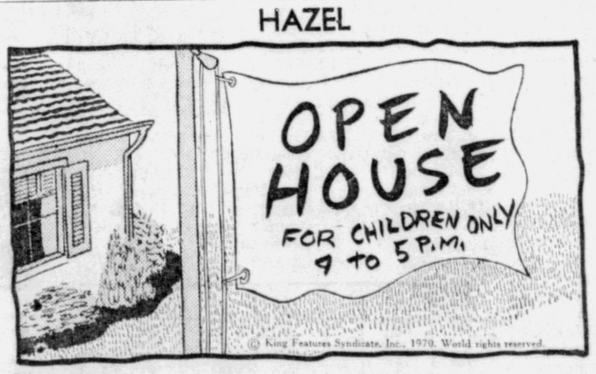

Man Arraigned In Break-In

Steven Gregory Samochim, 33, of San Rafael has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of attempted burglary stemming from his reported try to break into a doctor's office Monday.

Dr. Arnold A. Nutting told police he was working in his office about noon on Labor Day when he heard someone trying to break a glass door. He said he recognized Samochim, who was arrested later at his home at 1539 Lincoln Avenue.

He was to return to court today to enter a plea to the charge.

East Grant Plan Passes With Changes

The Novato Planning Commission last night approved, with several changes, the Sedway-Cooke plan for downtown Novato and program's recommendations for the East Grant subarea.

The Novato City Council will act on the commission's recommendations in a special meeting at 7 p.m. today.

Recommended revisions include retaining and allowing expansion of, on a use perbit basis, heavy commercial and light industrial land uses north of Scown Lane and east of Machin Avenue.

The proposed construction of a Pizza Hut restaurant at the corner of Machin and De Long avenues was approved, and use of the remaining land on the west side of Machin between De Long and Grant avenues was set to be reevaluated at Monday's commission meeting.

The proposed vacation by the city of Sweetser Avenue rights-of-way between Machin and a proposed extension of Reichert Avenue was rejected by the commission, which felt that the street would be necessary for traffic circulation in the area of the proposed expansion of city offices.

The commission also recommended that Grant Avenue between Redwood Highway and Machin not be designated as a mall at this time as recommended in the Sedway and Cooke report.

Island Trip To Be First Audubon Event

The Marin Audubon Society will begin its fall activities Sept. 27 at 9:45 a.m. when members will meet at the Angel Island Ferry in Tiburon for a field trip to the island.

Other fall activities include a speech Oct. 2 at 8 p.m. at Ross School by Dr. David Mason, biologist and assistant professor of civil engineering at the University of California at Berkeley; a hike Oct. 5 at 10 a.m. led by Elizabeth Terwilliger of Mill Valley; an Oct. 12 canoe trip to Brooks Island, Richmond; an Oct. 17 pelagic trip to the Farallon Islands; an Oct. 19 bicycle trip to San Francisco and on Oct. 26 swan boat ride on Richardson Bay.

ALMANAC

Today is Thursday, Sept. 10, the 253rd day of 1970 with 112 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1889 Empress Elizabeth of Austria-Hungary was assassinated by an anarchist.

Man Injured In Minor Wreck

An 18-year-old San Rafael man received minor injuries in a three-car accident at 11 p.m. Tuesday at Third and D Streets, San Rafael, police reported yesterday.

Robert Joseph Morris of 705 Kerner Boulevard, Apt. 8, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a cut on his lower back and multiple bruises.

Morris's car, northbound on D Street, collided with cars driven west on Third Street by Albert Blum, 64, of 95 Bothin Road, Fairfax and Michael David Barbera, 16, of 300 Oak Crest Road, San Rafael.

Police had no details on the accident.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Leading Honor In First Finesse May Keep You Out Of River

Probably every experienced bridge player has heard that 10,000 Englishmen have drowned themselves in the Thames because they forgot to draw trumps; and that twice as many Americans have tossed themselves into the Mississippi because they drew trumps too soon. It's time you heard about all the Canadians who have come to a damp end in the St. Lawrence because they led the wrong trump.

Opening lead — ♠ J

DOWN ONE

It happened in Canada a long time ago. West led the jack of spades, and the defenders rattled off three spade tricks before you could say Manitoba. Then East led the four of clubs to dummy's ace.

Declarer, an experienced but not expert player, led a low trump from dummy and won a finesse with the queen. West discarded a club, and South then realized that East still had the K-10 of trumps behind dummy's jack and was therefore sure to win a trump trick. Down one.

NO COST

It couldn't cost South anything to lead the jack of hearts from dummy on the first round of trumps. In the actual hand, of course, East would have to cover with the king to prevent the jack from winning the first trump trick. South would win with the ace and would discover the bad break when West failed to follow suit. South could then return to dummy by ruffing the third round of clubs and could then lead another trump to finesse through East's ten.

If East didn't have the king of hearts, dummy's jack would lose to the king, but South would lost only the one trump trick he was always doomed to lose.

Remember this position when you have 10 trumps in the combined hands. Lead an honor to begin the first finesse so that you will be in position to take a second finesse if all of the missing trumps are in favorable position. This advice may keep you out of the nearest river.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - J 10 9
♥ - None
♦ - J 7 6 3 2
♣ - Q 10 8 7 3

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

You are not happy about the heart suit, but it is even more dangerous to bid than to pass. You may run if partner is doubled at one heart, but don't run before you're in trouble.

Unruh Dinner Set

A $100-a-plate dinner for Jess Unruh, Democratic nominee for governor, will be held on Oct. 7 in the Fairmont Hotel, San Francisco. Tickets are being handled by the Jess Unruh for Governor Dinner Committee, 131 Hayes Street, San Francisco.

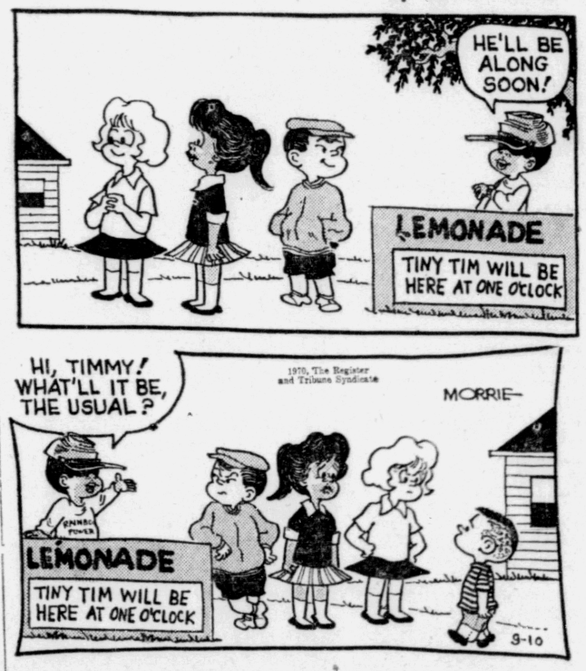

Behr Open House

Peter H. Behr of Mill Valley, Republican nominee for the state Senate, will hold an open house from 5 to 7 p.m. tomorrow in his Marin County headquarters, 1601 Second Street, San Rafael.

Volunteer Program Aiding Washington State Felons

SEATTLE — "Stinking-thinking" and long-lasting friendships are helping "hunks of junk" and "nobodies" stay out of trouble in Washington State.

The combination is part of a program in which craftsmen and businessmen are volunteering to help Washington felons find jobs and become useful members of society.

The program, called Job Therapy, Inc., and Man to Man, is aimed at the convict who, officials say, sometimes regards himself as a "hunk of junk" or a "nobody."

But, some of the "toughest prisoners" in Washington State have been helped by the group, prison officials say.

It's all based on a system developed in the Netherlands in which volunteers help rehabilitate criminals. Simmons says the system involves eliminating "do-gooders" whose only aim is to make themselves feel good.

"We want persons who will realize that this is a permanent relationship, not a counselor-client situation," says Simmons. He calls the volunteers "job advisors" and their prisoner friends "clients."

"We encourage our job advisors to bring their families when they visit their clients inside prisons," he said. Advisors also must be willing to help find work for a client after he is released from prison.

A successful job experience for the ex-convict, says Simmons, is the program's main goal.

A job, program officials say, results in having "the client upgrade his self-esteem and ambition and gain the respect of family and friends."

Washington State Appellate Court Judge Robert Utter, president of the 4-year-old group, calls all other programs "sheer failures" because of what he sees as their not stressing the importance of helping an exconvict find a job.

Utter says that out of 450 prisoners who have participated in the program, 65 per cent so far have remained outside jail.

In Washington State, he said, only 15 per cent of the men released from prisons normally remain outside. The other 85 per cent become lawbreakers again.

"Stinking-thinking," meaning recognizing one's faults instead of blaming others, is another vital part of the program, Simmons says.

Once a "client realizes the fact that he's in jail because he's either lazy or irresponsible, he stands a better chance of staying outside bars," he says.

But there are failures. One Job Therapy official said a client robbed a grocery store on the same day he was released from prison.

"He had gone to prison for holding up the same grocery store and apparently wanted to get even because of his being convicted," the official said.

The job advisor had stopped briefly near the grocery store to run an errand and left his client inside the car when the second robbery occurred.

The Washington State Division of Vocational Rehabilitation and The Department of Institutions have praised the program and have cooperated in matching job advisors with clients.

Prisoners participate in the program by volunteering for Job Therapy.

The group has asked the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration of the Department of Justice for a $211,700 demonstration grant to underwrite part of one year's operating expenses for the program.

Simmons says Job Therapy's staff of about 10 persons has had to operate on private donations since its formation.

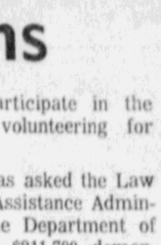

One of Simmons' pet projects is to establish some type of air transportation that would ferry advisers from the Seattle area to the Washington State Penitentiary in Walla Walla, Wash.

The prison is located in central Washington, making it difficult for advisors from Seattle. 263 miles away, to visit their clients.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Chronic Diarrhea Causes Loss Of Vital Chemicals, Fluids

Van Dellen

Diarrhea is a common intestinal disturbance. It is a frequent manifestation of food poisoning, and how long it takes to develop after tainted food is eaten offers a clue as to the causative microbes. Most attacks are not serious, but when diarrhea persists, the loss of fluids and vital chemicals often leads to dehydration and prostration.

Certain mineral salts and most of the liquids in the intestinal contents are absorbed by the first part of the large intestine. But when diarrhea is present, digesting foods pass through the intestine so rapidly there is no time for absorption. As a result, the water content of the residue increases, causing profuse, semifluid stools.

MOST ACUTE diarrheal attacks last from 12 hours to three days. Tea and toast followed by a bland diet and frequent sips of tap or barley water supply nourishment and replace the liquids that are lost. More than 75 products lessen diarrhea. Among these are paregoric, Kaopectate and Lumotil. When an infection is responsible, one of the antibiotics or a poorly absorbed sulfonamide is helpful.

CHRONIC DIARRHEA lasts longer and determining the cause requires a thorough study, including a proctoscopic examination, barium enema, and laboratory tests of the stools. The condition may stem from a bacterial infection of the intestinal tract, such as amebiasis (and other types of dysentery), typhoid fever, and cholera. In addition, chronic diarrhea may stem from organic and nervous forms of colitis and ileitis. Enzyme deficiences that cause malabsorption of carbohydrates or fats may do the same. Lack of hydrochloric acid in the stomach, for example, may induce morning diarrhea.

Chronic diarrhea also upsets the body concentration of sodium, potassium, proteins, iron and many vitamins. These must be replaced to avoid loss of appetite, vomiting, weakness, and loss of muscle tone. A change of bowel habits from normal to loose stools may be an early sign of cancer of the bowel.

INFECTED FINGER

Y.C.A. writes: A runaround near one fingernail was not helped by lancing. Have you any suggestions on further treatment?

REPLY

See your physician. Soaking the hand in hot water or applying moist dressings and heat may bring the infection under control. Our leaflet on this problem can be obtained by sending stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

ANIMALS AND RABIES

L.T. writes: If a rabid animal drinks from a container, will other animals which drink from this container also develop rabies?

[illegible]

ONE OVARY

P.V. writes: The doctor says my right ovary must go. Will this prevent me from getting pregnant?

REPLY

Conception is possible if the remaining ovary is healthy and the pelvic organs are normal.

RODENT ULCER

REPLY

A type of skin cancer (epithelioma) in which the edges of the lesion look as though they had been gnawed by a rodent.

A NEW GROWTH

A reader writes: What is a neoplasm?

REPLY

Neo means new and plasm refers to any abnormal growth, such as a tumor.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Time Limit On Estate Claims

After a long illness, Mrs. Hunt, a widow died and her estate went equally to her children. The court named her eldest son executor of the estate. After he petitioned to probate the will, he published a notice to creditors to file claims.

Eleven months later a local clinic filed a $7,500 bill, stating merely that it had rendered extensive service while Mrs. Hunt was at a hospital, but it gave no dates nor listed the services.

When the son rejected the Under the law any crtditor's claim must be filed and verified within four months of the notice to creditors. Creditors must attach an affidavit stating that the amount is due and that no payments or offsets to the claim have been made. A late verification invalidates the claim itself although it had been filed in time.

The executor cannot waive a claim's timeliness. If he wants to pay the claim himself he may but not with the estate's money.

After a claim is filed, the executor may pay it, reject it, or compromise it. If he rejects, creditor can then sue the estate within three months or forfeit his claim. Rather than go to court with a suit over a disputed claim, the executor may have a referee or some impartial person review it and report to the court.

The executor can also compromise and settle claims and hire accountants, lawyers, and others to help him.

As an officer of the court, the executor must account to the court for all the estate's assets. Without a court order he cannot distribute the assets of an estate.

The question is often asked why the probate laws are so strict on formalities. For one thing, it is in the interest of everybody that there be no undue delay in settling an estate. The courts make every effort to close the case promptly, and the law gives no one power to grant exceptions once reasonable notice has been given through publication.

The doctrine of Papal Infallibility was approved by the Ecumenical Council in Rome July 18, 1870.

TELEVISION IN REVIEW

Carol Channing's Latest Exposure Somewhat Better

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Miss Carol Channing made yet another stab at television Wednesday night. She appeared in her fifth special, and on her third network, in an hour of comedy from London with Art Carney, Fred MacMurray, Sir John Gielgud and Sir Ralph Richardson.

This hour was courtesy of NBC-TV, and had the asset of toning down her broad stage mannerisms somewhat, at least more than in her past video specials. In addition, her four notable leading men, who aided her British-themed skits, took up much of the limelight themselves, thereby further minimizing her usual larger-than-life style, which is naturally anti-television in its technique. She really ought to study Marshall McLuhan's communications theories.

Miss Channing has, of course, been a tremendous success on the stage and in clubs, where her enormous projection of personality and style is valuable. But television is something else, and those huge assets of the stage often seem gross and unnatural in this intimate home medium.

Miss Channing is an acquired taste, like artichokes or Greek brandy, which also can overwhelm you if the doses are not carefully controlled. In a medium, television, where reality registers best, she projects the image of a rather distant, unreal caricature. I admire Miss Channing on the stage, but I confess that her wide-eyed cuteness and gravelly voice on her various video specials have almost made me climb the nearest walls.

The latest Channing program did attempt to achieve a sort of madcap sophisticated tone, and, oddly, this succeeded most of all in sequences that featured not a single one of the stars—but, rather, an unlikely, frantic, female string quartet that bridged the skits. Shades of Billy Wilder's wild, schmaltzy musicians in "Love in the Afternoon." But that, of course, had Gary Cooper and Audrey Hepburn.

Hearing Date Set On Four Drug Counts

A preliminary hearing has been set for next Tuesday in Marin Municipal Court for Richard Arlen Sparrow, 32, of San Quentin Village, who faces four felony charges of possessing heroin and methamphetamine and trying to bring them into the prison.

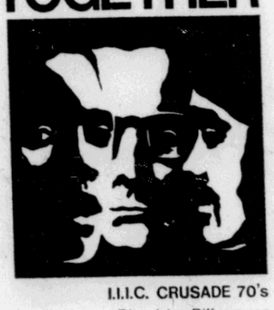

Sparrow was arrested in August on a warrant which had been issued following an incident at the prison gate Feb. 14. Guards said he threw a hypodermic kit into the gate office.

Former POW Looks Toward Mended Life

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Navy Lt. Robert F. Frishman's right arm will never again be as long as his left, but within a few weeks he may have a right elbow for the first time since late 1967 when he became a prisoner of war in North Vietnam.

Frishman is one of only nine prisoners of war released by the North Vietnamese. He describes his imprisonment as "21 months of pain, degradation and torture" in a rat-infested "hell hole."

The surface-to-air missile that shot down Frishman's Phantom jet Oct. 24, 1967, over the Phuc Yen airfield outside Hanoi also shattered the Navy pilot's right arm. It was Frishman's 125th combat mission.

He managed to eject safely from his crippled jet, as did his radar intercept officer, Earl H. Lewis Jr. They were captured almost immediately after they hit the ground.

Taken to a prisoner of war camp in Hanoi, Frishman was questioned and threatened with execution until he passed out. The next day, a North Vietnamese surgeon operated on his arm.

"When they removed the cast from my arm a few weeks later, I found I no longer had an elbow," Frishman said. The surgeon had removed the shattered section of bone in his arm and fused together what was left, leaving a red, unsutured scar, and Frishman's arm was stiff. It took six months to heal.

The North Vietnamese released Frishman in 1969 to a peace delegation from the United States. He arrived in New York Aug. 7, and the Navy immediately placed him in the U.S. Naval Hospital in Bethesda, Md.

Early this year he was moved to the Navy hospital at San Diego, Calif. his home state. Surgeons there implanted an artificial elbow joint in February, but the results were discouraging.

"It just flat didn't work," a Navy spokesman said. "They went back in and found that the device had broken." That second operation took place in June.

Much of his time has been spent, however, trying to make sure that other Americans do not forget those remaining prisoners of war. Friends in the Navy have helped by typing many articles and speeches about his harrowing experiences.

Late this month Navy doctors plan to try implanting another artificial elbow in Frishman's arm.

"If this works," a spokesman said, "he will be able to bend his arm again. But the right arm will always be shorter than the left one, and he will always be limited in his use of it."

The English lost less than 100 men in the battle with the Spanish Armada.

Small Turnout For Marin Tars Football

Unless more people go out for football at College of Marin, it's going to be a long season for the Kentfield school.

Team enrollment is down from more than 60 last year to 42. And even if he picks up the usual 20 or so when school starts, coach Dick Read says the Tars will be hurting for players.

"Our problems are with offensive and defensive linemen," he says, "and we could use some linebackers."

Marin has 11 players back from last season, but only eight who did much playing. One plus will be the presence of quarterback Jim Peters, a standout in 1969 who could garnish all-league honors in the Camino Norte Conference this year.

The nucleus of the club, with Peters at its center, includes fullback Ron Blassingame, and receivers Larry Blackwell and Pete Carroll. Blassingame, a 6 foot 2, 215-pounder, sat out most of last season because of injuries. He will be joined in the backfield by George Adams and Pat Green, halfbacks who saw limited action last season.

The receivers, like Blassingame, are to a degree unknown quantities. Blackwell played briefly in 1969 but was academically ineligible the last half of the campaign. Carroll served as a premier defensive back but was used sparingly on offense.

Yet the pass catching abilities of Blackwell and Carroll are the least of Read's problems. The real crisis will be in the interior line, whose responsibility it will be to give Peters time to throw.

There is only one veteran offensive lineman — center Charlie McBride. A first stringer last year, he proved very effective on pass blocking.

Candidates for the other line spots are tackles Doug Best, Rich Simpson and Mike Russell. One of them will probably be converted to guard, a position at which the Tars are devoid of experience.

As it stands now, Simpson and Russell are slated to work both ways and will be joined on the defensive line by returning ends Stack Schaefer and Jack Straw.

The only other veteran on defense will be safety John Dohn, who may be the best the Tars ever had. With any luck this season he'll set a team record for career interceptions.

The Tars annually get a couple of outstanding players from the Marin County Athletic League. Most MCAL stars, including all the big linemen, are swept up by four year colleges.

This year Marin inherits Drake fullback Bob Sutherland and Dave Perron, Novato's all-league linebacker.

At this stage, according to Read, the team is in good physical condition, but always the lack of depth is evident. Read says that Peters, McBride and Dohn are as good as any players he's ever had, but without some heavy-duty linemen, their talents may be wasted.

The Tar offense figures to be geared to a passing attack, but that will depend on what kind of pass protection develops. Last year's team, which was also weak on the line, rode Peters' arm to a 4 win, 4 loss record.

Finishing touches are now being put on Marin's new football field. Two thousand bleacher seats have been installed, and construction is under way on a press box. The Tars return to a home field after playing last year at Marin Catholic.

The first game of the season is at San Jose City College, Sept. 19, 8 p.m.

A Little Gaelic Goes A Long Way

Well, now, shurrrre and they don't call them the Galloping Garlic Snappers.

I mean, over Moraga way the St. Mary's College athletic teams are known as the Gaels and Marin County certainly is doing its share to keep the place as Gaelic as a village green in County Cork. They don't call Moraga Shanty Town for nothing. I mean, the campus cops are called Paddy's Pigs and, well, would you believe lace curtains in the gym?

And Then Comes Hanrahan

Ah, at fullback, another freshman who stands 6-1 and weighs 190 pounds, is Mrs. Hanrahan's fine boy, Timothy, of the San Rafael Hanrahans.

Heavenly days.

And as we go down the roster looking for Marin County names we come to the guard position where there is a junior star from San Anselmo with two years of varsity experience. His name is Nick Ferrua.

O'Brien, Finnegan, Hanrahan and FERRUA?!

Glory be. The Galloping Garlic Snapper lives.

SPEAKING OF the Irish, O'Regon State again is expecting big things from defensive end Jim Sherbert of San Rafael, one of 30 lettermen returning to Coach Dee Andros at Corvallis.

Sherbert, another great product of football rich Terra Linda High, won a starting job as a sophomore last year and is good for two more full seasons of outstanding service to the Beavers. Jim, 6-1 and 208, was a linebacker at Terra Linda where he was known as an Eager Trojan. Now he's an Eager Beaver.

Former 49ers Honored

MARIN CATHOLIC High assistant coach Bruno Banducci, auto salesman Bob Toneff of San Anselmo and Redwood High baseball coach Al Endriss will be among the ex-San Francisco 49ers to be honored at the annual 49er Alumni Day in Kezar Stadium Sunday, Sept. 20 when their alma mater plays the Washington Redskins.

The 1946 charter 49er team, of which "Bandooch," a Stanford product, was a prominent member, will receive special recognition as the S.F. organization celebrates the start of its 25th season. Banducci stayed with the team through the 1954 season. Toneff, a tackle from Notre Dame, played from 1952 through 1959 and Endriss, an end from San Francisco State, played in 1952.

DiMaggio Retains His Golf Lead

RENO (UPI)—Former New York Yankee star Joe DiMaggio carried a three-stroke lead into today's final round of the 12th annual Holiday Mug Hunt Golf Tournament.

DiMaggio, a 14 handicapper, shot a second round 63 Wednesday for a cumulative total of 127. His score was 17 under par and three strokes better than Dutch Koefoed of Burlingame. Bob Dee of Reno was third at 131.

McLain Mum Following Suspension

NEW YORK (UPI)—Denny McLain, the Detroit Tigers' "bad boy" pitching star, was suspended for the remainder of the current season and faced possible further disciplinary action today for carrying a gun and breaking probation.

Baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn announced Wednesday the new suspension of the 31-game winner of 1968 for "certain new allegations brought to my attention, including allegations regarding McLain's conduct with respect to the Detroit management and information that on occasion McLain has carried a gun."

Kuhn said there will be further proceedings after the season, raising the possibility that McLain's suspension could be extended further.

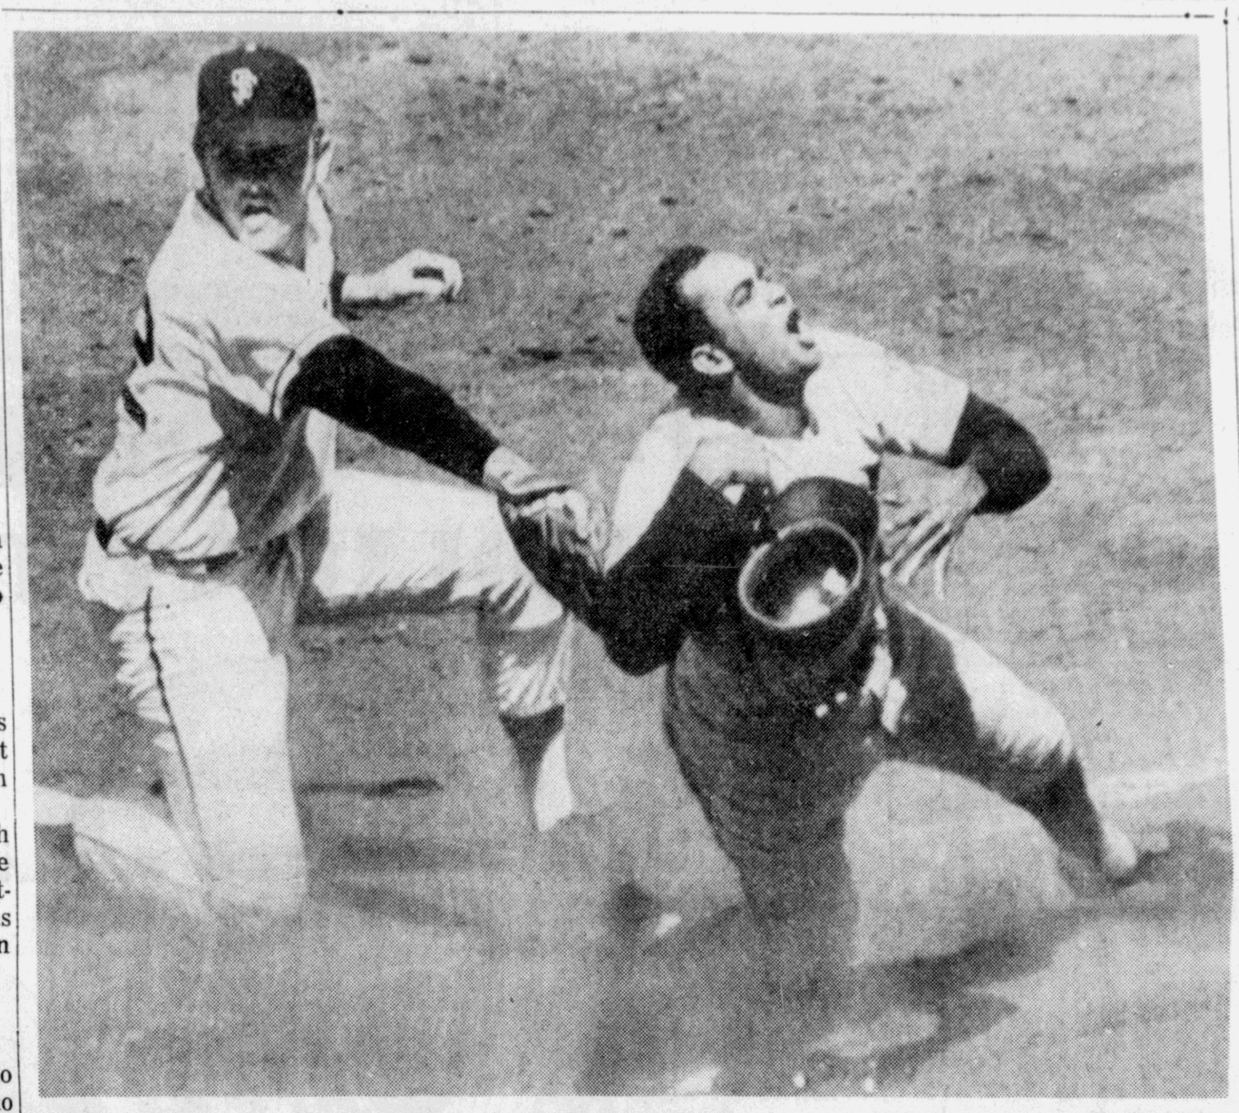

Kuhn's announcement came at the conclusion of a hearing in a downtown New York law office at which William Aikens, McLain's attorney, said he "requested an adjournment of the hearing to permit me to conduct an investigation into the matters in question and to prepare for a hearing concerning these matters should one be required."

Aikens said that McLain would not comment on the matter now or in the near future.

Aikens and the commissioner's counsel agreed that it would be impossible to resume the hearing before the end of the season so a request was made that the hearing be adjourned. McLain's suspension thus was continued until the end of the season by mutual consent of the lawyers.

Kuhn did not elaborate on the new allegations but said they did not involve McLain's recent suspension by the Tigers, Aug. 28, for throwing ice water on two Detroit sportswriters.

McLain, who won 31 games for the Tigers in 1968 and 24 in 1969, was suspended from spring training through July 1 this year for his involvement in a bookmaking operation. He appeared in 15 games for the Tigers this year but was ineffective most of the time and had a 3-5 record and a 4.65 earned run average.

JESUS OUT — San Francisco Giant pitcher Ron Bryant put the tag on Houston's Jesus Alou in second inning of yesterday's game. Alou had grounded to rookie first baseman Ed Goodson who tossed to Bryant covering first.

RETAIN BLANDA

Injuries Force Raider Gamble

George Blanda, 43, a reserve quarterback and one of the better kicking specialists in football history, was waived and then retained Wednesday along with two temmates. Neither Blanda nor guard Wayne Hawkins and defensive lineman Al Dotson were claimed by other teams.

44 LIMIT

The surprise move was necessitated when the Raiders were forced to trim their active roster to 44 prior to Saturday night's preseason contest against Pittsburgh. Fearful of losing several injured players, Oakland retained them on the active roster and waived healthy men in their place.

As a result, the Raiders may go into the game against the Steelers with as few as 38 healthy players instead of the legally permissible 44.

"We're going to get killed," said managing general partner Al Davis. "We've never been in such trouble since I've been here."

TO SIT OUT

Blanda, Hawkins and Dotson all can be restored eventually to the active roster. But they must sit out Saturday night's game. Blanda, undoubtedly, will be reactivated in time for the season opener Sept. 20 at Cincinnati. Mike Eischeid will handle the kicking chores for the Pittsburgh game.

Ordinarily, an injured player can be placed on the "move" list, his place taken on the field by a player from the taxi squad. But there is no "move" list or taxi squad in the preseason, and injured men can be protected only by remaining on the active list.

Touch Football

San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department is still accepting entries for the adult touch football league, scheduled to start Sept. 27, it was announced by Andrew Snyder Jr., director of the department.

A's Get Another Chance

ST. PAUL-Minneapolis (UPI)—The Oakland A's seem to do all right against every team except the one they have to beat.

Riding an eight-game string of victories, the A's had the misfortune Wednesday night of running into Jim Perry and the Minnesota Twins. Oakland lost 3-1 and fell 6 1-2 games behind the first place Twins in the American League West.

Heavy rain washed out the nightcap of the scheduled doubleheader, so another twi-night twinbill has been set for today.

MUST SWEEP

The A's must sweep both games to gain a foothold in the A.L. West pennant fight. A sweep would leave the A's 4 1-2 games behind with three weeks left in the season.

Oakland took advantage of lowly Chicago and Kansas City to build its eight-game win streak. But the A's must beat Minnesota to make up any sizeable ground, and this is something the club has been unable to do this season as well as last.

FIVE-HITTER

Perry, now unbeaten in four decisions this year against Oakland, drove in the winning run himself during a two-run rally in the seventh. Chuck Dobson had limited the Twins to three singles over the first six innings until Harmon Killebrew and Brant Alyea double and Perry singled.

YOUTH AT 39

Mays Should Be Tired But He's Going Strong

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Once upon a time they used to say: "As Willie Mays goes so go the Giants."

No one has said that in some time, but they could have Wednesday when the 39-year old Mays, who keeps on plugging along despite aching bones and tired muscles, drove in five runs with his 25th and 26th homers of 1970 to lead the Giants to a 9-5 victory over the Huston Astros.

TIRED

"Sure I'm tired at about this time of the year," acknowledged Mays, "But you just go out there and do the very best you can. They needed me in this one because (Willie) McCovey is hurting. I don't think I consciously tried any harder than I always do. I'm glad I could help."

It hasn't exactly been a bad year, by his standings, for Mays. The five RBIs give him a total of 75 for the year and a single gave him a three for five, boosting his average to .286.

In many ways 1970 has been a comeback sort of year for Mays, who now has 626 career homers. A year ago in his worst year ever in the majors, Mays hit .285 but had only 13 homers and 58 RBIs. It was a year also of injuries and nagging aches, something he has been able to stay away from in 1970.

HE'LL KNOW

Mays doesn't talk at all these days about when he will hang them up.

"I'll know when the time comes," he answers to all queries.

It doesn't seem far-fetched to believe Mays will hit three or four more homers this year as he continues the chase after Babe Ruth's all-time homer record of 714. Four more homers this year would still leave him 84 short of the record.

2-0 LEAD

Mays' first homer Wednesday sent the Giants off to a 2-0 lead in the first and by the time he came to bat in the fourth they were behind, 4-3, as the Astros routed San Francisco starter Ron Bryant with a three-run rally.

Hal Lanier walked leading off the fourth and two outs later was still on first. Then Tito Fuentes, who extended his hitting streak to 14 games, singled up the middle, giving Mays a chance to swing again with men on. Mays, who had hit a Larry Dierker fastball over the leftfield fence in the first, hit another fastball by Dierker over the rightfield screen.

The blow gave the Giants a 6-4 lead and they padded it with three more in the sixth as McCovey, hitting for rookie first baseman Ed Goodson, doubled to right-center to score two runs. Lanier followed with a single for a third run.

JOHNSON'S WIN

Jerry Johnson, who held Houston to one run in 3 1-3 innings in relief of Bryant, gained credit for the victory

Clay, Quarry Sign For Oct. 26 Fight

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cassius Clay, claiming that he still owns the heavyweight title, officially signed today to meet Jerry Quarry in a 15-round heavyweight bout Oct. 26 in Atlanta's Municipal Auditorium.

Clay, who was stripped of his title in 1967 after refusing to be inducted into the Army, will be making his first appearance in an actual bout since he stopped Zora Folley in Madison Square Garden on March 22, 1967.

As befitting a former champion, Clay has been promised $200,000 or 42½ per cent of the total revenue while Quarry, a leading contender, will get $150,000 versus 22½ per cent.

The bout will be shown on closed circuit television throughout the world and Quarry said he expected to make more money from this fight than when he fought Clay's successor, Joe Frazier.

Mike Malitz, handling the closed circuit television rights, said he anticipated a gross TV revenue of between two and three million dollars.

JIM MURRAY

Jim Bouton Has The Last Laugh

When Jim Bouton was a fastballing young right-hander with the New York Yankees, he threw so hard his hat used to fall off with every pitch. They knew he was through when it didn't even fall down over his eyes. You can throw a knuckleball with a top hat and monocle.

"I always figured I had to get everything I could behind everything I threw because I wasn't big or strong. So I threw myself at the batter as well as the ball," Jim explained the other day as he sat picking over his salad in the Beverly Hills Hotel.

PITCHERS who lose their fastball don't usually lunch at the Beverly Hills. They're usually having a beer and a submarine sandwich in the cab of a truck.

When Jim Bouton wrote a book, he realized he would have to knock his hat off. On the mound, Koufax he was not. On paper, Shakespeare he was not. "I knew I couldn't write a book saying, 'And then I jammed him on the fists and got the side out, and now we needed only 10 games to win the pennant.' "

So Bouton's book was hardly a knuckleball. It buzzed baseball right under the chin. It was a knockdown. He knew he had to get good stuff on the ball and he did.

BUT, ANY pitcher knows, you have to get help from the opposition. They have to swing at bad pitches, lay off good ones, run to the wrong base, make mistakes, get caught off stride, commit themselves too soon.

Bouton made a monkey out of baseball. He got them to hit HIS pitch every time.

"You couldn't have planned it better if you sat down and drew up a plan," he admitted as he stuck a fork in a lobster. "You could say, 'OK, first the Commissioner of Baseball calls you in and delivers a reprimand — which is covered by NBC, ABC, CBS, Reuters, the AP, UPI, all the big papers. You get on the 11 o'clock news and David Brinkley and in Life, Time, Newsweek, the Dow-Jones, Christian Science Monitor, Police Gazette. The Sporting News scolds you. You can only hope you get banned in Boston, denounced from the pulpit, and called up before the U.S. Senate.

"THEN, YOU get Dick Young of the New York Daily News to call you a rat-fink, or words to that effect, in a paper with two and one-half million daily circulation — not once, but three times! You get Mickey Mantle to say a few words of denouncement. That's 10,000 more copies sold right there.

"You feel just as if you were directing an orchestra which is doing exactly what you wish. You point a stick and, instead of thinking, 'Now the French horns,' you think, 'Now, the commissioner, now, Dick Young, now, Mantle, now, here we bring in the counterpoint. It was beautiful. I had a no-hitter going.

"Here I was with no fast ball. On some days, my knuckler wouldn't break — and when a knuckler doesn't break, you're throwing batting practice. But baseball still thought it had its hooks into me. My friends were shook. 'Look,' they said, 'you make $27,000 a year. And you throw it away for a few lousy book sales.'

"WELL, THE book has sold 165,000. I have made over $80,000. I am going to cover the World Series for a new syndicate. I want to make the book into a Broadway musical. Can you see the scene with 25 ball players wth binoculars prancing over a Washington Hotel roof to watch broads undressing? Can you see Joe Schultz, the manager, running out at intervals to say, 'Bleep-bleep, let's do down some Budweiser?'

"Can you see paperbacks, a sequel, a movie? Why, I may have to incorporate!"

The Establishment continued to pay dividends in its indignation. When Dick Young showed up in the locker room, far from dumping a pail of water over him, Bouton stuck his hand out and grinned. Relieved, Young blurted: "I'm glad you didn't take it personally!"

Bouton clapped his hand to his head. "I thought, 'My God, the title to my sequel!' "

THE MORAL is clear. If anyone writes a book about YOU, clam up. Just smile mysteriously and, pretty soon, the author will come screaming around saying, "Don't just sit there, denounce me! Don't you realize I called you a , that I held you up to ridicule, that I told all? Get indignant! I need the money!"

Just lean over and pat him on the head and murmur, "There, there! I haven't got around to reading your little book yet but I will one of these years. But I just want you to know I just told the AP and Channel Two that I thought it was a nice little book for kiddies — you know, sort of like 'King of the Home Run.' "

Posthumous Race Title Ruled Out

MILAN, Italy — The 1970 world championship title for formula one sports car drivers will be ruled vacant if no one beats the 45 points piled up by the late Jochen Rindt, the international auto sport commission said Wednesday.

The commission, meeting here after the Italian Grand Prix at nearby Monza where Rindt died in time trials Saturday, said if Rindt's point total is not surpassed he will be the unofficial champion, but no official posthumous title would be conferred.

Baseball

NEW YORK — The New York Yankees announced Wednesday the sale of veteran relief pitcher Steve Hamilton to the Chicago White Sox in a straight waiver deal.

Hockey

PORT HURON, Mich. (UPI) — Gordie Howe, hockey's all-time scoring leader, said Wednesday he would retire at the end of the 1971-72 season.

"I think it would be pushing my luck to play beyond that — I'll be 44 then," Howe said at the opening of the Detroit Red Wings' training camp.

Basketball

NEW YORK — Pistol Pete Maravich has picked up an extra $25,000 for autographing a basketball. The price could run into six figures before he's through, says the Seamless Company of New Haven, Conn., which has signed the former Louisiana State star and current rookie with the Atlanta Hawks to endorse a line of basketballs.

Tennis Play Resumes After A Washout

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) —The entire quarter-final round of the U.S. Open tennis championships, halted by rain Wednesday, was scheduled to take place today, with two Americans challenging Australians, two other Americans battling each other and a third Aussie, picking on the lone "outsider," a New Zealander.

Leading off the U.S. challenge to "down under" domination of the $160,000 event will be Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., who will bring his service and power game against the wily third seed, Ken Rosewall, the diminutive veteran who, at 35, has won $90,000 this year and was the losing finalist at Wimbledon.

Two More Top Riders For Motorcycle Race

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Dave Aldana and Don Castro have signed up for Sunday's 12th annual 50-mile national championship motorcycle race promoted by J.C. Agajanian.

and evened his record at 3-3. Don McMahon, a year older than Mays at 40, then held Houston to one hit over the last two innings to gain his 15th save.

Fox said the Giants, who have won 18 of their last 25 games, are confident now of catching the Dodgers for a second place finish.

PERRY

Gaylord Perry shoots for his 20th victory today when he goes to work against Wade Blasingame in the Astros' final appearance of the year at Candlestick Park. Perry hasn't won 20 games since 1966, when he won 21.

He won 15 in 1967, 16 in 1968 and 19 a year ago.

The Dodgers follow the Astros into Candlestick on Friday night for a three-game weekend series.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Sadecki Wins For Mets

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Sadecki, signed in May of 1958 by the St. Louis Cardinals as a $50,000 bespectacled bonus baby, pitched the New York Mets into a first-place tie with the Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League East with a route-going, four-hit, 3-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies. The win enabled the Mets to gain a split in the twi-night doubleheader as the Phils took the opener, 3-2, on rookie pinch-hitter Willie Montanez' ninth-inning single.

The Cardinals edged the Pirates 6-4, and the Montreal Expos tripped the Chicago Cubs, 3-2, to throw a tight-fitting one-game blanket over the top three teams in the East. The Mets and Bucs have identifal 75-67 records.

In other National League action, San Francisco trounced Houston, 9-5, Cincinnati blanked Los Angeles, 6-0 and Atlanta and San Diego split a twi-night twin bill, the Braves copping the first game, 6-3, in 11 innings, the Padres taking the nightcap, 7-4.

In the American League, Baltimore edged the New York Yankees, 1-0, Boston topped Detroit, 4-1, Washington beat Cleveland, 5-4, Chicago swept California, 11-4 and 3-1, in a rain-shortened double-header, and Minnesota downed Oakland, 3-1, in the first game of a scheduled doubleheader. The second game was postponed by rain, as was the Milwaukee-Kansas City contest.

The 29-year old left-hander struck out 12 in pitching his first complete game win since he beat Atlanta on June 13. It was his eighth win of the season.

"I've been in a World Series before, and I'd sure like to hurl in one this year," said Sadecki, who was the winning pitcher in the opening game of the 1964 World Series.

Barry Moving To New York

ORINDA (UPI)—Rick Barry, engaged in a long struggle to return to the NBA San Francisco Warriors, apparently is resigned to his fate of playing at least for the time being with the ABA New York Nets.

Barry continued preparations Wednesday to move from his Orinda home to New York. The high scoring forward still has court action pending in which he seeks a release from ABA contractual obligations.

MARIN-SONOMA GOLF

Championship Tourney Time

Club championships will get underway this weekend at four Marin and Sonoma County golf courses. Meadow Club in Fairfax will hold medal play qualifying rounds Saturday and Sunday, while Indian Valley in Novato, Peacock Gap in San Rafael and Rohnert Park open with match play Sunday.

Mill Valley's club tourney will begin a week from Saturday, and Marin Country Club in Novato and Sonoma National start theirs on Sept. 25 and 27 respectively.

Nearly 100 players will participate Saturday in San Geronimo's annual Invitation Tournament. A breakfast and an awards dinner will accompany the best ball twosome, full handicap event.

Two holes-in-one were logged recently on Marin courses. Mrs. Larry Kett of Novato aced the 15th hole at Marin Country Club last Sunday. She used a five-wood for the 135-yard shot.

Dr. Bill Rushworth of Terra Linda shot the third hole-in-one of hiscareer Monday at Meadow Club. He used a six-iron to ace the 144-yard 11th hole.

Nagging Injuries For 49ers

REDWOOD CITY (UPI)—The San Francisco 49ers, preparing for a preseason game against unbeaten Los Angeles, are bothered by several nagging physical ailments.

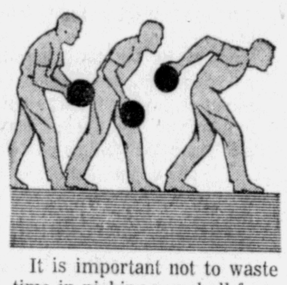

Linebackers Dave Wilcox and Skip Vanderbundt, defensive linemen Stan Hindman and Charlie Krueger, defensive back Brace Taylor and running backs Jimmy Thomas and John Isenbarger all took part in practice Wednesday despite minor injuries.

Coach Dick Nolan, hoping for his second preseason victory against three defeats, must crack a Los Angeles defense which has contributed to the Rams' five successive exhibition victories. One of the areas San Francisco will have to improve is its running game, which has averaged only 76 yards per contest.

"We had so many people hurt that we haven't been able to keep them running," Nolan said. "It will improve."

BOWLING TIPS

It is important not to waste time in picking your ball from the rack and getting ready to start your delivery. But once you begin your steps to the foul line, take it easy. Those few seconds aren't going to bother anybody and hurrying your approach can only hurt your score.

PREP FOOTBALL PROSPECTS

A Building Year For Redwood

By DAVID EINSTEIN

Redwood High School lost 18 players from last year's varsity football team, including four all-leaguers. Then they lost their coach. Bob Troppmann resigned to devote his full time to being athletic director.

Not surprisingly. The Giants, who finished with a four win, two loss record last season in the Marin County Athletic League, have only seven returning letterman and 13 seniors overall.

Roark could do worse than inherit a young team. First, he can be excused if he fails to produce a winner this year. Second, his system will differ from Troppmann's and a young, inexperienced club will take the changes easier.

Manpower will not be a problem at the Larkspur school this year. The number of candidates for the varsity and junior varsity teams has increased from last year to 93 players. Curiously, most schools in the county are experiencing a drop in football interest.

Lack of experience will be a problem, especially on both the offensive and defensive lines. Roark says, "Our whole season's going to depend on our front people."

Back from last year are center Steve Hammersly, guards Steve Green and Gary Shunk and end Steve Fleischman. Dave Shekell, a senior up from the J. V. may man the other guard spot.

The Giants are fortunate to have some big tackles from the junior varsity, Juniors Bob Stubbs and Joel Johnson and sophomore Ken Massucco all weigh more than 200 pounds. Their size may offset to some extent their inexperience.

Behind the Giants' untested line will be an untested backfield. Returning will be fullback Andy Anixter, halfback Mike Massoletti, flanker Jim Keigwin and quarterback Steve Spooner. All are seniors who saw limited duty in 1969.

Roark says there is going to be a battle at quarterback. Spooner reportedly can move the ball on the ground but can't throw. Bob Brown, a junior, has a good arm but can't control the ground game.

The saving grace may be a sophomore, Darryl Etralin. Roark says of him: "He moves real well and does a nice job of leading the team."

The young signal caller may be platooned with one or both other quarterbacks, and could fit nicely into Roark's plans.

Receiving chores for the club will fall to Keigwin, Fleischman and either Greg Skinner or Gary O'Neill. Those two juniors are fighting it out for the tight end position.

Roark says Redwood will go to the air about 60 per cent of the time. That will be a departure from Troppmann's ground-oriented teams of recent years.

Defensively, the Giants seem set except for the line. Linebackers will be Anixter, Shunk and sophomore Bob Fulton.

Keigwin, Spooner and Massoletti will provide experience in the secondary, although Roark might go with a couple of sophomores, Etralin and Katsumi Johnson, at the safety spots.

Although other MCAL coaches do not list Redwood as a contender, Roark feels that "we could be in there somewhere mixing it up" with the top teams. Those, he says, will be Terra Linda, San Rafael, Drake and Tam.

The Giants' first non-league game will be Sept. 19 against Sacred Heart at Washington High School in San Francisco.

Top Net Stars In Tournament

Hayakawa Praises Japan's Riot Control Techniques

By GEORGE NEVIN

American and Japanese policemen could learn a lot about the techniques of riot control if they studied movies of each other's techniques during demonstrations.

That's the opinion of Dr. S. I. Hayakawa of Mill Valley, president of San Francisco State College just returned from a 20-day tour of Japan.

"The Japanese police are much better organized than ours here. They carry sticks but they're forbidden to draw firearms," Hayakawa said. Their standard maneuver when confronted with thousands of militants is to form ranks behind a phalanx of shields.

DR. S. I. HAYAKAWA
Back from Japan

"Both sides seem to know what the rules are, and no one gets killed," the 64-year-old semanticist said.

This sort of approach helps prevent incidents such as the killing of four students at Kent State University. "That happened because the National Guard didn't know what to expect — the troops were inexperienced. It never could happen in Tokyo — they're too experienced," he said.

Hayakawa had praise for the way San Francisco police handled disturbances at San Francisco State during the winter of 1968-69.

"They acted with great restraint and discipline. Despite the hysterical cries of police brutality, I could see the improvement in police tactics as the days went by," he said.

In the great battle of Jan. 23, 1969, when hundreds of students were arrested, not one was struck by a policeman, Hayakawa said. "I think Japanese and American police could learn a lot by studying the movies of each other. If ours used shields, they could ward off the rocks," he laughed.

A marked similarity between American and Japanese student radicals was evident to Hayakawa. "Like our New Left, they're critical of their own system without knowing much about it. The theoretical Marxism they espouse comes mostly from books."

But many differences exist as well. "The Japanese students are much better organized, each splinter Marxist party has its characteristic riot helmets stenciled with slogans," he said. Like the police, they carry long staves.

Another difference: "I've heard it said that when the Japanese radicals are finished with school, they go right into the Establishment. That's not the way it is here."

During Hayakawa's stay in Japan he was guest of the Japanese government, touring universities and colleges and discussing problems faced by educators on both sides of the ocean.

At one lecture, he said, he told his audience about the futility of complaining about racism. "The charge of racism is a self-fullfilling prophecy," he said. "If a person behaves as tough he is being discriminated against, then hes urely is. If he blames his failures on racism, he's licked right there."

Hayakawa believes that the climate at San Francisco State has changed completely since the 1968 disruptions. "The student government, which was in the hands of the radicals who wanted to close the college down, now is in the hands of those who want to keep it open," he said.

"There's a vast improvement in the membership of the faculty senate as well. The responsible faculty members, the far-seeing liberals opposed to violence, won control of the Senate," he said. "Two years ago, the student government represented only the radical wing. Now it is representative of a broad range of viewpoints."

A professed believer in academic freedom, Hayakawa upholds the right of communists to teach on campus "as long as they're not members of a political conspiracy."

"I favor a balance of viewpoints within a department. You're not in trouble when you have one communist out of a department of 20, but when 15 out of 20 are communists, you get a distorted picture," he said.

As for the future of San Francisco State, the president believes a repeat of the disturbances unlikely. "Organized conspiracies against the college aren't going to happen this year," he said, basing part of the prediction on steps he is taking to "knit a more cohesive all-college polciy. With less cause for divisiveness, things aren't as likely to go wrong."

College Lists Music Courses

Courses beginning next week are: Community Orchestra, Mondays from 8 to 10:15 p.m.; Community Band, Wednesdays from 7:30 to 10 p.m.; and Opera Workshop, Wednesdays from 7 to 10 p.m.

Courses beginning the following week are Sight Singing, Rhythm and Ear Training, Sept. 21 at 7:30 p.m.; Recorder Playing, Sept. 22 at 7:30 p.m.; and Community Chorus, Sept. 22 from 8 to 10:15 p.m.

Smut Fighter Halts Liberal Panel Report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Acting with the knowledge, and perhaps the approval, of the White Houst, a smut fighter who was President Nixon's sole appointee to the Presidential Commission on Pornography has won a court order blocking publication of the commission's liberal report.

With the help of a lawyer who aided actress Loretta Young in keeping her old film clips out of the movie Myra Breckenridge, commission member Charles H. Keating Jr. of Cincinnati obtained the temporary order Wednesday in federal court.

He said he and six others on the 18-member commission were opposed to portions of the commission's report — including a finding pornography laws should be relaxed and that obscene material does not cause deviant behavior or sex crimes.

Asked if the Nixon administration supported his move, Keating reminded reporters he was Nixon's only appointee to the commission formed by President Lyndon B. Johnson. He said he was in touch with the White House and "they are well aware of this action."

As portions of the report began leaking out in recent weeks, the White House disassociated itself with the panel. And the administration did not send a lawyer to court to defend the commission against Keating's suit.

Politics Held Sausalito School Thorn

Four candidates for the Sausalito School District board last night pondered the future of the troubled district with views ranging from hopeful to gloomy.

The contenders, Robert R. Lyon and Robert A. Thompson of Sausalito, and Robert E. Fisher Jr. and Royce McLemore of Marin City, spoke before about 75 persons at the Sausalito Woman's Club.

They saw the district at a crucial turning point when playing politics with the schools should be eliminated and education stressed.

Thompson said the future of the district "as it stands is obviously very dim," if past mistakes aren't rectified.

Enrollment in the past four or five years has dropped from 1,200 to less than 600 pupils, and parents are taking their children out of district schools, he said.

Some parents are talking about having their own private school, "and can you really blame them?" he asked. At this rate, sooner or later there would be a "de facto black school situation," he asserted.

Thompson proposed that the administration of the district be undertaken by "a business firm that would operate on a money-back basis."

Mrs. McLemore contended the future of the district lies with what the people of the district make it. She said she didn't think the district has been a failure, and felt "last year was one of the better years" educationally.

She pointed out that this fall's enrollment wasn't as low as expected, which she felt was "due to some parents not turning their backs on the situation."

The district can profit by its mistakes, "mistakes made by both sides," and it needs the help of the community, she said.

There is a need for improved teaching, improved human relations between black and white students and an improved reading program, Mrs. McLemore said. "Parents should get out into schools, take a positive approach and see what is going on."

Fisher said the district's future is up to the people, either it can "tumble and fall" or "grow and prosper."

He said he wouldn't "tolerate use of kids as political tools," and would "make decisions for the benefit of all kids."

Fisher said the goal should be a sound educational system. This would draw back those who have been dissenters and those who have sent their children to private schools, he claimed.

He proposed that the district lease Central School for commercial use, a move that would bring revenue and reduce maintenance costs. Children from Central could attend Martin-Luther King School until enrollment increased, he explained.

Lyon said the future of the district "is the responsibility of all the people in the Sausalito district . . . either it flourishes or there's none at all."

If using the schools for social experiments and racial and political overtones are allowed to continue, "there will be a short life for our schools," he asserted.

Lyon felt "that given a chance the administration" of the district will improve, and he called for a board dedicated to conservation of funds and education of the pupils.

With an improved teaching staff and a stable academic environment, the confidence of the parents will be gained, Lyon contended.

He conceded "it will take a while to dispel the feeling of failure, many now hold."

A resident asked candidates why "the district is on the brink of failure."

Fisher replied there had been too much "political action" in the district and "people using children to gain I don't know what. They've forgotten about the children."

Thompson also laid the blame on "the use of politics as a stalking horse," and said the district has to get back to basic disciplines.

Lyon saw the fault in the district's "inability to perform," with an unstable atmosphere and academics "at the bottom of the barrel" because of political overtones and militancy."

On the question of whether Marin City should have equal representation on the board with Sausalito, the replies were:

Lyon — "I think board members are dedicated to education of all kids. I see no need for representatives on separate basis."

Mrs. McLemore — "If there were more representation on the board from Marin City, it would eliminate some of the upheavals at board session, which resulted from the feeling of Marin City parents that they weren't being heard."

Fisher — "I'm not running on any particular political philosophy, and neither do the residents of Marin City all agree on one political philosophy. What is needed isn't regional representation, but representation that entails new ideas in education."

Thompson — "This assumes you are talking about different attitudes, and difference doesn't follow."

Other comments during the evening were:

Fisher — Pupils should be given an education that will enable them to deal intelligently with any situation.

Mrs. McLemore — There should be strong in-service programs for teachers, more direction from administration and more supervision of teachers. Teachers "who don't feel comfortable in the Sausalito District could be encouraged to teach in a more suitable setting."

Thompson — "They have been confusing improved education with social experiments. We don't need any great social experiments in school. We need to teach kids to go out and compete."

Lyon — "We need participation of all people and communication rather than oratory and name calling."

Dormitory To Become Youth Hostel

A former Sonoma State College dormitory in Rohnert Park will soon house a youth hostel for traveling young people, a fabric shop, a public cafeteria and offices for community and college service organizations.

The building at 781 East Cotati Avenue was formerly Jack London Hall. It was purchased by a private company, Student Projects Inc., which changed the name to the Family Annex but continued operating it as a student dormitory.

The Rohnert Park City Council on Tuesday granted Student Projects a use permit for the additional services in the building, according to City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan.

The council Tuesday also accepted an offer from Western Host, a housing developer, to deed the equivalent of seven residential lots to the city for a park in exchange for the city providing $14,000 worth of street work to the developer.

Callinan was directed by the council to proceed with a study of the possibility of combining Rohnert Park police service with the City of Cotati. The action came at the request of the Cotati City Council.

The sport of sailing was introduced to England by King Charles II.

Seven GIs Suffer Bad Liquor Trip

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Seven prisoners at the Presidio stockade nearly blinded themselves when they injected into their veins a homemade liquor composed of sugar, baker's yeast, water, potato peelings and canned peaches partially fermented in paint cans.

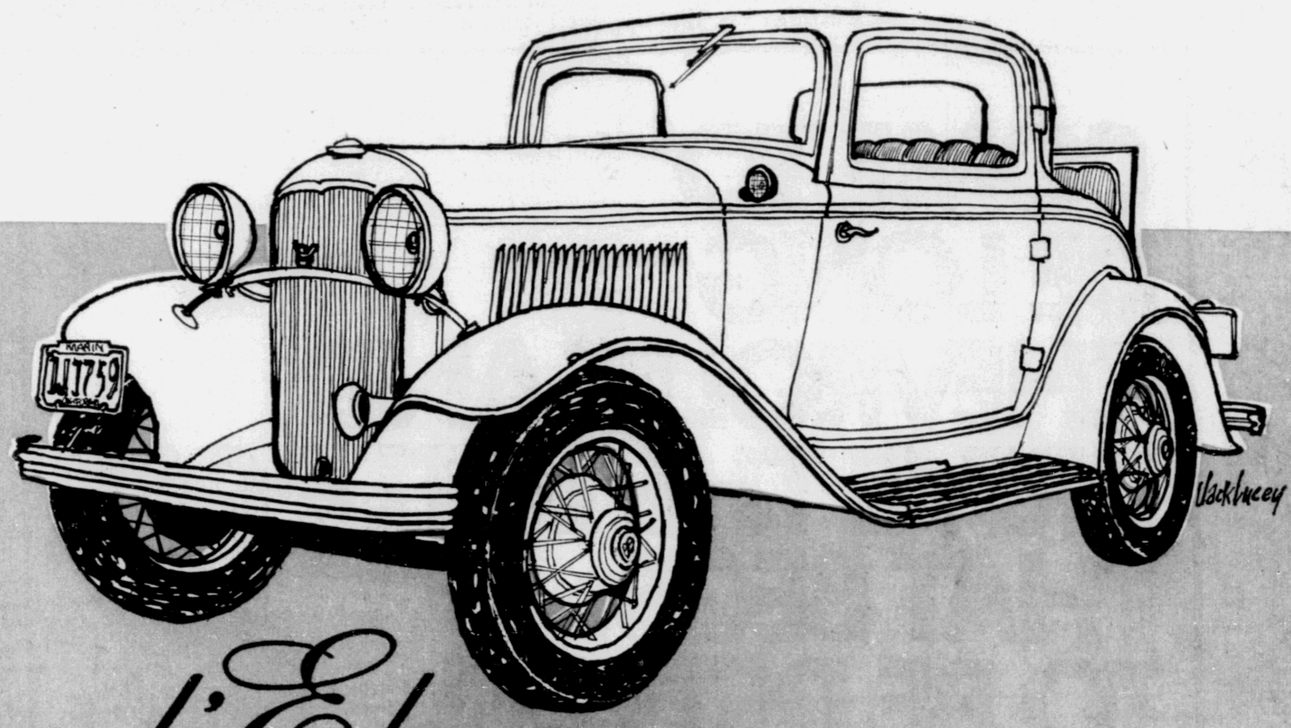

Army doctors Harvey L. Eichner and Ernest Aebi reported Wednesday that the young GI's, the oldest of whom was 22, "injected what was basically garbage in their veins early in 1969."

They fell gravely ill within an hour with fevers as high as 105 degrees and suffered from nausea, neck, chest and back pain and numbness in their extremities. But the most dangerous symptom of all was a rare hemorrhaging of the retina—the fragile light sensitive eye lining.

Doctors at the post hospital gave them quick injections of antibiotics or else "it was quite possible that the seven could have suffered blindness or death," one of the doctors said.

Magee Resists Judge In Quentin Appearance

By MARY LEYDECKER

Amid cries of "power to people" and "death to the pigs," the lone surviving convict of the Aug. 8 Civic Center shootout was dragged into a makeshift courtroom at San Quentin today.

His eyes filled with hate, 31-year-old Ruchell Magee repeatedly shouted at Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court that he wanted "to be removed from this booby trap you have here."

Charged with assaulting and murdering Judge Harold J. Haley, Magee claimed that "the prison guards killed the judge."

CLENCHED FISTS

Most of the 50 spectators in the courtroom inside the prison fence arose and gave clenched fist salutes to Magee as two officers carried the chained convict into the room for his arraignment.

Judge McGuire warned the spectators that if they continued to "make demonstrations," he would have to clear the courtroom but less noisy comments continued throughout the short proceedings.

Magee, indicted last week by the Marin Grand Jury, was advised of his constitutional rights by the judge, but refused to answer any questions at first, saying that he wanted removal "from the Klu Klux Klan trial."

An attorney appearing at the arraignment for Magee, Henry Ramsey Jr. of Richmond, explained to the judge that Magee "feels it is impossible for him to receive a fair trial in this country" and does not want to make any court appearances.

'I WAS CHOKED'

Magee shouted out that "I was drug into the courtroom. I was choked and thrown into the back seat of a car like a dog."

"This is not a court — the people know it's illegal."

He also accused Judge McGuire of hiding facts about the Marin Sheriff's department and "playing two roles in those robes."

He shouted that such proceedings are "what caused the Marin County incident" and accused guards of killing Judge Haley.

Charges Of Failure On Air Pollution

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Charges of failure were leveled today at the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District by a group of Stanford University students.

They blamed the failure to keep up with growing pollution largely on the 12-member board of directors. The board, the students declared, "has failed to provide effective leadership, has taken a go-slow approach to problems, and has been resistant to reform."

They also noted that while the district has "established a close and cooperative working relationship with the industries it regulates, no similar rapport exists between the BAAPCD and conservation-oriented segments of the public." The few citizens groups that have been critical of the district often have been treated as antagonists, rather than as potential supporters, the students said.

Their findings were in a 380-page report they issued today after a nine-month study of the district. The study was headed by Edward Groth III, a graduate student of biology and an instructor at the university. Groth long has been a critic of the district, and recently was named a member of its advisory council.

Their wide-ranging report also called for replacing autos with rapid transit in urban areas, and explored the host of polluters contributing to air contamination.

One startling finding was that gas stations release more organic gases each day than all of the Bay Area's five major oil refineries. Most of the pollution from some 10,000 gas stations

Stanford Team Raps Gnoss On Clear Air Performance

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Marin County's representatives on the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District board got mixed, but generally low, ratings in a critique of their performances today by Stanford University students.

Supervisor William A. Gnoss was rated "poor on performance" and "fair" on attitude. Gnoss, the only member of the present air board who has served on it since its formation in 1955, was found to have played "a relatively minor role in BAAPCD decision making." Students described him as "almost totally ineffective."

Former Director John A. Miskimen, who resigned both from the board and the San Rafael City Council last spring, was rated fair in performance and excellent in attitude. The students knocked Miskimen's rating on performance because he had missed more than 30 per cent of the board meetings.

Miskimen's replacement, Sausalito Councilman Wyman Hicks, was not rated because he is new to the board. However, he was praised for his strong advocacy "of the environmental point of view." The students predicted that Hicks "will be able to strengthen significantly the board's commitment to make rapid progress toward cleaner air."

The students rating of the 12 directors was based on the board membership of last spring.

Six of the 12 were rated poor, but only two of those six will still be on the board at the end of this year.

The board's new chairman, Victor Calvo, chairman of the Santa Clara Board of Supervisors, won a rating of excellent both on attitude and performance for pushing for tighter regulations on industrial pollution.

Calvo long led a minority favoring tighter regulations, a minority now strengthened by the addition of four new directors into what the students

Guerrillas Extend Deadline, But Again Threaten To Blow Up Jets

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Palestinian guerrillas holding more than 250 hostages aboard three hijacked airliners in the Jordanian desert today extended their ultimatum deadline for 72 hours but threatened once again to blow up the passengers and planes unless their ransom demands are met.

The International Red Cross was still trying to negotiate their release in exchange for seven Arab commandos held in West Europe but informed sources in New York in touch with the negotiations indicated there was a hitch—that the guerrillas wanted to release only the non-Israelis aboard the planes.

The United States and Britain were reported demanding the release of all passengers and crew regardless of nationality or religion. The guerrillas in announcing the deadline postponement criticized the Anglo-American "attitude."

Israeli Premier Golda Meir said today in Tel Aviv Israel opposed releasing imprisoned Arab guerrillas in exchange for the passengers. She did not say flatly Israel woud refuse to release guerrillas if such an exchange was part of an international package deal.

In a speech to the Organization of Working Mothers from the Trade Union Federation she said the world was being held up to bribery and blackmail because the lessons learned from earlier attacks on Israeli jetliners and El Al offices had been ignored.

"Now the whole world is confronted with a horror the like of which it has never known before," Mrs. Meir said. "The only thing it can do is pay a bribe. And what sort of a bribe? To free criminals and murderers. We know who the people are who are sitting in our jails. They are terrorists who attacked and murdered innocent people."

The airlines involved, TWA, Swissair and BOAC, issued a breakdown of passengers which said 258 or 259 passengers and crewmen remained aboard the planes and 154 women and children were taken to the Inter-Continental Hotel in Amman—where a near civil war raged.

The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine originally said they would blow up the plane at 7 p.m. PDT Wednesday if West Germany, Switzerland and Britain did not release seven jailed Arab commandos.

A wonderful creative force whose worst mistake was that it didn't make the mosquito a vegetarian.

Mill Valley Couple Volunteers To Replace Two Skyjack Jet Hostages

A Mill Valley psychologist and his wife, who think "international problems can't be solved by piling up corpses," have volunteered to replace two of the hostages being held on three captured planes in the Jordanian Desert.

Dr. William H. Pemberton and his wife, Oma, made the offer to President Richard M. Nixon and Secretary of State William Rogers in identical telegrams yesterday.

Since that time, they said today, "A dozen people have called and asked us to count them in."

The 58-year-old clinical psychologist and his 56-year-old wife said they made the dramatic gesture "as an alternative to violence."

"If the President accepts our offer and we get blown up over there," said the gray-haired Pemberton, "The shock may well mean the beginning of the end for hijackings and hostages."

The effect of such an atrocity, Pemberton believes, may cause world opinion to prevent similar occurences from ever happening again.

Pemberton, who is a Quaker, said "We don't solve problems by piling up corpses. All my life I've sought nonviolent solutions to world crises."

Revolution is obsolete in the modern world, he said, because "humans tend to overreact, and then the problem gets bigger than it was before. The spiral has to be stopped somewhere."

The main concern of the Pembertons is that the hijackers know that they "can't get away with this sort of violence. If they succeed, there's no stopping them."

No word has been forthcoming from the White House, and Pemberton declined to speculate on the chances that he will be allowed to go to Jordan.

The telegram to the President read:

"At some time in man's destiny there must come an end to violence as problem-solving devices. With this in mind, I do hereby request that I be allowed to replace one of the hijacked plane occupants on the Jordanian Desert.

"I hope that other volunteers will join me and let the consequences take place."

"The only proviso: That we do not give in to the demands for the release of other hijackers and those convicted of crimes in the courts of civilized nations."

New Outbreaks In Amman Despite Cease-Fire Pact

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

New fighting broke out today in the Jordanian capital of Amman between Palestinian guerrillas and Jordanian army troops, but official Amman Radio reported tonight the two sides had agreed to respect the cease-fire they declared Wednesday.

At height of the fighting mortar shells and gunfire struck the Inter-Continental Hotel in the heart of the city where 154 hostages from three hijacked airliners had taken refuge. None of the refugees, mostly women and children, were hurt.

A cease-fire on Wednesday ended temporarily eight days of fighting that followed a Palestinian assassination attempt against King Hussein. The fighting resumed almost immediately in Amman and other parts of Jordan and the Palestinians said the army was trying to exterminate them.

The authoritative Jerusalem Post reported that 5,000 of the 15,000 Iraqi troops stationed in Jordan had sided with the guerrillas during the fighting. Other reports said some units

UNRUH BLUNDERS IN REAGAN CHARGE

Reagan Scorns Unruh's Tactics

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan, charging Jess Unruh with "cheap demagoguery" for campaigning at the governor's leased home, today announced the defection to his side of a major Democratic party contributor.

The Republican governor refused again to bare his wealth but for the first time said he was willing to submit his assets to an accountant for examination to determine "whether they constitute any conflict of interest, which they don't."

KLEIN BACKING

The chief executive's campaign organization reported that Eugene V. Klein, board chairman of the National General Corp., a conglomerate, had endorsed Reagan for re-election over Unruh.

Klein was a co-chairman of former Gov. Edmund Brown's 1966 re-election campaign and supported John F. Kennedy, Lyndon B. Johnson, and Hubert H. Humphrey for president, campaign aides said.

He will be chairman of a major fundraising event Oct. 8 in Los Angeles, headlining Frank Sinatra and Dean Martin, both Democrats supporting Reagan. Klein said that Reagan "has brought common sense management to the state's business."

MAKES CLEAR

"One thing my opponent has done is make it perfectly clear that I was right in refusing to debate him, because his idea of debate is obviously cheap demagoguery," Reagan said.

Unruh stood in front of Reagan's fashionable leased home in Sacramento and listed the names of the 17 landlords he said also contributed to Reagan's re-election campaign.

"Maybe I ought to put up a sign: keep off the grass," Reagan said. "That might be a warning to other citizens, because who is next? Like termites, it might be spreading and maybe we need tighter pest control laws."

The state two months ago took over the $15,000 a year rent on the Tudor-style home.

Alleged Payee Dead 10 Years

SANTA BARBARA (UPI)—Free-swinging Jess Unruh, in a major campaign goof, has accused Gov. Ronald Reagan of awarding a "political payoff" to a man he contended helped the governor run for president in 1968.

Actually, the man died in 1960.

The alleged "payoff," according to Unruh, was the appointment of the man's 28-year-old son, Earl W. Brian Jr., as state Medi-Cal director, a $30,000 per year job.

Unruh made the charge Wednesday in Fresno, citing it was an example of Reagan's appointments of "political hacks." The Democratic gubnatorial nominee said it was "common knowledge throughout the medical profession" that Brian's father, whom he identified as a wealthy North Carolina doctor, supported Reagan in 1968.

REPEATS CHARGE

Unruh repeated the charge in Bakersfield, and later in Santa Barbara before aides learned late Wednesday the candidate was mistaken.

"Dr. Brian's father has been dead for 10 years so there obviously could not have been a political payoff," said a spokesman for the State Department Health Care Services in Sacramento.

Brian's father died Aug. 1, 1960, and the son does not have a stepfather because his mother never remarried.

There was no immediate reply from Unruh, whose aides began checking to determine whether any "payoff" existed at all.

The foulup over the "political payoff" issue marred what Unruh had planned as a major attack on the Reagan administration handling of Medi-Cal.

Unruh demanded Brian's "immediate firing" on grounds he was "an inexperienced, political incompetent," and "totally inept."

INSURANCE POLICY

Unruh revealed he soon will propose a new pre-paid medical insurance program to cover "all Californians" from cradle to grave. It would replace Medi-Cal, a federal-state venture which provides health care services for the poor and aged.

The assemblyman termed Medi-Cal "a colossal failure" and said Reagan's "obvious mismanagement may have cost the state hundreds of millions of dollars."

Paris Peace Round—Same Old Dialogue

PARIS (UPI)—The Vietnam talks went through another unproductive session today in which the United States rejected a new Communist demand for an immediate unilateral withdrawal of American troops and overthrow of the South Vietnamese government.

North Vietnam and the Viet Cong, speaking at the 83rd session of the deadlocked talks, said the conference will remain stalemated until the United States "changes its policy and shows good faith."

U. S. Ambassador David K. E. Bruce accused Communist diplomats of dragging the talks through "sterile and endless debate." He said the Communist demands were preconditions for the talks which the United States could not accept, and that the Communist stand was "disappointing to those who are hoping for a new and more productive phase of these talks."

"Our proposals are not preconditions to discussion and they are not presented on a take-it-or-leave-it basis," Bruce said. "Your side, on the contrary, continues to pose preconditions to meaningful discussion of the issues involved."

The sesison today was one of the shortest to date, and Hanoi's chief negotiator, Xuan Thuy, sharply reduced the length of his statement. He accused the United States of lying about the situation in Indochina.

Thuy added, "the Vietnamese people will never let the United States implement neocolonialism in South Vietnam and are resclute to unite with the other Indochinese peoples to defeat the U.S. maneuver of expanding the war of aggression in this part of the world.

"It is time that the United States changes its policy and shows good faith in these negotiations."

Cambodians Break Major City Siege

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—A mile-long troop-laden gunboat convoy swept up the flood-swollen Stung Sen River in a surprise attack that broke the 60-day Communist siege of Kompong Thom, the Cambodian command said today.

Military spokesmen said the river force struck Wednesday night while Viet Cong and North Vietnamese attention was focused on the 4,000-man Cambodian task force pushing slowly toward Kompong Thom from the south.

The task force, which made up the biggest operation of the Cambodian campaign, was still 36 miles south of Kompong Thom on Highway 6 when the river units attacked.

Military spokesmen declined to say how many Cambodian troops were involved in breaking the long encirclement of Kompong Thom but said the gunboats "stretched for more than a mile" on the Stung Sen.

Kompong Thom is a city of 10,000 persons 80 miles north of Phnom Penh and not only is a provincial capital but an important transportation and communications center. Viet Cong and North Vietnamese units have shelled the city almost daily for two months.

Cambodian spokesmen said the flotilla began its trip to Kompong Thom two days ago from a point 40 miles southwest of the beleaguered city. The gunboats crossed Tonle Sap, Cambodia's huge lake, then entered the Stung Sen River, encountering only light Viet Cong resistance along the way and losing one man killed.

The 4,000-man task force edging northward toward Kompong Thom has covered nine miles in three days, the spokesman said.

Premier Lon Nol went on nationwide radio Wednesday night and said, "after six months of fighting, one thing is clear: the Viet Cong cannot win in Cambodia.

"In the coming week, we will capture as many North Vietnamese as possible, and this will force the North Vietnamese government to bargain for the prisoners and our price will be war indemnities."

Communiques from Saigon said Communist ground fire shot down two U.S. helicopter-Wednesday, wounding three Americans. One AH1 Cobra gunship was downed 360 miles north-northeast of Saigon and another was hit near Quang Ngai City, 318 miles north-northeast of the capital.

In Saigon, South Vietnamese spokesmen said a 2,000-man force of government rangers, militiamen and armored and artillery units Wednesday completed a week's operation in the Cambodian Parrot's Beak after killing 58 Communists at a cost of five dead and 15 wounded. Allied military sources said it left 15,000 South Vietnamese troops in Cambodia.

The U. S. Command listed 83 Americans killed in South Vietnam last week and 323 wounded. The death toll was the highest in 10 weeks and included 22 men killed in a helicopter crash Aug. 27 and previously listed as missing.

Ford Fears Clean Air Plans For '75

DETROIT (UPI)—Ford Motor Co. says it can meet the "very low" auto emission levels already proposed by the federal government for 1975 models but says it is possible that new changes in the Clean Air Act "may not permit us to build cars after Jan. 1, 1975."

Lee A. Iacocca, president of Ford's North American Automotive Division, wrote dealers and suppliers Wednesday, "No matter how much we spend and how many people we assign to the task, we do not think we can do it."

He warned of huge price increases and "irreparable damage" to the American economy that would still lead only to small air quality improvements.

J. J. Riccardo, president of Chrysler Corp., agreed.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Blames Army

FT. MCPHERSON, Ga. (UPI) — A young soldier charged with murder in the alleged My Lai massacre says Army Chief of Staff William C. Westmoreland should shoulder the blame for whatever happened in the Vietnamese village.

Sgt. Esequiel Torres, 22, of Brownsville, Tex., charged Westmoreland with dereliction of duty in the purported incident. The surprising move was made Wednesday during a preliminary hearing at Ft. McPherson.

His attorney, Charles Weltner, said he would ask that any action against all defendants in the My Lai case be delayed until the question of ultimate responsibility is settled. Twelve officers and enlisted men are charged in the alleged 1968 slaughter of Vietnamese civilians.

Typhoon Georgia

MANILA (UPI) — Typhoon Georgia swept toward the Philippines with 120-mile-an-hour winds today and the weather bureau warned the Manila area to prepare for the storm.

Third Rail Strike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With five extra days of breathing time, government mediators today began the task of settling the third major rail strike crisis of the Nixon administration. They were given little chance of success.

The unions agreed Wednesday to postpone a strike deadline until 12:01 a.m. Tuesday. It had been set for 12:01 a.m. today.

The major issue is wages. The union demanded increases of more than 40 per cent over three years and the railroads said they couldn't afford it.

Arms Sale Hit

LUSAKA, Zambia (UPI) — Indian Prime Minister Indira Ghandi said today Britain's reported intention to sell arms to South Africa was a "dangerous and retrograde step" which might encourage South African militarism and threaten the entire continent.

Addressing the third World Nonaligned Summit Conference, Mrs. Ghandi also demanded the withdrawal of "foreign" troops from Indochina and sided with the Arabs in the Middle East conflict. She expressed disapproval of Israeli "intransigence."

On the British-South African arms deal, the Indian prime minister told the leaders of 55 nations attending the third and final session of the summit that the move was a "dangerous and retrograde step which will threaten the neighbors of South Africa and also the Indian Ocean area."

Astronaut Surplus

"It's just the facts of life that we've got a surplus of astronauts to fly missions," Donald K. Slayton said Wednesday. "We've got plenty of work for them to do, always have had, but not the kind they'd like to be doing."

Slayton said last week's cancellation of two more flights to the moon compounded the problem and left the United States with only seven manned orbital flights between now and the mid-1970s at the earliest.

There are now 49 pilots on flight status and 32 of them have yet to fly in space.

Less Smokers

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — The total number of Americans who have kicked the cigarette habit has risen 10 million since 1966, says Dr. Daniel Hern, director of the National Clearinghouse for Smoking and Health.

Hern spoke Wednesday before delegates to the National Conference on Smoking and Health and said he based his statistics for both 1966 and 1970 on a survey involving interviews with a 5,000-person sample of the population.

The total number of smokers also decreased — from 49.4 million to 44.9 million — during the period even though the population grew by an estimated 7.5 million, according to Horn.

Chavez Pickets

SALINAS, Calif. (UPI) — Cesar Chavez picketed for 90 minutes Wednesday in defiance of a court order against his striking farm workers union, but was not arrested.

"We have checked with our attorneys, and they agree that the injunction violates our rights," the union leader declared before his stint at a picket line.

Although Chavez was allowed to picket without arrest, 13 of his followers were taken into custody during the day. Deputies said the arrests were for failure to obey an officer. Chavez' AFL-CIO United Farm Workers Organizing Committee said they were arrested while picketing.

More Diphtheria

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Health officials confirmed four new diphtheria cases Wednesday.

Chinatown Detail Will Be Abandoned

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Police Department's Chinatown detail, in existence since the days of tong warfare, is being abolished next Monday.

The Police Commission took the action on the advice of Chief Alfred Nelder and Chinese leaders.

In the future, the area's gambling complaints will be handed by Central station or the vice squad, the chief said while declaring the six-man detail could be used more efficiently in uniform.

Dennis Wong, speaking for community leaders, said the detail involved "subtle discrimination" since other areas do not have special details.

A CLEAN AIR CHIMNEY

This 580-foot chimney at a Mannheim, West Germany, power plant is designed to help keep the air clean over the Rhine River city. Once in operation, the chimney will funnel gases through at the rate of almost 40 miles per hour, purifying them 99.5 per cent. The smokestack was built in record time by 50 men working in two shifts. It is made of reinforced concrete with an acid-resistant ceramic lining. Further north in the industrial Ruhr District, chimneys must be over 800 feet to keep down pollution.

Police Arrest Son As Shooting Suspect

Arthur R. Furnas, 41, and his father, Arthur B. Furnas, 74, had been in Marin General Hospital since they apparently shot each other with pistols Friday.

The younger Furnas was freed without bail yesterday to appear in Marin Municipal Court tomorrow. Asst. Dist. Atty. Joshua W. Thomas said a charge of assault with a deadly weapon was filed against him today.

He said no final decision has been made on charges against the father who was reported in satisfactory condition today at the hospital.

However, Thomas indicated the elder Furnas probably would not be charged.

Corte Madera police reported that the father began the shooting in which Harriet Furnas, 69, the wife and mother, was also wounded, but Thomas said the father apparently expected to be attacked by his son.

Auto Is Stolen From Base Lot

A white 1963 Buick, Oklahoma license LW 976, was stolen between 10:45 and 11:15 a.m. yesterday from Hamilton Air Force Base Commissary parking lot, Novato police reported today.

The wife of the owner, Donald Ray Shaw, of Building 104, Apt. 12, of the base, had parked the car while shopping and removed the keys, police reported.

Three-Ring Acts Will Play Novato For Club Benefit

A three-ring circus which includes a lady leopard-trainer, two aerial acrobatic groups and dancing elephants among its acts will play Novato at 1 and 3 p.m. Saturday.

The Gatti-Charles Circus performances, sponsored by the Novato Professional Firemen's Association, will be held at the Novato Horsemen's Arena on Bugeia Lane.

Half the profits will be donated to the Novato Boys Club, with the remainder supporting firemen's association activities including community service activities, according to fireman John Rentz, chairman.

A sword-balancing act, dog act, and clowns will play, and traditional circus refreshments, including cotton candy, popcorn, peanuts, hot dogs, snow cones and candy apples, will be sold at the show.

Landmarks Booklet Is For Sale Again

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A California Historical Landmarks booklet which describes the state's 827 missions, forts, ghost and mining towns is again being sold by the state Department of Parks and Recreation.

The book was revised a year ago and has sold 18,000 copies. It is now available at most state park offices or through the department at P.O. Box 2390, Sacramento.

Mailliard Is Held Denying Contributions Wrongdoing

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Indiscretion on the part of campaign aides may have gotten two west coast Congressmen into trouble.

Spokesmen for the lawmakers, Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., and Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Calif., however, denied Wednesday that they knowingly accepted illegal campaign contributions from corporations.

Federal law prohibits corporate contributions to congressional campaigns.

Magnuson and Mailliard, along with Rep. Edward A. Garmatz, D-Md., were identified in news accounts (by the Associated Press) as recipients of campaign contributions from the American President Lines and Pacific Far East Lines shipping companies.

Garmatz and Mailliard are chairman and ranking minority member, respectively, of the House Merchant Marine Committee and Magnuson is chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee.

They were reported to have received several hundred dollars apiece from the companies.

Mailliard's office acknowledged his campaign had been the beneficiary of some $500 from the two companies, but the aide said the check was a personal one accepted by a local campaign committee along with many others. There was no indication it came from a corporation, he said.

"No check drawn against any corporation was accepted by Senator Magnuson's campaign organization," the spokesman said. "In accordance with the law, only personal checks were accepted as campaign contributions, and all such contributions were received by the campaign organizations supporting his candidacy."

An aide to the senator said that if there were any personal checks from ship company employes who were later reimbursed by their corporations, the senator and his staff were not aware of it.

Garmatz was not available for comment.

New Voting Age

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The government argued today that the 21-year-old vote is a "historical hangover" and urged a special three-judge court to uphold the constitutionality of a new law lowering the minimum voting age to 18 for Americans.

David L. Norman, deputy assistant attorney general for civil rights, presented the Justice Department's arguments in a case involving a suit brought by five New Yorkers who challenged the law.

Besides that lawsuit, the government has filed its own suits in the Supreme Court to force several states to obey the law and, in turn, has been sued by other states challenging the law.

$4 Million Cost To Convert Mint

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Converting the abandoned U.S. Mint at Fifth and Mission streets into a federal courthouse would cost $4 million, Rep. Phillip Burton, D-Calif., said Wednesday.

The congressman said Thomas E. Hannon, the General Service Administration's regional administrator, had estimated that 37,823 square feet in the building could be turned into courtrooms and offices.

Federal judges have urged conversion of the mint, which was constructed in 1874.

Theft Of Tape Deck

Police said the tape deck was taken from an auto owned by Darrell I. Haberman of 415 Seventh Street, Apt. 18, while it was parked at his residence between last Friday and Tuesday.

AIR

comes from evaporation of fuel, the report said.

It also found that as much as 50 per cent of the particles in the air comes from natural sources such as soil, pollen, salt spray and other background air contamination.

The students' report was the second in two weeks to give black marks to pollution control efforts. A nationwide team of 20 professors concluded on Aug. 27 that contributing reasons were the district's "narrow interpretation of its mission, an absence of clearly stated goals and methods to achieve these goals."

The Stanford group, however, stressed that many of the district's shortcomings are on the way to being corrected. The district's regulations are being revised, making them much more stringent, they noted.

But the students also noted that industry has succeeded in weakening some of the revisions proposed by the district's staff.

Their report credited the turnabout with the addition of several new directors to the former minority of active and progressive board members. One of the three new members is Sausalito Councilman Wyman Hicks.

The report also noted a marked increase in pressure for reform from the state and federal governments — but especially from aroused citizen groups.

The students, both graduate and undergraduate, termed the district's public education efforts "a near disaster," noting that their survey of almost 2,000 Bay Area citizens had found only 10 per cent of the public can identify the district.

The public has been virtually excluded from the district's decision-making process, the students concluded.

Better pollution control will require new state legislation giving the district "sufficiently stringent sanctions to bring about rapid compliance with existing regulations," their report recommended. Also needed were new funding powers to replace a "ridiculously small" budget of about $2 million.

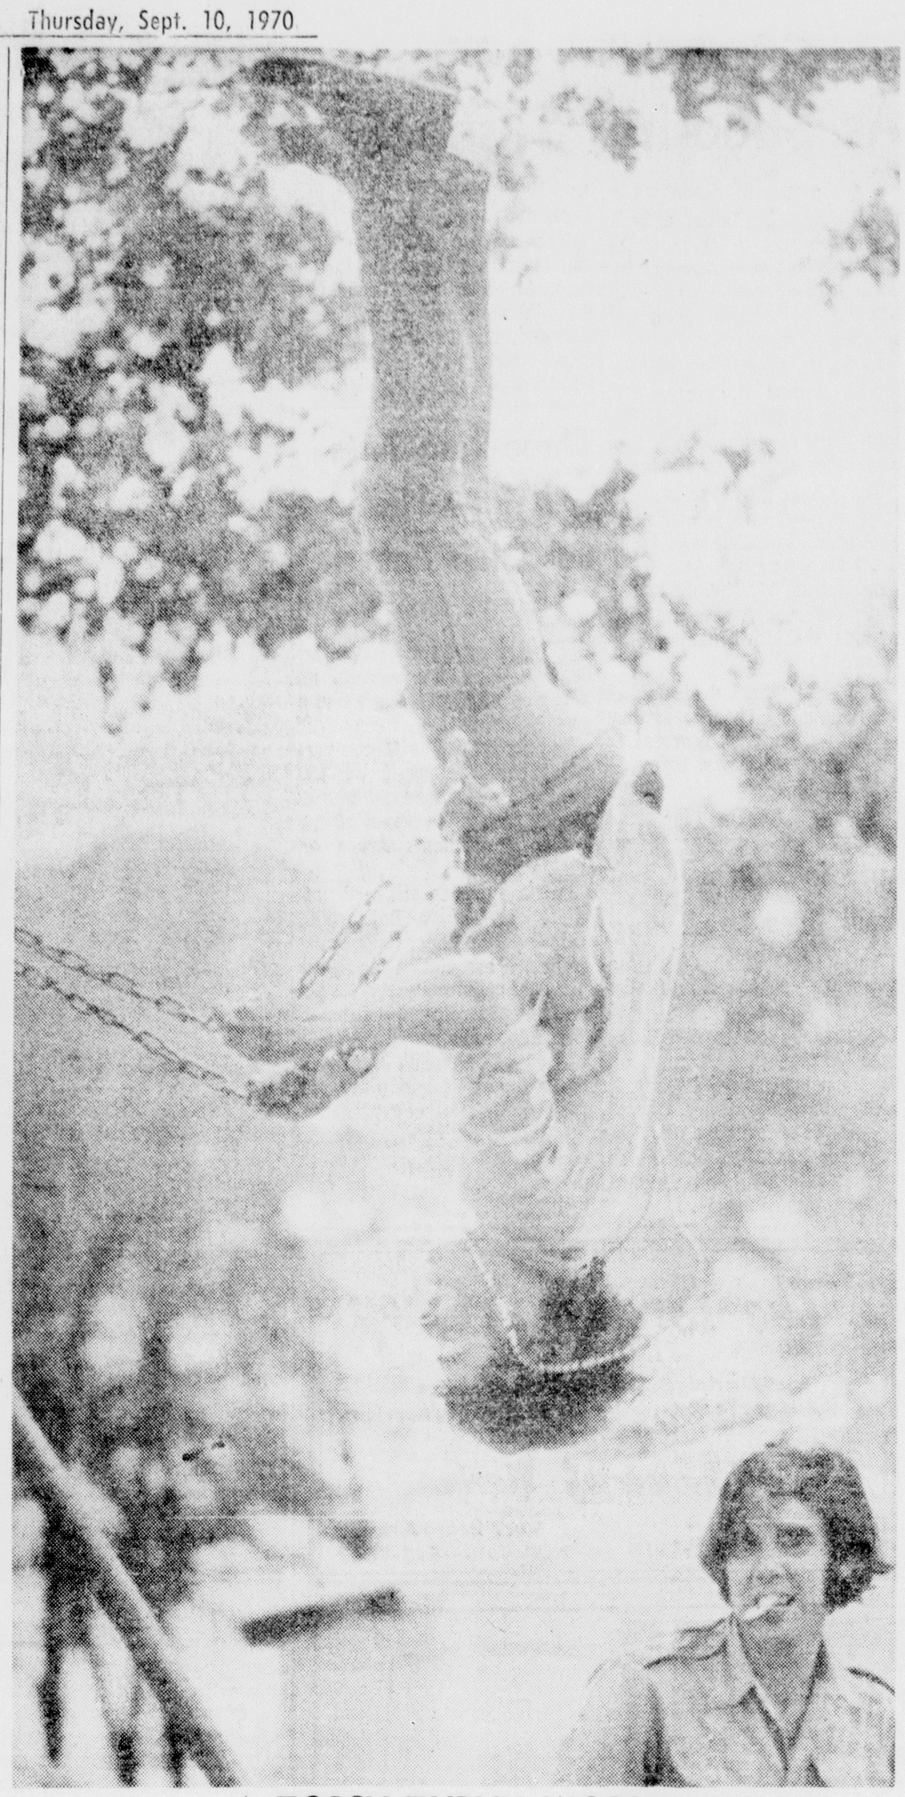

The district's chief administrative officer, D. J. Callaghan, was praised as a "forceful leader" and "an excellent administrator," but criticized for being "less than daring in seeking to advance the district's pollution control program."

In a section dealing with the students' investigation of more than 30 industries, the report said that "industry has moved only so far and as fast as required to by law." It asserted that industry "still has a long way to go before it will be as clean as the community as a whole could wish it."

One local industrialist was quoted as saying: "all that would be gained is an aesthetic improvement, so we don't feel it would be a justifiable investment."

Industry's lobby, the Bay Area League of Industrial Associations, was accused in the report of too much "foot-dragging." The students cautioned that political pressure generated by the current wave of public interest in environmental problems may force industry to clean up much faster than the companies themselves would like.

Controlling emissions from motor vehicles, they said, was a "band-aid approach" to pollution. Instead, short-range vehicles such as bicycles and small, battery-powered cars will be needed to supplement rapid transit — both replacing the dependence on autos.

tiently tried to keep the legal proceeding moving.

Judge McGuire appointed the Marin public defender for Magee since Attorney Ramsey, a young black man, said he did not know yet whether he would represent Magee, now held in the prison adjustment center.

Ramsey explainded to the judge that Magee wants the case tried in federal court, and the judge agreed that there is a possibility of a change of venue, although he did not comment on the federal possibility.

Magee also indicated that he might wish to represent himself at a trial and said, "Don't threaten me with the public defender."

After Judge McGuire continued the arraignment until next Tuesday, Magee, thinner than he was at the time of the shootout, walked from the room and responded to cries of "Power to the people," by shouting, "Beautiful!"

The first 50 persons who wished to enter the prison gate to attend the court session were allowed to do so. The group consisted mostly of young activists with only two blacks present.

Routine court proceedings involving San Quentin inmates have been held at the prison since the Aug. 7 shooting in which three convicts and Judge Haley were killed in an abortive kidnapping escape try.

Guards Use Tear Gas To Move Sirhan

Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, convicted slayer of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, was moved to a disciplinary cell yesterday following an incident yesterday in which tear gas was used to force him from his cell, according to San Quentin Associate Warden James W. L. Park.

The incident occurred, said Park, after Sirhan was refused permission to send a telegram.

"It was not a legal thing relating to his case in our judgment," said Park. "I think the staff did the right thing in refusing his request in this instance." Park would not disclose the contents of the telegram.

Sirhan refused to return his meal tray and eating utensils and was forced out of his cell with tear gas so that the tray and utensils could be recovered, said Park.

"Other than special security provisions, we try to treat him like any other man up there," said Park.

New Outbreaks In Amman Despite Cease-Fire Pact

of the Jordanian army attacked the guerrillas without authorization.

Amman Radio said Premier Abdel Moneim Rifay and Al Fatah leader Yasser Arafat attended today's peace talks. There was no immediate word from the guerrilla sources but Palestinians said earlier Arafat had called for a cease-fire on Wednesday.

Tel Aviv dispatches said Israeli Premier Golda Meir, who goes to Washington next week, would press President Nixon for U.S. action against an alleged Egyptian missile build-up in the Suez Canal Zone.

Dispatches from UPI correspondent David Zenian in Amman on the 10th consecutive day of fighting there said Jordanian army forces renewed the conflict at 4 a. m. today in a brief firefight near the Inter-Continental Hotel where a battle raged Wednesday night.

An hour later, army troops reoccupied a building under construction opposite the hotel. Firing in various sections of Amman with rifles, machine-guns and mortars resumed at 7 a. m. today, then subsided again by midmorning.

Guests at the Inter-Continental Hotel, including many American hostages from two hijacked planes in guerrilla hands, huddled in a nightclub which was converted into a makeshift bomb shelter, Others bedded down in hallways, away from windows.

The hotel took at least 12 hits in the fighting, and bullets splattered plate glass windows in the downstairs area. A mortar shell exploded near the hotel swimming pool.

Bullets struck several cars in the hotel parking lot. One slug punctured the hotel's water supply system, flooding the downstairs lobby and offices. Power was cut for a time; Amman airport was closed.

Guerrillas manned barricades in Amman; army troops established their own checkpoints on the outskirts.

The heaviest fighting Wednesday night was in the building opposite the Inter-Continental. Some guests watched from balconies as guerrillas and army troops fought at close quarters, moving from floor to floor and using hand grenades, small arms and mortars.

In Lonlon, authoritative diplomatic sources quoted official reports from Amman as saying the British chancellery in the city was hit during shooting Wednesday, but that there were no casualties.

The sources said Britain has made contingency plans for evacuating British citizens from Jordan.

Maddox Ahead In Late Returns

ATLANTA (UPI)—Gov. Lester Maddox inched ahead on the basis of late returns today in his bid for a no-runoff victory for lieutenant governor, and wealthy peanut farmer Jimmy Carter was counting on a similar stretch drive to avoid a runoff in the Democrtic gubernatorial race.

With 1,397 of the state's 2,049 precincts reporting Maddox had 274,144 votes, or 49.3 per cent of the total. He needs 50.1 per cent to avoid a runoff. His nearest rival was incumbent George T. Smith with 192,559 or 34.6 per cent of the vote.

miles north of Amman and said the guerrillas had repeated their threat to destroy the planes and passengers and threatened to hijack two El Al Israel planes if Britain does not release a girl guerrilla captured when the Israelis foiled an attempt to hijack an El Al plane Sunday.

Wilkinson said the guerrillas today released 22 persons from the BOAC plane and sent them into Amman—21 Bahreinis and an English girl engaged to a Bahreini. But heavy fighting raged in the streets of Amman between guerrillas and the Jordanian army and the Inter-Continental Hotel itself was hit by gunfire as the refugees huddled in a basement night-club.

The Red Cross said in Geneva the plight of the refugees on the desert was becoming more and more precarious. It sent in senitary supplies and equipment, cooking facilities, food and medicine but efforts were hampered by the fighting in Jordan.

The International Red Cross was negotiating with the guerrillas on behalf of the United States, Britain, West Germany and Switzerland but again was hampered by the near civil war in Jordan.

A guerrilla communique issued in Jordan announced extension of the deadline but that "the United States and England have to understand that their attitude is not in favor of the safety of the craft.

The communique did not elaborate but it was understood the United States and Britain were seeking guarantees that the scores of Israelis and American Jews held aboard the planes would be released with the nationals of other countries.

The guerillas have made unspecified demands for the release of Arabs held in Israeli jails and at one point were reported demanding the release of 3,000 Arab and guerrilla prisoners. Israel has said it would not negotiate with the guerrillas.

In Bern, Swiss Federal Chancellor Karl Kuher said Switzerland had appealed to the Arab countries to do all they could to support Red Cross efforts to secure the release of the passengers. He said they were told they had a "great moral responsibility in the affairs."

termed "the immerging progressive majority."

The students critique of Gnoss said that he "is generally passive at board meetings, and seldom taken an outspoken position on any issue. An exception was the ban on backyard burning, which Gnoss opposed, apparently due to political pressure from his constitutents in Marin.

"While Gnoss is not a leader, he occasionally provides a crucial swing vote on issues on which the board is divided," student report said.

The students were especially critical of Gnoss's deciding vote which defeated Calvo's proposal for complete disclosure of data on industrial pollution.

The students said that their interview with Gnoss indicated he felt the district progress probably had been too slow, "but he seems unable or reluctant to make any effort to quicken the pace," the students said.

Their report also said that Gnoss "does not appear to keep himself very well informed on matters that come before the board, but drifts along, supported by staff reports and comments from other board members.

The student critique concluded of Gnoss that "his years of useful service to the district are probably past." Gnoss automatically will retire from the air board after he leaves the board of Supervisors next January.

Suit Filed In Police Shooting

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The wife of an alleged bank robber shot and killed by a policeman who was moonlighting as a bank teller has filed a $2 million damage suit against the policeman, the city of San Francisco, and the Bank of America.

Mrs. Patricia Brumfield and her two children, Lashawn, 3, and Charles, 18 months, claim Officer William D. Taylor "negligently and carelessly" shot Charles Brumfield last Nov. 7.

The officer was not taught how to use a firearm nor "when to discharge a dangerout firearm," she said, and the bank and the police department should have known he was "prone to use unnecessary physical force."

Higher School Bond Rate To Be On Ballot

The Mill Valley School District, stuck with $760,000 worth of school construction bonds that no one wants to buy, will ask the voters on Tuesday to approve raising interest rates on them.

The bonds, part of a $3.5 million package approved by voters in 1967, remain unsold because buyers in today's inflated market are not interested in purchasing them at only 5 per cent interest, the legal limit.

Voters in Tuesday's election will consider a measure to raise the interest rate to 7 per cent. The bond money would be used to build the planned middle school at Camino Alto and Sycamore Avenue.

ADDS TWO CENTS

On a 20-year redemption period, school officials estimate that the interest increase will add 12 cents per $100 assessed valuation to the tax rate, which now stands at $3.20 per $100. If the bonds had been sold at 5 per cent, the tax rate would have gone up 10 cents. The 2-cent difference would mean a $1.50 a year increase in taxes for the owner of a $30,000 house.

If the measure does not receive the required two-thirds majority, the school district board may have to sell the bonds at 5 per cent over a five-year period. The resultant high interest rate would cost the district about 40 cents per $100, according to Supt. James A. Collins.

COURT ISSUE

Although the California Supreme Court has ruled that the rekuirement for two-thirds approval is contrary to the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney has advised school districts the state court's decision cannot be regarded as final since the issue is before the U.S. Supreme Court. The statutory two-thirds requirement therefore still applies, Maloney said.

The $760,000 worth of bonds includes $260,000 on which trustees asked a similar interest rate hike in June. That attempt failed when only 61 per cent of the voters favored the measure. Trustees then decided to combine the $260,000 with an additional $500,000 in bonds after they called for bids on the latter sum but got no takers.

School officials have predicted that time-consuming delays in the construction of the middle school will result if the bonds are not sold. Ultimately, they say, these days will drive the cost of selling the bonds higher, and the taxpayer will have to foot the bill.

Old Adobe To Ask Voters For Hikes

Voters in Petaluma's Old Adobe School District will be asked Tuesday to increase the interest rate on previously approved bond issues and to increase the district's maximum general tax rate from $1.90 to $2.40.

The polling place at La Tarcera School, 1600 Albin Way, will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Supt. Dean D. Magowan said the district has not sold $875,00 in bonds out of a total of $1,250,000 approved by district voters during the last three years, partly because state law set the interest rate at 5 per cent, a limit raised this year, to 7 per cent.

Old Adobe voters will decide whether to increase the rate on the $875,000 worth of bonds to the maximum 7 per cent.

Dr. Lee Panttaja, deputy superintendent of the Sonoma County Office of Education, has informed the district that attorneys report that a two-thirds majority is still required for passage of bond interest increases, because the U.S. Supreme Court has yet to act on a ruling by the California Supreme Court that the two-thirds requirement violates the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. A simple majority is required for the tax rate increase.

Magowan said $130,000 worth of the bonds must be sold this year to qualify for state aid for the planned Miwok Valley School.

If voters aprove the interest rate hike and the bonds are sold, Magowan said, bids on construction of the school will probably be called for in late fall, and the school completed a year to a year and a half later.

In addition to the Miwok Valley School, Magowan said, the bonds must also be sold for the district to keep up with area population growth and he estimated an additional two more new schools will be needed in the near future.

Approval of the higher interest rate, Magowan said, will not increase taxes.

The district is limited by law, he said, to using no more than 40 cents per $100 assessed valuation for redemption of bonds and repayment of state loans.

The 40 cents is already being used, he said, and payment of a higher interest rate on the bonds would increase the number of years it will take the district to pay off the bonds, rather than increasing the rate of payment.

On the same ballot Tuesday, voters will be asked to raise the district's maximum general tax rate from $1.90 to $2.40 per $100 assessed valuation.

The district's total tax rate this year is $2.39 per $100 assessed valuation. The figure includes the maximum $1.90 general tax plus tax overrides for retirement and health plans and repayment of state school building loans.

Magowan said the rate increase is needed to enable the district to keep up with increased operating costs. "There is no other way a district can either maintain or improve its program," he said.

If the increase is approved, he said, the earliest the school district tax could be increased would be fiscal 1971-72.

Probably only a portion of the 50-cent increase would be taxes then, he said.

No argument against either the bond interest rate or tax rate increases appears on the ballot.

Resurrection City Flag Burns

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A flag that has flown over Resurrection City near the Lincoln Memorial in 1968 was destroyed Wednesday in a fire at the Smithsonian Institute. The blaze was believed set.

The flag, bearing a portrait of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., was on display in a political history exhibit on the second floor of the museum of history and technology. District of Columbia fire officials say a match or cigarette lighter apparently was touched to the flag. Museum guards extinguished the fire which caused an estimated $50 damage to the ceiling.

Resurrection City was a temporary shanty town set up on the Mall as part of the Poor People's March on Washington.

Influx Of Poor Feared By City

SAN FANCISCO (UPI) — An influx of poor persons would deteriorate life in this city, the San Francisco Planning and Urban Renewal Association declares.

In a report Wednesday, SPUR urged against the immigration of those who would increase the costs of welfare and other public subsidies.

"Any significant increase in San Francisco's population, size, density, or the proportion of residents dependent upon public assistance would lead to a deterioration in the quality of life in our community," the private agency's report said.

The report also urged that a new low or moderate income housing unit be built only if a substandard unit is torn down.

Bennet Flattered By Reagan Dig

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — It's flattering and astounding that Governor Ronald Reagan called him "an enemy of privately-owned business," says William Bennett, of Kentfield, candidate for the State Board of Equalization.

The onetime State Public Utilities Commission member said the governor had opposed his actions that reduced telephone and electric bills for Californians by a total of $60 million.

Neither telephone or electrical firms are "private enterprise," Bennett said. Instead they are publicly-regulated utilities, he added.

Reagan's remarks were made at a fund raising party in Ross for Bennett's Republican opponent, Ernest Kettenhofen.

TO SEA — The future of the ferry service seems assured as tourists and commuters line up for blocks on pleasant Sausalito days to ride the blue and white vessel back into a nostalgic era, before the days of freeways and commuter crushes on the Golden Gate Bridge.

LONG LINE — Ferry patrons wait to buy tickets and bus transfers for use at their destination. A round trip on the Golden Gate, which began service Sept. 15, costs $1 with a total cost of $1.50 to those who ride commuter buses from outside Sausalito.

BREAKFAST TOO — Golden Gate concessioneers Jim and Dorothy Cosmos provide a friendly word, along with coffee and doughnuts, to Sal Quezada of San Leandro. Both hungry tourists and commuters who have slept late and skipped breakfast are happy to take advantage of concession goodies which will soon include mixed alcoholic drinks, even on morning runs.

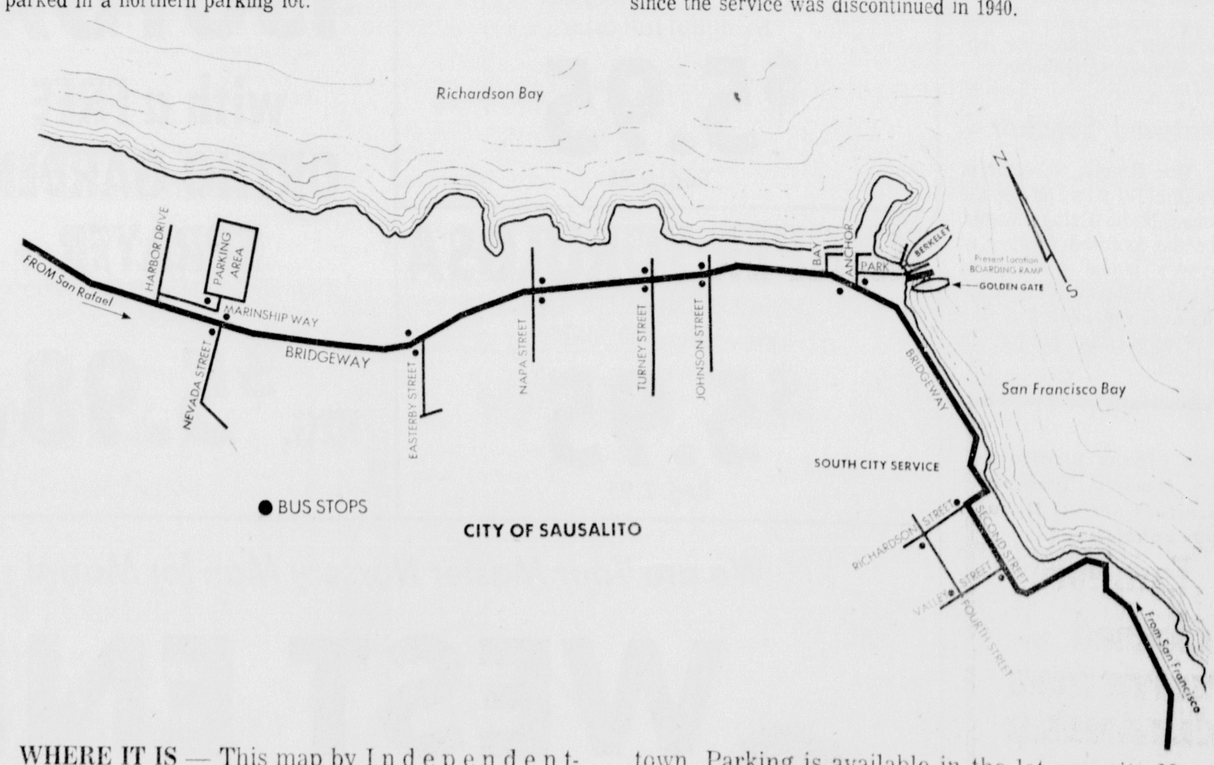

BIG BROTHER — Passengers crowd the Golden Gate's decks as it pulls into Sausalito along the old Ferry Berkeley, a veteran of thousands of Bay trips now used as waterfront shopping center. After disembarking from the ferry, passengers who come from out of town are bussed to their cars, parked in a northern parking lot.

INTO PORT — Captain Charles Holland, one of the Golden Gate's several skippers, keeps a close watch on the dock as the ferry slides into its landing place in San Francisco. Already, passengers and interested spectators are lined up on the docks, perhaps some waiting for their first ferry ride since the service was discontinued in 1940.

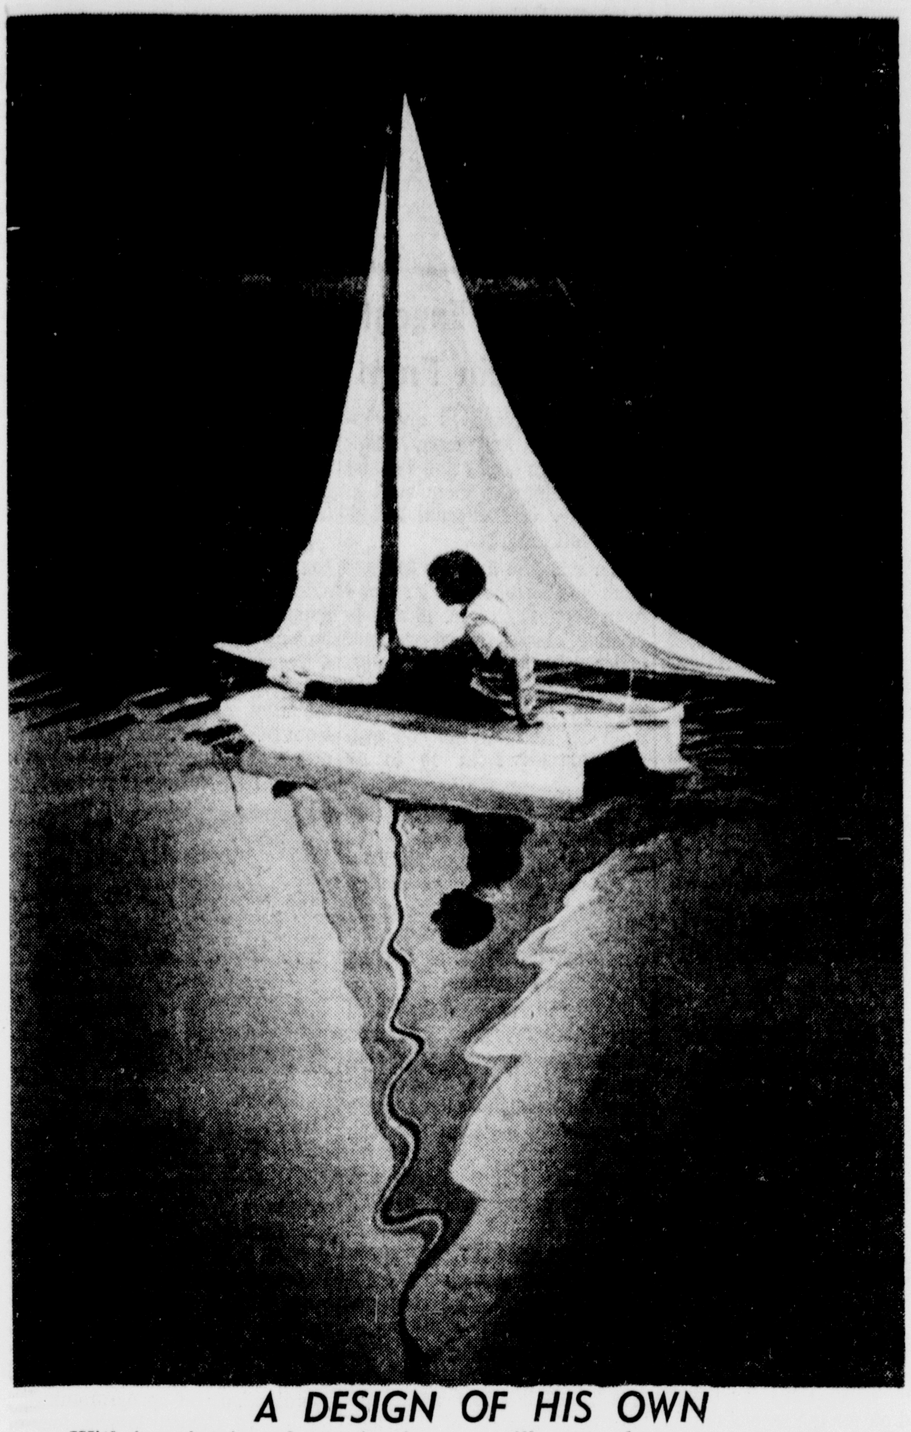

THE GOOD LIFE — Ferry travelers relaxing with cups of coffee or conversation are treated to an unparalleled view of San Francisco and other Bay sights such as Angel Island and the Marin headlands. Card games are already becoming a habit among some Marin commuters, while others use the 25-minute ride as a chance to spread out their papers on a table in the vessel's lounge and complete last-minute work.

WHERE IT IS — This map by Independent-Journal artist Jack Lucey plots the major points, routes and bus stops serving commuters and tourists using the Golden Gate Bridge District's ferry between Sausalito and San Francisco. The Sausalito City Council hopes ferry users will enter the city from the north, to relieve congestion downtown. Parking is available in the lot opposite Nevada Street and just off Harbor Street. Shuttle buses run between there and the ferry dock at the end of Park Street, stopping en route at Nevada, Easterby, Napa, Turney and Johnson streets. There is also shuttle service from Old Town with stops at Second, Valley and Richardson streets.

Curtis Vows To Fight Direct Vote

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., has emerged as the leader in a fight to kill a proposed constitutional amendment for the president to be elected by a direct vote of the people.

Curtis told UPI in an interview he would never agree to let the issue come to a vote until he was sure he had at least 34 votes lined up against it.

It would take two-thirds of senators present and voting to adopt the amendment —67 if all 100 senators are on hand. Such a vote would send it to the states, three-quarters of which, or 38, must ratify before it could become part of the constitution.

PREVENT VOTE

Curtis could prevent the amendment from coming to a roll call vote by asking to speak on the measure before the roll was called. Anyone else could do the same, and it would take a special vote to cut off debate on the issue — something that hasn't happened very often in the Senate.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., chief senate sponsor of the amendment, offered to agree to a vote at any time. "I see no reason why we shouldn't put this to a vote right now," he said. "We've been ready for some time. I see no need for prolonging the debate."

Under the amendment, the Electoral College would be abolished and voters would cast ballots directly for presidential-vice presidential slates. If no slate got at least 40 per cent of the vote, a runoff election between the top two would decide the winner.

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., who opposes the amendment, announced he would propose a change requiring a runoff if no candidate got 50 per cent of the vote.

Eastland, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, said "it is imperative that we make certain that the will of the majority be done, not the will of a minority."

SMALL STATES LOSE

Curtis believes the proposal would weaken the advantage that less populous states now have under the Electoral College system. Under that system, states are allocated electoral votes equal to their total representation in Congress. Thus, because a small state has two senators, the same as large states, it gets an electoral advantage.

Curtis stopped short of promising a filibuster against the amendment. But he conceded his position of not permitting a vote until he was sure he could win amounted to the same thing.

"Time is on our side. The more we debate it, the more senators will be opposed to it. The longer it is debated more of the press and public will come to our side. There is nothing we have to gain by an early vote," Curtis said.

Chrysler Gives UAW Second Contract Offer

DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corp. presented the United Auto Workers with a second contract offer today, less than five days before a possible strike.

General Motors Corp., which together with Chrysler make up the union's twin strike targets, was expected to follow up the Chrysler offer with one of its own in the near future.

Leary added there was no agreement between the company and the union to impose a news blackout—the traditional sign that serious bargaining has begun in automotive negotiations.

"We hope we have the basis for a settlement," Leary told newsmen after presenting the offer to UAW President Leonard Woodcock across the main bargaining table at the company's headquarters.

Woodcock, who unexpectedly showed up at Chrysler this morning, had said that if a new contract offer was made today, it would be "terribly late." But such an offer might still avert a strike against GM or Chrysler or both when the present contracts between the UAW and the Big Three auto makers run out at midnight Monday.

The union had no immediate comment on the company's offer.

Wednesday Woodcock visited the twin strike targets, General Motors and Chrysler Corp., in an effort to "get things moving" to avert a walkout. But he said "unless something radical changes," the auto makers are "stalling themselves into a strike."

Passing Of Fake $1 Bills Is Suspected

Richard C. Lemaster told police he grew suspicious of the bill later when he noted its color and newness.

Police said the bill is a 1935 Series A silver certificate and is possibly the second such bill passed at the ice cream parlor in the last week.

Officers said the bill will undergo tests today to determine if it is counterfeit.

Approval On Sewage Pump Draft Plans

The Ross Valley Sanitary District board last night authorized J. Warren Nute Co. of San Rafael to proceed with drafting plans for a new sewage pumping station in Kentfield.

The pumping station and sewage trunk line on Stadium Way is expected to cost about $350,000 and will be constructed next year, Ralph C. Noah, district manager, reported today.

He also announced a special meeting set last night for Sept. 28 for board consideration of recommended routes for the trunk line, which will extend from the pumping station to Bon Air Shopping Center.

In other action last night, the board approved a resolution deannexing a portion of College Park in Larkspur from the district.

Noah said the action was taken by the district to halt double taxation by the district and the city on about 30 per cent of College Park.

The area deannexed was not being serviced by the district he added, but rather by the City of Larkspur.

43 Cases Of Strep Lead Marin Diseases

Forty-three cases of strep infection and 32 cases of gonorrhea led the list of communicable diseases reported in Marin last week, Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer, has reported.

Also reported were six cases of infectious hepatitis and two cases of salmonella.

Rezoning In Sunny Hills Is Approved

A rezoning request for a small parcel of Sunny Hills property was approved last night by the San Anselmo Planning Commission by a 4-to-1 vote.

Voting against the measure was Commissioner Duane C. Reagan who said the matter should be delayed until adjacent property comes under consideration at the next commission meeting. According to the commission's secretary, Sunny Hills asked last night that the half-acre of land be rezoned from commercial to single family residential. Ragan said adjacent property, which is now zoned residential, as well as the same half-acre, will be considered in two weeks for rezoning to a planned development.

The parcel's zoning split occurred in 1965 when the city approved commercial zoning for the Red Hill Shopping Center at 910 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. A year later, the land was subdivided for the construction of the center and the half-acre, considered last night was not used.

The San Anselmo Planning Commission also:

USE PERMIT — Approved a use permit for Zola Grissell to teach cake decorating classes at her home at 120 Broadmoor Avenue. The commission restricted class sizes to six members in morning and evening classes, two days a week, for two hours each.

SEMINARY — Approved a request from the San Francisco Theological Seminary for relief from off-street parking standards required with the construction of a small education building.

MUNICIPAL CODE — Approved recommended changes in teh city's municipal code governing obstruction of sidewalks and driveways. The changes will now be forwarded to the city council.

PUBLIC HEARING — Set Oct. 5 for a public hearing on the city proposed rezoning of an undeveloped 65 unit subdivision at the end of Sonoma Avenue from planned development to single family residential.

Deputies Will Walk If Attorney Advises

Marin sheriff's deputies, holding out for a 12.5 per cent raise instead of the 7.5 per cent offered by the county, are prepared to walk out if San Francisco attorney Jake W. Ehrlich so advises them.

"We can't rule out a strike," said Sgt. Wade R. Powell of the sheriff's office, who met with Ehrlich yesterday for the second time. He did not disclose what advice the attorney had given him.

"We got some information and we're putting it out to the deputies for a discussion sometime next week." Powell said the deputies plan to meet next Wednesday night at the Hall of Justice. Until then, the men will work as usual. "We have nothing rash planned," said Powell. But if Ehrlich advises a walkout, Powell said the deputies are prepared to take that advice.

Only sheriff's deputies are involved in trying to get Ehrlich's help, not county firemen or communications workers, Powell disclosed. He said Ehrlich is not yet retained, and no fee has been agreed on.

There is no agreement on the total number of safety employees in the county. The county personnel director estimated the total at about 180, including 130 sheriff's deputies, 30 county firemen and about 20 communications workers.

The safety employees estimate the number at 200 or more because they include certain categories like captains, which the personnel office considers outside the safety employees bargaining unit.

$1,400 In Goods Is Stolen From Dryer

A $1,200 ring and $200 in clothing were taken from the dryer at her apartment house, Evelyn Ruby Georgia of 129 Canal Street, Apt. 108, reported yesterday to San Rafael police.

She said that she had left the ring in a pants pocket when the clothing was taken. It was stolen July 30 but not reported until yesterday.

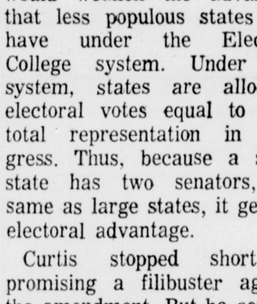

Manufacturing Sales Seen Increasing

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Commerce Department reports the nation's manufacturing firms expect their sales to increase by 3 per cent in the three-month period which ends Sept. 30.

In addition, the department said, the manufacturers foresee another 1 per cent increase during the final three months of 1970. The department said the outlook was based on its surveys.

1971 MERCURY COMET
2 or 4 doors, "6" or V-8.

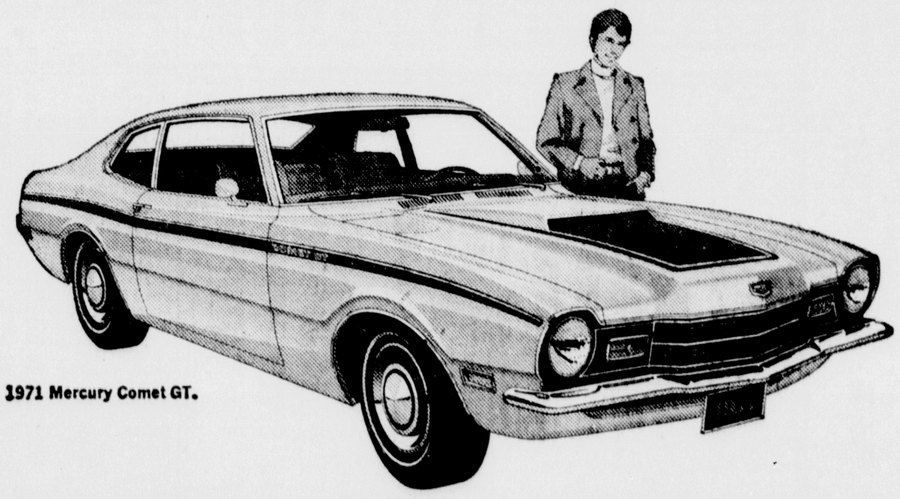

1971 Mercury Comet (4-door sedan also available)

1. Take the best small-car ideas.
Comet has them all. Easy parking and turning: the 2-door can turn in a circle only 35.6 feet in diameter! Low price: this is Mercury's lowest-priced car. Good gas mileage: rivals imports. Simple servicing: a handy repair manual is available for do-it-yourselfers containing dozens of tips on how to adjust the automatic choke, set idle speed, etc.

2. Add the styling and performance of a bigger car.
Notice the big-car grille with dramatic power dome hood. Big-car luxury, too, with rich, wall-to-wall carpeting. And this Comet gives you a lot of that big-car get up and go. The standard "6" is a 170 cubic inch engine with 100 horsepower. Or you can order two optional "sixes" with 115 or 145 horsepower. Or you can get Comet's biggest engine option, a 302 cubic inch V-8 with 210 horsepower.

3. Result: a better small car.
Comet offers you 3 ways to own a better small car: the 2-door sedan seats four adults, a slightly larger 4-door sedan seats five or there's a GT model with buckets, hood scoop, special GT striping, the works. Options include automatic transmission, vinyl roof, power steering, even air conditioning.

1971 Mercury Comet GT.

Mobil Oil—A Strong Diverse Company

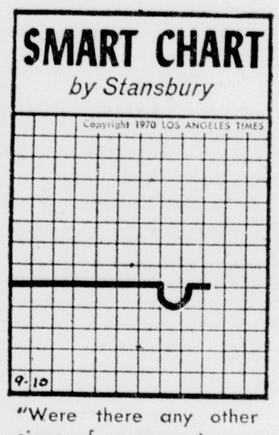

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I would appreciate your comments on Mobil Oil. I accumulated quite a few shares while working for the company. — C.T.

A. Mobil has long been ranked as a high-quality, well-balanced oil company. The fact that it is represented in the North Sea discovery area underscores its vigorous exploration activities which have resulted in Mobil having one of the best-balanced geographic representations in the industry. Mobil is strongly positioned in Europe, with eight refineries, to capitalize on any discoveries on its three blocks offsetting Phillips' Echofish hit. Drilling on the North Slope has produced oil in five test wells up to 3,000 barrels a day. Exploration and drilling are in progress in other petroleum hotspots, including Indonesia, Rainbow Lake and Hudson Bay. For the first half, earnings increased to $2.25 a share from $2.17 on an 8 per cent advance in revenues. Oil stocks have been one of the best-acting groups in an otherwise dull market, reflecting their not-so-bad earnings reports in the second quarter and a possible energy shortage. Shares should be held for growth and reasonable (4.5 per cent) return.

Q. I am a 74-year-old widow; own my home and have $14,000 in the bank. I get $84.30 monthly from Social Security, hold common stock of five companies and need advice desperately. — F.P.

A. Since your total monthly income from all sources is under $125, your desperation is understandable. Other than your savings, you have two large capital investments, your home and your stock. Depending on the real estate values in your area, and expenses involved in running a home as compared with an apartment, you may find property ownership a burden you can ill afford. If you cannot face selling your home, liquidation of your securities would free $13,500 which should be deposited in a savings account. Annual withdrawals from this of $1,200 would give you $31 more in monthly income. Including accrued interest, this portion of your capital would not be exhausted for 16 years.

"Were there any other signs of response to our aggressive back-to-school merchandising program?"

Company To Close Pawtucket Plant

WORCESTER, Mass. (UPI) — Crompton & Knowles Corp. will close its Pawtucket, R.I., plant as a further step to realign its Worcester Division machinery manufacturing operations.

Manufacturing of Jacquard attachments for weaving equipment and needle loom assembly, which has been done in Pawtucket, will be transferred to Worcester and North Carolina plants.

New Bank Leases Space Downtown

Security Pacific National Bank has leased space in downtown San Rafael for its first Marin County office.

The bank will be located at 1242 Fifth Avenue, presently occupied by Coldwell, Banker and Co., which plans on moving to Greenbrae by next month. The lease transaction was negotiated by Coldwell, Banker commercial property salesman J. Ray Van Meter Jr.

The office, which covers more than 4,500 square feet will require remodeling and an opening is not anticipated until later this year.

Security Pacific National was granted a permit by the regional administrator of national banks to locate in the central business district of San Rafael last January. Headquartered in Los Angeles, the bank has branches throughout California and resources of over $7 billion.

New Seating

CHICAGO (UPI) — United Air Lines will introduce three-and-two coach seating on Sept. 14 on all Super DC-8 jets operating nonstop between Hawaii and six mainland cities and on New York-Los Angeles and Chicago-Los Angeles flights. At present the long-range jet has six-across seating.

New Jewelry Line

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gruen Industries, Inc., the watchmaker, announced it is decided to go into the design and manufacture of men's gold rings, bear diamonds and other gem stones. The line will be introduced this fall.

Early Trading Shows Prices Backing Off

With a little more than an hour remaining, the Dow Jones industrial average showed a loss of about 4 points at 762.39. Declines outnumbered advances, 795 to 424.

A four-hour turnover of 8,910,000 shares was considerably below the 12,230,000 shares traded during a similar period yesterday.

Chrysler Corp. presented the United Auto Workers with a second contract offer, but UAW president Leonard Woodcock, said "It hasn't filled in much of the gap for settlement . . . we're a long way from home."

Woodcock noted that "unless something radical changes, the automakers are stalling themselves into a strike."

Newton Zinder, analyst for E. F. Hutton & Co., said the market is consolidating some of its recent gain. But he added "it is giving ground quite grudgingly in what seems to be a pretty encouraging performance."

Among the day's most active issues were Occidental Petroleum, Atlantic City Electric, Roan Selection Trust, Natomas, and Xerox.

RST traded an early block of 131,500 shares at 5, up ⅛, while a 125,000-share block of Xerox changed hands at 78, off 2.

Business executives and employees will find many seminars, lecture series and evening classes helpful to their work in University of California Extension's fall program.

The schedule includes 30 seminars and lecture programs from Sept. 12 to Dec. 16 and 49 evening classes (most will get under way the week of Oct. 5). Seminars are from one to three days in length, lecture series from six to 10 weeks and evening classes from 10 to 12 weeks.

Bulletins with program descriptions and schedules may be obtained from Continuing Education in Management at the Berkeley extension offices at 2223 Fulton Street or from the Extension Center at 55 Laguna Street, San Francisco.

Early fall seminars deal with real estate investing, executive motivation, time management for executives and secretaries, improving standards and documentation in the computer division, human relations skills for supervisors and managers and pension and profit sharing plans.

Lecture series in San Francisco include decision making techniques for marketing management; semantics, communication and human relations; modern techniques of management; investment analysis and planing; legal aspects of contracting; independent business management; and consumer protection.

Evening classes include accounting, business and labor law, contract administration, credit management, economics, finance and investment, industrial and personnel management, retail management, planning and control, real estate, mathematics and administrative training for secretaries and many other subjects.

PHILLIP L. STEWART of San Francisco has joined the San Rafael office of Dean Witter and Co. as an account executive. Previously he was in sales and marketing for International Telephone and Telegraph Co. Prior to that he was a contract administrator for North American Rockwell.

RICHARD W. WESTWOOD of Novato has been appointed vice president of finance for the Brennan Financial Group, San Francisco.

REDWOOD BANK, San Rafael is displaying the paintings of San Rafael schoolteacher Mrs. Ruth Michaels Noe during the month of September.

FIRST WEEKLY breakfast meeting for the fall season of the Marin County Board of Realtors will be next Tuesday at The Rafters (Edgewater Inn Restaurant). Robert D. Dolman is program chairman.

JOHN J. RYAN of San Rafael has been appointed general sales manager of Tahoe Condominium Sales, Inc. Previously he was a divisional manager of a Transamerica-owned land development project. He came to the Bay Area six years ago from Boston where he owned his own real estate firm and had a weekly Irish variety radio show.

Ryan Newman

ALLAN M. NEWMAN of San Rafael has been named vice-president in charge of radio programming for Golden West Broadcasters. He joined the chain's San Francisco station, KSFO, in 1959 and has been program director there since 1961. He will continue to maintain headquarters at KSFO while working in the development and coordination of programming for all of Golden West's four stations. Prior to joining KSFO he headed a Chicago production company developing live and filmed presentations for industrial shows.

MOTORCRAFT: The Vintage Chevrolet Club of America will hold its California meeting Saturday and Sunday at the Golden Tee Resort in Morro Bay. Owners of pre-1942 Chevrolet cars are invited to bring them to the meet (this is not a vintage car show). Prizes will be awarded in several categories.

Refinery To Meet Ecology Standards

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cities Service Co. has begun construction of new facilities to produce fuel oils and coke it said will meet the most stringent environmental standards now foreseen.

The facilities, which will cost $7,500,000, are being added to the company's Lake Charles La. refinery. One is a 25,000 barrels per day fuel oil desulfurizer, while the other will be an expansion of an existing unit that makes low-sulfur metallurgical coal.

OVER, AROUND AND DOWN IT WENT

Annexation Of School Is Approved

The 10-acre San Pedro School on South San Pedro Road, opposite Loch Lomond, will be allowed to annex to the city of San Rafael for city fire and police protection.

The Marin County local agency formation commission last night approved the annexation by unanimous vote.

The commissioners also approved the annexation to Novato Sanitary District of a 160-acre parcel where a regional shopping center and 1,100 units of townhouses and apartments are planned.

The property is on the west side of Highway 101 on both sides of San Marin Drive and is owned by Standard Growth Properties Incorporated and Humble Oil and Refining Co. The shopping center will go on the north side of San Marin Drive, and townhouses, apartments and offices on the south side.

The local agency formation commissioners also:

PAGANINI POINT — Approved the annexation of 4.65 acres at Paganini Point in East San Rafael, between Bellevue Avenue and Bay Way, to the city of San Rafael. William J. Purdy of Burlingame wants to use this and an adjoining 27 acres, already in the city, as a planned community of homes.

MARION AVENUE — Approved the annexation of 1.25 acres at the corner of Marion Avenue and Eighth Street in Novato to the Novato Sanitary District. Owners are William P. and Mary Ann Tarrant.

TIBURON — Granted Irving V. Moulin permission to annex 20 acres near the top of Tiburon Ridge, north of Mount Tiburon Unit 2, to the Tiburon Sanitary District. The owner plans to develop one-family homes.

HOOPES ANNEX — Granted L. Scott Hoopes and John Allen, both of San Francisco, permission to detach their properties on the ridge between San Rafael and Greenbrae, from San Rafael Sanitation District and annex to the Ross Valley Sanitary District. The properties total 2.01 acres.

FIRE DISTRICT — Continued until Oct. 14 the proposed formation of a Marin County Fire Protection District for all areas not served by cities or special fire districts. Commissioner Roy Farrington Jones of Ross asked for a delay so that he can get the views of various fire chiefs. Commissioners who attended last night were Chairman Hugh C. Marchant of Kentfield, supervisors Louis H. Barr and Michael Wornum, Jones, and J. Wayne Womack of Novato.

Car Stolen

A 1969 model car, valued at $2,750, was taken between 9:30 p.m. yesterday and 1:15 a.m. today from the Montecito Shopping Center parking lot, owner John Dansby of 420 Canal Street, Apt. 14, San Rafael, reported to police. The license on the white car is 793-AMX.

Striking Teachers Close More Schools

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Philadelphia's 290,000 public school children were on an extended vacation today because of a teachers strike. So were thousands of children across the nation as teachers kept school boards working on 'rithmetic — higher-pay demands.

Nearly 96,000 Michigan students stayed out of school as 4,500 teachers across the state were on strike. Teachers strikes also were in progress in Toledo, Ohio; Hammond, Ind.; Niagara Falls, N.Y.; Nashua, N.H.; East St. Louis, Ill.; and at least six Connecticut cities.

Today was to have been opening day for Philadelphia school children, but the school board ordered the city's 270 public schools closed until a settlement was reached with the Philadelphia Federation of Teachers over a new contract. The union called the board's closing of schools a lockout.

Philadelhpia's 13,000 teachers were to have reported Tuesday for two days of preparation. The chief issues are salaries — the board had offered a $17 million increase package and the union wanted $24.3 million— the length of the high school day, retroactivity of any pay hike, teacher accountability and absenteeism.

The state's ninth-largest city, Kalamazoo, had 1,070 teachers and 19,000 students absent. The Michigan Education Association reported Wednesday five districts had reached contract agreements, leaving 70 districts without contracts.

A judge Wednesday granted a restraining order against the Hammond (Ind.) Teachers Association strike. Fifty to 75 per cent of the city's 1,050 teachers stayed out of classes. Other teachers and administrative personnel held classes for most of the 23,800 students.

About 2,500 teachers struck the Toledo school system Wednesday, the first day of school for 61,000 students, to enforce their demand for pay raises. The teachers wanted a $7,000 starting salary with a top of $18,000. They rejected the board's offer of $5,800 to $12,000.

Up to 35 per cent of Niagara Falls' 1,000 teachers struck Wednesday in defiance of a court order but most classes were opened to the 17,000 students.

Strikes closed schools in the Connecticut cities of Bristol and Milford and classes were let out early in Middletown. Teachers voted to strike in New Haven and East Haven and the high school at Somers was closed to 750 students. Teachers in seven other Connecticut cities were without contracts.

Teachers in Nashua, N.H., ignored a court injunction and continued the second week of a strike but classes were underway in the city's 14 schools as volunteers and substitutes taught.

East St. Louis' 22,000 students were out of school as 1,150 teachers continued a strike that began last week. Ninety teachers and 1,500 students were out because of a strike at Eldorado, Ill.

Nearly 200 teachers were on an extended summer vacation at Tallmadge, Ohio, Wednesday after voters rejected one of two operating levels.

The first three Presidents elected after the Civil War — Grant, Hayes and Garfield — were Ohio natives.

Unidentified Body Found Shot On Span

The body of a young man believed to have shot himself was found at midspan of the Golden Gate Bridge yesterday, the California Highway Patrol reported today.

The unidentified man, thought to be about 25, was found slumped over the railing of the east walkway at 1:24 p.m. by officers who were alerted by a woman motorist.

The body was taken to Harbor Emergency Hospital in San Francisco, where a doctor said he apparently had shot himself with a pistol, possibly a .38-caliber. A bullet hole was found below his right ear.

No weapon was found at the scene, however, and officers speculated that it fell into the bay.

The man wos described as five feet five inches tall, 125 pounds, with blue eyes and brown hair. He was wearing a light blue sweatshirt and brown jacket. In his pocket was $28 in cash and on his wrist was a gold watch. No note was found.

New Zealanders To Perform Dance

Featuring eight Maori dancers, the National Band of New Zealand will conclude the Marin Music Chest summer concert series Sunday at 3 p.m. at Forest Meadows, Dominican College, in San Rafael.

The program will range from Hungarian Rhapsody Two by Lizst and Journey into Freedom by Eric Ball to Tschaikowsky's 1812 Overture and John Philip Souza's "Stars and Stripes Forever."

Parking will be available in the Coleman School grounds behind the stage.

New Trustees On Kentfield Board

Appointed were R. J. Mullen of 21 Oak Knoll Road in Kentfield and H. K. Trembley of 14 McAllister Avenue, Kentfield.

The fire district trustees also decided to make more refinements in specifications for a new pumper truck before letting bids.

The board also approved purchase of a $60 speaker for one of their pickup trucks and accepted a bid of $325 from John Thoelecke of 25 Alta Mira Avenue, Kentfield, for a 1961 pickup truck the fire district is selling.

FOR FALL GRIND

Agnew On Campaign Swing; Muskie, Too

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI)— Vice President Spiro T. Agnew accused congressional Democrats today of "a whimpering isolationism in foreign policy, a mulish obstructionism in domestic policy, and a pusillanimous pussyfooting on the critical issue of law and order."

"Your country just cannot afford any more ultra-liberals in the United States Senate," Agnew said in a speech prepared for a party rally here kicking off an intensive campaign schedule for the vice president in behalf of Republican candidates.

"There was a time," Agnew said, "when the liberalism of the old (Democratic) elite was a venturesome and fighting philosophy —the vanguard political dogma of a Franklin Roosevelt, a Harry Truman, a John Kennedy.

"But the old firehorses are long gone. Today's breed of radical-liberal posturing about the Senate is about as closely related to a Harry Truman —as a chihuahua is to a timber wolf."

Campaigning on behalf of Sen. Ralph T. Smith, who is in a tough race with Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III, Agnew said: "Ultra-liberalism today translates into a whimpering isolationism in foreign policy, a mulish obstructionism domestic policy, and a pusillanimous pussyfooting on the critical issue of law and order.

After criticizing congressional Democrats on a number of familiar issues, Agnew said in his text:

"If any of you are regular readers of the liberal eastern press — the organ grinders of the old elite — you will probably read on your editorial pages tomorrow, 'The terrible Mr. Agnew has done it again.'

"Don't let this bother you as, assuredly, it does not bother me. When you have been head-to-head with our Korean ally for six hours of tough negotiation — you are not likely to be stampeded off the range by an editorial writer for the Washington Post.

"Let them run right up the wall. We are going to be out with the other 'happy warriors' on the campaign trail this fall —roasting marshmallows along the way."

For his six-day, six-state swing to the Midwest, Far West and Southwest on behalf of Republican candidates, Agnew got a sendoff from President Nixon at the White House.

Agnew will be acting as the White House chief spokesman in the campaign aimed at overcoming or at least reducing Democratic majorities in the House and Senate. Nixon told Agnew as the two posed smilingly for photographers that he faced some "long days" between now and election day.

Nixon apparently will limit himself to a few spot appearances during the campaign, with Agnew carrying the load.

The Democrats also launched one of their brightest stars, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, on a campaign tour beginning tonight in Pennsylvania and followed by a cross-country jet trip that will have him dogging Agnew's footsteps in some cases.

Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien, also on a two-month campaign tour, spoke at a Chicago rally this afternoon for Stevenson.

O'Brien said more Democrats like Stevenson are needed in Congress to provide forward-looking policies that he said the Nixon administration lacks.

O'Brien spoke Wednesday in Kansas City, charging that Agnew was making his campaign forays while neglecting official duties in Washington.

Smith is one of several Republican senators facing hard struggles that Agnew was trying to help. He also will be concentrating on states where Democratic senators are in trouble.

From Springfield, Agnew's entourage will fly to Casper, Wyo. for a fund-raiser rally, followed by a fund-raising dinner in San Diego Friday.

After a weekend off, Agnew campaigns in Las Vegas Monday, New Mexico Tuesday, and Michigan Wednesday.

In four of the six states, Republicans are trying to unseat Democratic senators as part of their quest to pick the seven seats that would give them control of the Senate.

In Wyoming, Republican Rep. John Wold is giving up his House seat to challenge Sen. Gale W. McGee; in Nevada, William Raggio, 44, goes against Sen. Howard W. Cannon; in New Mexico, party chairman Anderson Carter meets Sen. Joseph M. Montoya; and in Michigan, Lenore Romney is paired against Sen. Philip A. Hart.

While Agnew's campaign embraces all Republican candidates in the states he visits, Muskie is making more selective appearances on behalf of specific candidates.

Tonight, the 1968 Democratic vice presidential candidate and possible 1972 presidential contender, goes to Lackawanna County to campaign for gubernatorial candidate Milton Shapp.

Then, next Wednesday as Agnew completes his swing, Muskie will campaign for Stevenson in Chicago; on Sept. 17 for gubernatorial candidate Robert Straub in Portland, Ore., and senatorial candidate John V. Tunney in San Francisco.

On the following day, Sept. 18, Muskie will be in Los Angeles to campaign for Jesse Unruh, running against Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Muskie has at least two other trips scheduled in September and possibly a third for Hart in Michigan.

On Sept. 22, Muskie will campaign for Sen. Harrison Williams in Middlesex County, N.J., and on the 25th for Howard Metzenbaum, running for the Senate in Ohio.

Degeneracy Of Nations Revealed By Kidnapings

The kidnap-hijacking of three airliners by Palestinian guerrillas has served to bring sharply into focus the mawkish degeneracy that has weakened the fiber of national governments.

The guerillas took it upon themselves to seize the planes and hold almost 300 passengers as hostages for the release of fellow outlaws who had been nabbed in acts of banditry.

What followed shocks the senses quite as much as kidnaping themselves. Governments of Switzerland and West Germany quickly agreed to release prisoners charged with felonies in return for the release of the kidnap victims. Great Britain at first turned down the blackmail coldly, but was pressed by the Swiss and Germans to join in yielding. Israel likewise was pressed to free guerrilla prisoners it has captured. The United States, with no prisoner to release but with American citizens among the kidnap victims, reportedly was attempting to mediate.

Here we had a band of outlaws operating so boldly that it made no attempt to hide its actions or the location of he seized planes. A reporter from United Press International drove to the desert airstrip and talked with some of the victims. The location was in Jordan.

IS WHAT the guerrillas did different from what some San Quentin prisoners and their accomplices tried to do at the Marin County Hall of Justice last month? We see little difference.

Yet we have the spectacle of sovereign nations yielding to the blackmail "to save lives"!

Charles A. Lindbergh yielded to blackmail by paying $50,000 to save the life of his son — but his son died. The parents of Peter Levine paid $125,000 to save his life — but he died. Ransom of $200,000 was paid for the release of Bobby Greenlease — but he died. There have been plenty of other cases where the futility of yielding to blackmail has been proved.

A LONG TIME AGO, on May 18, 1904, a similar band of North African outlaws, Riffs headed by a chief named Raisuli, kidnaped Jon Perdicaris, an American citizen, from a villa near Tangier in Morocco President Theodore Roosevelt ordered a battle cruiser of the Mediterranean fleet to steam for Tangier. Secy. of State John Hay dispatched a note to the sultan of Morocco that said simply: "Perdicaris alive or Raisuli dead!"

Perdicaris was freed. The battle cruiser turned around and rejoined the fleet.

The guerrillas are outlaws in Jordan, as the Riffs were outlaws in Morocco. Their whereabouts certainly is known to the Jordanian government. Yet in the strange moral climate of the 1970s, nobody apparently even considered serving King Hussein with a demand such as the U.S. served on the sultan of Morocco 66 years ago. Instead, we had the spectacle of two sovereign nations begging that other sovereign nations join them in paying blackmail to the kidnapers.

If the world is to be ruled by blackmail, we may as well forget all pretense of civilization, law and order.

Game Of Topical Legislating Sometimes Is Booby-Trapped

By JACK COOPER

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Legislators seem to develop more faith in the efficacy of legislation than most of us citizens are able to share.

On occasion, though, it appears that their trust may lie less in the effect of their legislation than in the attraction to news editors of a Sacramento sidebar to a good story that happened elsewhere.

The game and the parachute jump took place on New Year's Day, of course.

AND EQUALLY of course, when the Legislature convened four or five days later, one of our eagle-eyed lawgivers was ready with a bill to put a stop to this.

Some of us considered that there must have been something already on the books to meet this fell situation — walking on the grass, dropping a packaged substance from a plane, mopery with intent to gawk.

But the bill was topical and our shrewd solon made the papers all over the state. Even the sports pages in some cases.

It was irreverently suggested that he missed in the comic sections, but he didn't care. His name had been spelled right.

THE GAME is to see who can be first in the hopper with a bill reflecting the latest headlines. There are no second and third places. The first one in takes the only prize. News editors are funny that way, too.

Once is a while this harmless pasttime backfires and the fun-loving player gets burned — as in the case this session of Assemblyman Don Mulford, R-Oakland, who seems to have been in several editorial backfires lately.

MURFORD SOUGHT to capitalize on a riotous city council meeting early this year in Berkeley in which some 300 believers in the much-overworked concept of participatory democracy shouted down the local lawmakers as they tried to conduct the city's business.

He introduced AB 981, which would allow the council under such circumstances to clear the public from its chambers and get on with arranging for getting the streets swept, the garbage collected, or whatever.

In accordance with the American tradition that somebody'd better keep an eye on the proceedings lest the city hall disappear by tomorrow, he provided that newspaper reporters could remain.

A Senate committee amended the bill to provide that the council could throw the reporters out too, and Mulford accepted the amendment when AB 981 came back to the Assembly.

SO NOW Mulford has all the news editors in the state on his neck, and we suspect the governor isn't too happy about having the bill on his desk.

Just as though without AB 981 the Berkeley police couldn't have used the tried-and-true charges of distrubing the peace or destruction of city property.

TRY AND STOP ME

Radie Harris reports that Noel Coward's favorite parlor game these days consists of fitting names of VIPs into famous books, plays or story titles. Example: "U Thant Take It With You"; "I'll Be Don Ameche in a Taxi, Honey"; "Ina Claire Day You Can See Forever." Now that you have the idea, how's for dreaming up a few on your own?

An investor, deeply troubled about the state of the country's economy, sought help from the town's most prestigious crystal-gazer. "I'd like to talk with the famous Mr. Kahn" he confided. "Make yourself at home," she nodded, nd few moments later, after some tinkling of bells, and a banjo or two floating through the air, a deep voice intoned, "I am the only man who ever conquered all of China and India."

Puzzled, the investor asked, "What's he talking about? Is that the great banker, Otto Kahn?" "I'm very sorry," apologized the crystal-gazer. "I thought you wanted Genghis Khan!"

Differs On What Happened In Court

It was stated in your Sept. 1 issue that I interrupted the court when in fact I was not only on the court calendar but was called to present my motion, which the public defender stated to the court I was quite capable of and had done so on several occasions in the past.

Also the motion was incorrectly called. It was not a "motion to dismiss" but a motion to transfer to court of proper jurisdiction, the U.S. District Court.

I would appreciate this correction being made.

Liberated Woman Can Remain Feminine

I applaud the article on women in today's (Sept. 7) Independent-Journal by Mr. T. N. Alexakos. It is gratifying, in this day and age, when women are fighting so strongly for their rights, to have them so well and gallantly portrayed.

However, while I try to understand the aims and policies of the Women's Liberation Movement, I do not condone their method of operation, nor the crude manner they often use to put their operation into effect. While their goal of equal treatment in employment, and equal pay for a job well performed, is commendable, surely, wearing men's attire and using profane language is but a belittlement of their female status, of which they should be proud, and invading the private domain of a man's drinking establishment can but be considered childish.

. . . Now that women are realizing their capabilities, and invading all fields of endeavor that once were considered exclusive male provinces, I am sure we may look for major accomplishments by them also in these aforementioned fields.

These accomplishments need not in any way detract from a woman's femininity, or make her less attractive to the opposite sex, merely raise her in his estimation as a person of equal intelligence, not endeavoring to compete with him for a superior position, but merely to take her place by his side, a separate but equal personality.

Creek Development Solution Proposed

Halting construction along the north side of Corte Madera Creek by the Larkspur City Council for 30 days to permit "study of construction impact on creekside ecology" is ridiculous in this conservationist's opinion. It is doubtful if it can be more than just delay, legally speaking.

What could be a happy solution to the objections of various conservation bodies desiring access to the water would be for the owners of the present open spaces (Schultz Building Co.) to donate a lot or two, thus providing public access to the creek as a parking lot for the boat trailers desiring use of a state park provided boat launching ramp.

The gardens of projected apartments facing lengthy Elisio Drive would be a desirable community embellishment as well as tax revenue producers.

Highway Fund Debate: New Approach Needed

(Reprinted from Washington Evening Star)

With the interstate highway system almost three-fourths completed, the country is edging into a major debate over transportation priorities. A change of course may be and certainly should be in the making.

Most Americans, even those far out on the prairies, know that the main domestic assignment is dealing with the seam-bursting cities. They know that the real transportation dilemmas are in the urban sectors, where people and automobiles have conglomerated almost to the point of strangulation.

That this nation-wide awareness exists was illustrated by the surprising resolution recently adopted by the nation's governors, assembled in Missouri. Reversing an earlier position, they advocated legislation permitting the states to spend some of their federal highway money for non-road projects, such as rapid transit systems. This mortified the powerful "highway lobby," which holds that there is an inviolatle commitment on the Highway Trust Fund.

BUT THERE IS a discomforting question: When will the vehicle saturation point be reached in those congested and polluted sections in which most of the population now resides? If the number of automobiles really doubles in the next decade, as some forecasters predict, what will be done with all of them? Construction of enough paved thoroughfares to accommodate twice the current traffic is unacceptable for reasons relating to the environment, safety and sanity. The interests of motorists will be far better served by holding the vehicular inventory within reasonable bounds than by concreting half the country. Systems for transporting urbanites and suburbanites en masse, swiftly and comfortably, are the only alternative to street and highway chaos.

The case for a single transportation trust fund (excluding aviation) is compelling, and there is no sound reason why it should not draw income both from user taxes and general revenues. Presently authorized highway commitments of course should be met, and road requirements should not be neglected. None of the trust money should go to endeavors that are not related to transportation.

TRANSPORTATION Secretary Volpe favors retention of the Highway Trust Fund system of allocations to the states, but he would add the authority for states to spend perhaps 15 per cent of the funds for non-road programs, including rapid transit. This approach has more merit than Sen. Jennings Randolph's legislation . . . which would remove some spending prohibitions, but still would withhold the trust money from new rapid transit projects.

A bolder, broader formula is required for progress toward a balanced transportation system, and we hope it will be advanced by Secretary Volpe.

Government Spending's Effect On Population Shown In Maine

NEWAGEN, Maine — The summer visitors are going south in flocks like birds of passage, and the rockbound coast is once again left to the lobster men and the fishing boats. While tourism provides more than 40 per cent of all jobs in the private sector, thoughtful citizens are more and more concerned that this state cannot earn its way by summer visitors and winter skiers.

In the decade of the '60s, Maine was one of a half-dozen states that either stood still in population or grew so imperceptibly as hardly to count. The net increase was 7,995 souls, or .8 of one per cent, bringing the total to 977,260, according to the preliminary estimate in the '70 census.

THE DECADE just ended has shown the power of the federal government to determine population trends, and nowhere is that demonstrated more dramatically than here.

The drama at the moment is in Washington, with the state's senior senator, Margaret Chase Smith, in a barely controlled rage at the rejection, if not the downright double-crossing, of her state. What set off her fury was the award of a $2.1 billion contract for 30 destroyers to Litton Industries in Mississippi.

It happens, of course, that Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi is chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee. It happens, too, that the lady from Maine is the ranking Republican on the armed services committee, and if the Democrats should lose control of the Senate in November, she would be chairman, with all the power of that office to stop or advance the Pentagon's new weapons systems.

NOT ONLY DID the 30 destroyers go to Mississippi rather than to Maine's shipyards, the Bath Iron Works, but Senator Smith charges that the bidding was rigged. On July 1 she wrote a letter to the attorney general setting forth her allegation in strong language. Not until 41 days later, after a second letter and two telephone calls did she receive a reply from the Department of Justice informing her there was no basis for an investigation into the charges.

On the Senate floor, she quoted reports from the comptroller general and the General Accounting Office that the Navy apparently had given no consideration to alternative bids or to the possible advantage of having the destroyers constructed in more than one shipyard.

THE DEMOCRATIC governor, Kenneth M. Curtis, in this once rockribbed Republican state, prodded the legislature into passing a state income and corporate tax. As a result, Curtis is in bad trouble.

The two new taxes returned in 1969 (the first year they were imposed) $26.5 million. Yet even with a 5 per cent sales and use tax on top of this that brought a record $83 million last year, the state is hard pressed for the kind of money that might go to attract new industries and open up vast areas of unused forest land.

California, in the decade of the '60s, had a growth rate of 25.3 per cent. The aero-space and the aircraft industries, largely financed by the federal government, built up a new complex of cities and suburban satellites. And while both these industries are currently in trouble with a fairly high rate of unemployment, they were a large factor in the growth of the most populous state in the union.

With Maine's 5,500,000 visitors concentrated largely in the southern coastal counties, the threat of overdevelopment and pollution is great. At the same time, in the interior it is estimated 200,000 persons live below the poverty level. This is poverty that the visitors never see as they enjoy the rugged beauty of the shore until, at the first hint of fall, they migrate southward.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Land Seizures Pose New Threat To Indian Regime

By PHIL NEWSOM, UPI Foreign News Analyst

Mrs. Indira Gandhi, prime minister of India, disapproved. So did President Varahgiri Venkata Giri. So did the chief ministers of all of India's 17 states.

To a visiting group of 150 American professors and school teachers Mrs. Gandhi described India's land-grab movement as "unconstitutional and undemocratic." Certain political parties, she declared, were trying to outdo each other by adoption of undesirable methods.

There had been, she admitted, some delay in implementation of land reforms.

THE PRIME minister's mild manner and speech scarcely described the movement sweeping across close to a dozen Indian states where landless peasants were carrying out one of the largest land grabs in Indian history.

SPONSORED by the pro-Moscow branch of the Communist party and later joined by two socialist groups, the demonstrators seized tens of thousands of uncultivated acres owned either by absentee landlords or the government.

By the end of August, police had jailed more than 20,000 of the demonstrators, including members of Parliament.

Demonstrations had begun in West Bengal in mid-July and spread from there. It was not, however, a problem new to India.

IN 1948, one year after India achieved independence, a farmers' revolt in what then was Hyderabad state sought to drive out the big landlords and redistribute their lands.

In 1967, near the West Bengal village of Naxalbari, peasant extremists aligned with the Peking branch of India's Communist movement, staged a short but bloody revolt against rural "class enemies."

Land reform is but one of the many problems India has not been able to solve in 23 years of independence.

The extreme poverty of the cities and the countryside, the caste system, and linguistic and religious conflicts present just as great a problem now as in 1947.

LAND REFORM in India falls under the authority of the state governments rather than New Delhi, with 30 acres the usual ceiling on the amount one person can hold legally.

But the laws have been poorly enforced, one reason being that the Congress party which has dominated Indian political life since independence, draws most of its financial support from the landowning class.

The mounting popularity of the peasant revolts has the government worried on two counts.

One is the danger of a total breakdown in law and order should the demonstrations be permitted to continue.

The other is that national elections are coming up in 1972 and whether Mrs. Gandhi likes it or not she cannot ignore the fact that the poor and landless make up the largest bloc of Indian voters.

Ah! Imperishable, Romantic Love! Place Your Bet It Won't Last

MARTHA'S VINEYARD, Mass. — The British are now considering a plan to provide women with divorce insurance. The idea is that since marriage is getting more hazardous all the time, women should be protected in case their husbands can't support them and the children after the marriage is dissolved.

If the plan is adopted and is successful, there is no reason why divorce insurance in the United States would not become a big thing.

This is how it might work

AN INSURANCE agent for the Niagara Falls Marriage Casualty and Life Insurance Co. would scan the engagement notices of his local newspaper. Then he would select a likely prospect, perhaps Miss Mary Philpott of Roxbury, Conn., who has just announced her engagement to Mr. Seymour Rocks of Philadelphia.

The agent would call on Miss Philpott with a bouquet of red roses.

"Miss Philpott, I read in the newspaper this morning that you are going to marry Mr. Seymour Rocks, and I wish to offer my heartiest congratulations."

"Oh, thank you. I'm so happy, I'm flying. Who did you say you were?"

"Nate Bienstock of the Niagara Falls Marriage Casualty and Life Insurance Co.," he says, handing her his card.

MISS PHILPOTT says, "Thank you very much, but I don't need any life insurance."

"I'm not selling life insurance, Miss Philpott. I'm selling divorce insurance."

"You've come to the wrong person," Miss Philpott giggles. "Seymour and I will be married forever."

"Forever? Are you so certain?"

"Of course I'm certain. We're madly in love, hopelessly, endurably, unforgettably."

"MISS PHILPOTT, for your sake I truly and sincerely hope that everything you say is true. But our statistics, kept up to date by our own computers, show that your marriage has one chance in three of being dissolved in the next seven years."

"Not my marriage, Mr. Bienstock. Not with a wonderful man like Seymour."

"But you're only seeing the good side of Seymour now. Wait until you're married. Miss Philpott, in every Seymour Rocks, there's a Joe Namath screaming to get out: a Seymour who will spend his evenings with the boys, a Seymour who will sit every weekend watching football on television, a Seymour longing and yearning for his carefree bachelor days. This divorce insurance policy was written for that Seymour, not the one who put a diamond ring on your finger."

MISS PHILPOTT is almost in tears.

"Seymour is forever," she cries.

"That's what Liz Taylor said about Eddie Fisher, Miss Philpott, that's what Zsa Zsa Gabor said about Conrad Hilton, and that's what Jean Peters said about Howard Hughes."

"But how can I buy divorce insurance before I'm even married?" Miss Philpott asks.

"That is what your Niagara Falls Casualty agent is here for. To help you plan ahead. Now, we have some very good all-inclusive policies, including one in case you break up in a foreign country."

"How much divorce insurance should I get?" Miss Philpott asks, sobbing.

"Well, from what you've told me about Seymour being such a swinger and scoundrel, I'd advise you to take the maximum."

U.N. Set For Silver Jubilee —A Tarnished Anniversary?

LONDON — The United Nations, created 25 years ago, is celebrating its silver jubilee this year amid growing awareness of the minimal role the organization plays in world politics today.

The successes and failures of the past 25 years are being recalled, but, more than anything, the 126 members of the United Nations are asking: What kind of organization have we created?

It is an organization that operates only by the grace of its members. They use it at will and ignore it at convenience. Perhaps the saddest thing is that many of the international agreements of recent years —the Partial Test Ban Treaty, the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty, etc.—have been reached outside the United Nations and have come here only for a final blessing.

U Thant, who has held the thankless job of U.N. Secretary-General for the past nine years, has warned of a "crisis of commitment" to the United Nations. In a speech in Ottawa, he complained that "too many nations still regard the United Nations as peripheral to their foreign policies."

"They tend to evaluate it according to its possible uses in advancing their own goals rather than the central instrument for forging solutions to world problems in concern with the rest of the community," he said.

For this reason the special session commemorating the U.N.'s twenty-fifth anniversary between Oct. 19 and 24 has taken on an extra symbolic significance. As many as 80 heads of state and government should be in New York during that week and the United Nations will be the scene of the biggest summit gathering in history.

Today the U.N. reflects a world of big power politics, where the mass of developing countries can do little to influence the course of human events. And only a reduction of national sovereignty can improve this situation.

The United Nations was born 25 years ago as the creature of the World War II allies, but it was dominated by the West, and above all by the United States. The United Nations became an instrument of American foreign policy, with the built-in majority of Latin American and West European countries in the General Assembly guaranteeing approval of Washington's will. In the Security Council, the Soviet Union used its right of veto almost 100 times in the first 15 years of the organization's existance.

But in the 1960s the tables turned and Moscow's constant campaign for the independence of the African and Asian colonies won it increasing support in the General Assembly and forced the isolation of the western powers on the perennial issue of colonialism in Africa.

The vast majority of the members of the United Nations have now come to realize that their interests lie wtih allegiance neither to Washington nor to Moscow.

This majority forced America and Russia to revise their Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty and many countries have refused or been reluctant to sign what they felt was a treaty to "denuclearize the non-nuclear states." Last year this same majority told the United States and the Soviet Union to rewrite their draft treaty to denuclearize the sea-bed to take account of the interests of the developing world.

In the U.N. Sea-Bed Committee, the developing countries have gathered together again to defend their interests against states that have greater technical know-how but fewer natural resources. They are insisting that the vast untapped areas of the ocean remain the "common heritage" of mankind to be exploited by an international regime for the benefit of all.

In fact, the Soviet Union and the United States have recognized they can no longer manipulate the U.N.'s Silent Majority and have chosen to deal with each other outside the auspices of the organization.

The preference of the big powers to settle their economic and political differences outside the United Nations has led to a serious downgrading of its objectives—what Brazil's U.N. Ambassador Joao Augusto de Araujo Castro has called "a stagnation of initiatives and a careful freezing of the expectations of the overwhelming majority of mankind."

The main concern of this majority is development, yet it sees the United Nations sidetracked into peripheral issues of environmental and population control and scientific and technological cooperation while ignoring the obstacles that prevent most countries from climbing out of centuries of backwardness. The fear is that these issues are being taken up as substitutes for viable development policies.

Users Taxes Apportioned For Marin

Marin County received $138,780 in highway users taxes and $4,795 in cigarette taxes as its August apportionments, the state controller's office has announced.

Highway users taxes were apportioned to Marin cities as follows: San Rafael, $26,563; Novato, $21,290; San Anselmo, $9,827; Mill Valley, $9,236; Larkspur, $6,317; Corte Madera, $6,314; Fairfax, $5,686; Sausalito, $5,202; Tiburon, $4,832; Ross, $2,384; and Belvedere, $2,263.

Cigarette taxes in Marin were apportioned as follows: San Rafael, $16,302; Novato, $7,145; Corte Madera, $4,101; Mill Valley, $3,448; San Anselmo, $3,118; Sausalito, $2,839; Larkspur, $2,260; Fairfax, $1,621; Tiburon, $1,538; Ross, $489; and Belvedere, $482.

In Southern Sonoma, Petaluma was to receive $17,594 from highway users taxes and $6,784 in cigarette taxes; Rohnert Park, $4,960 highway and $1,369 cigarette; and Cotati $1,486 highway and $527 cigarette taxes.

Trial Is Ordered On Arson Charges

Grace Patricia Halloran, 24, of Novato has been ordered to stand trial in superior court on a charge of arsona fter a preliminary hearing in municipal court.

Miss Halloran is accused of setting fire to her home on Aug. 18.

Streams Bill Ammendment Is Defended

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Assemblyman Eugene Chappie (R-Cool) has denied any wrong doing in a last minute amendment he tagged on a bill which would deny public access to streams and reservoirs developed by nonprofit corporations.

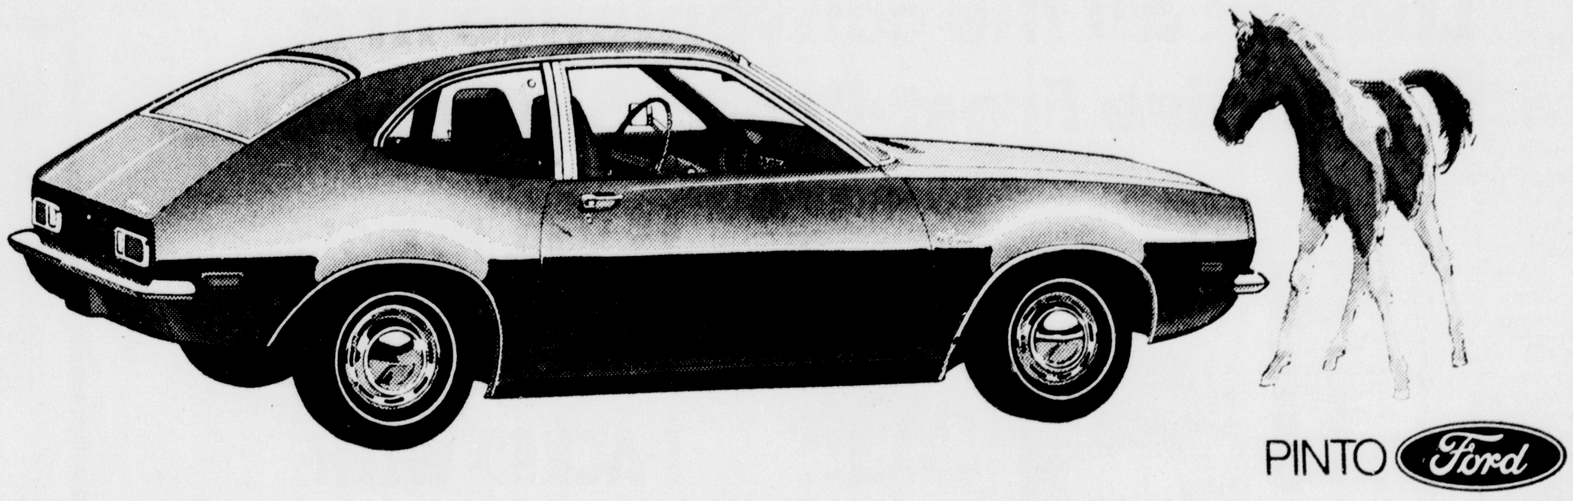

Chappie said that the bill, if signed by the governor, would not exclude any areas where a prior right to fishing had been established.

Originally drafted by the Department of Fish and Game and introduced by Senator Robert Lagomarsino (R-Ojai), SB 945 revised provisions of the law relating to the cultivation of shellfish and oysters and established procedures for the leasing of state-owned water bottoms for the cultivation of marine life.

The bill still deals with those subjects, but the amendment was added, at the request of Assemblyman Frank Murphy (R-Santa Cruz), the day before the session ended t to exempt nonprofit corporations from allowing public access to private streams, dams and reservoirs.

Lagomarsino issued a press release saying he was "duped" into allowing the amendment, but Chappie said he found it "hard to believe that a farmer could dupe an outstanding California lawyer."

Meet Ford's new Pinto. The little carefree car.

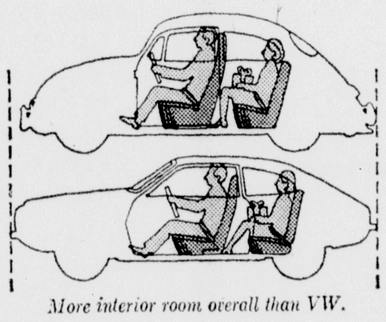

PINTO Ford

If you have the questions, Pinto has the answers.

Q. What do you mean, "the little carefree car"?
A. In brief, Pinto can free you from car cares, big and little. Pinto takes care of big gas bills, it averages over 25 miles per gallon in simulated city suburban driving. Pinto takes care of passing slower traffic with a 75-horsepower engine. For handling stability, Pinto offers a wider track than any popular little import. Pinto's roomy, quiet, fun to drive. And Pinto's so simple, it almost takes care of itself.

Q. You say Pinto is little. How little?
A. A handy 13½ feet from bumper to bumper. That's only 3 inches longer than Volkswagen. But Pinto's turning circle is smaller—3 feet smaller. So they can both slip through traffic and into the same kind of small parking spaces.

More interior room overall than VW.

Q. How about inside?
A. Pinto gives you more roominess overall than Volkswagen. There's 6.6 inches more shoulder room in the front seat. More head and knee room for the rear seat passengers, too. And getting in and out is easier, especially from the back seat, because Pinto's doors are a good half-foot wider.

Q. What about price?
A. Pinto is priced like the little imports.

Q. And what will that price include?
A. Plenty. The standard engine gives you 75 horsepower. Also, Pinto is the only American economy car equipped with a 4-speed, fully synchronized transmission at no extra cost. And you get precise rack & pinion steering, the same as you'll find in expensive European sports cars like Porsche and Jaguar. Pinto has High Back bucket seats. Full-width rear seat. Thick foam-padded upholstery. A rich-looking all-vinyl interior. All-steel, rattle-resistant, unitized body, chassis construction, welded together like a battleship. DirectAire ventilation with upper-level fresh air outlets. Heater defroster with 3-speed fan. Two-speed electric windshield wipers. Electric windshield washers. Anti-theft steering column lock. Inside and outside rearview mirrors. Courtesy light. Backup light. Your choice of 15 exterior colors. And more.

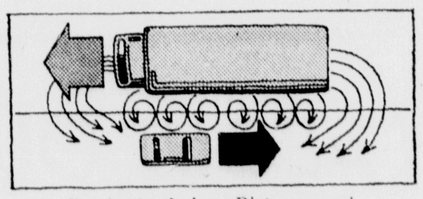

Q. How about optional extras?
A. Pinto is an economy car, so we kept the list of extras short and to the point. Like a more powerful overhead-cam-shaft, 100-hp engine with a 3-speed fully automatic transmission. (Some of our competitors offer only a 2-speed automatic.) Front disc brakes. Built-in air conditioning. Vinyl roof. Tinted glass. Rear window defogger. "Flipper" rear quarter windows. Fold-down rear seat. A few dress-up extras so you can personalize your Pinto. Bumper guards and side molding with vinyl inserts to protect the paint. Sensible things like that.

Q. About Pinto's engine. Is it aluminum? Air-cooled? Or in the back of the car?
A. It's made out of rugged, lightweight cast iron, the most reliable engine material we know of today. Pinto's engine is already backed by 50 million owner-driven miles. It's water-cooled for maximum efficiency and minimum noise. And it's mounted up front for better stability.

Q. That's quite an engine.
A. There's more. Unlike combustion chambers in many car engines, Pinto's chambers are specially machined smooth so that buildup of power-robbing carbon is reduced. And Pinto's precision-balanced engine crank is fully supported by five main bearings while many economy imports have only three or four. Result: Pinto runs smoother and quieter.

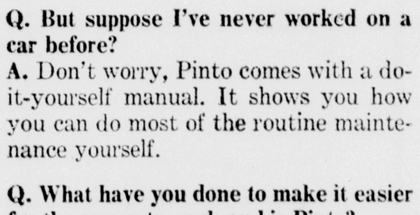

Q. How about acceleration?
A. Compare Pinto's 75 horsepower with other cars Pinto's weight and size. Volkswagen, for instance, has only 57 horsepower. In a Pinto, merging with fast-paced American traffic is no problem. (Neither is stopping, by the way. Pinto's brakes require 30-50% less pedal effort than typical nonpower systems, even after hard use. And we don't offer power brakes or power steering for Pinto—you don't need them.)

Q. Many small cars seem to get blown around a lot in gusty crosswinds, when you're passing a big truck (or when a big truck is passing you)! What about Pinto?
A. Pinto has a low silhouette and a wider stance than any little economy import. These are not mere stylist's whims—they give you more predictable handling under all conditions. Add Pinto's rack & pinion steering, and you really have a feeling of control.

Passing trucks leave Pinto unmoved.

Q. Any other advantages for Pinto's rack & pinion steering?
A. Pinto's steering effort is lower than VW's, so you don't tire yourself out getting into tight parking spots.

Wider stance than any economy import.

Q. That brings up a point—what about service?
A. Pinto is designed to require little routine maintenance. The usual service interval for cars in this class is 3 months or 3,000 miles. We doubled this—to 6 months or 6,000 miles—and eliminated many traditionally required items of maintenance. Like Pinto's lubed-for-life steering gear. Or Pinto's brakes—we made them self-adjusting. And you lube the chassis only once every 36,000 miles, or 3 years. Some economy cars ask you to do this twice a year, or six times as often. Pinto takes care of that.

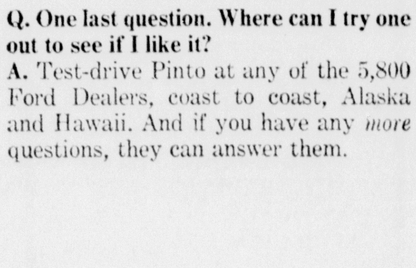

Q. Pinto's that easy to service?
A. We've taken a car's most often repaired or replaced items and made it especially easy (and inexpensive) for the owner to do this service himself. If you don't service Pinto yourself you still save when your Ford Dealer does it. The less time a professional mechanic spends on your car the less money you spend on it. Like we said—it's very simple to service.

Q. But suppose I've never worked on a car before?
A. Don't worry, Pinto comes with a do-it-yourself manual. It shows you how you can do most of the routine maintenance yourself.

Q. What have you done to make it easier for the owner to work on his Pinto?
A. We designed the front suspension to get those bulky spring towers out of the engine compartment, so there's plenty of room to work. And the hood can be opened all the way—vertically—so you can get at everything easier. You can even adjust the hand brake from inside the car.

Q. What else?
A. You can change the oil yourself. And the plugs, points, condenser. Replace the air, oil and fuel filters. Aim the headlights. Adjust the ignition timing. Set the idle speed and fuel mixture on the carburetor. The bumpers remove easily. And the front fenders unbolt, facilitating replacement or repair at less cost, less bother. Finally, please note this odd-shaped widget we made especially for Pinto. It's really an ingenious Do-It-Yourself Key. It's yours —free—with the car.

Q. Well, it certainly sounds easy to fix if anything goes wrong, but how do I know you've got the bugs out BEFORE I buy Pinto?
A. We didn't just test Pinto in our own laboratories and proving grounds. We ran prototypes all over the country to make sure Pinto would stand up under American driving conditions. We wanted extra rust protection, so key metal in the Pinto's body chassis is galvanized for better corrosion resistance—something no economy import does. And after a primer coat, we apply the final coat of paint with 60,000-volt electrostatic sprayers, so the paint gets everywhere it's supposed to, more evenly. And that acrylic enamel finish is so hard, so bright, it never needs waxing.

Free Do-It-Yourself Key.

Q. Tell me more.
A. Pinto's brake lines are a special rust-resistant alloy, with critical areas wrapped for extra protection. The strength of some of Pinto's parts makes ordinary little economy cars puny by comparison. Parts like the starter motor, ball joints, rear wheel bearings are heavy duty. And the transmission and differential are lubed for life. Craftsmanship? Pinto is the only American car with individually hand-matched transmission gears. And Pinto's optional automatic transmission is so tough we could use it in pickup trucks.

Q. Pinto sounds pretty good. It'd be a shame if you changed it. What are your plans for Pinto in the future?
A. To quote Henry Ford II: "The Model T lasted virtually unchanged for 19 years and with that in mind I felt we should try to accomplish the same objective with the Pinto. Any changes in the Pinto will be aimed at making it a better car, not just different looking."

Q. One last question. Where can I try one out to see if I like it?
A. Test-drive Pinto at any of the 5,800 Ford Dealers, coast to coast, Alaska and Hawaii. And if you have any more questions, they can answer them.

Long Walk To Show The Need

By JOAN LISETOR

Blisters hurt, so does hunger.

You can say it over and over again, according to two Marin girls who attended a conference sponsored by the American Freedom from Hunger Foundation, but it takes more to make people aware of hunger.

Colleen Fitzhenry of Kentfield, 18, and Annette Lareau of Fairfax, 17, are coordinating the Marin Walk Against Hunger to be held Sept. 20. At the conference held last month in St. Paul, Minn., the girls were versed on how to organize a walk.

"MORE THAN 180 walks have been held so far in the country and have raised more than one million dollars," says Colleen. "We learned so much at the conference because most of the 300 people there had already put on a walk."

"The walk has a dual purpose," explains Annette. "One purpose is to raise funds for hungry people at home and abroad. The other is to make the community aware of hunger by getting youth involved by action."

The walk, Colleen emphasizes, is not a demonstration but a positive mood and expression of spirit. Each walker will be sponsored, which is how funds are raised.

Although the walk is coordinated by youth, persons of all ages are asked to participate. The route of the walk covers 20 miles with check point stations every three miles. At the check point stations volunteers will verify that the walker has passed that point to satisfy his commitment to his sponsor. A sponsor pays his walker an amount per mile determined prior to the walk. There is no minimum or maximum amount, and a walker may have as many sponsors as he can get.

"THE CHECK points will have food, rest areas and bathroom facilities," says Colleen, "and walkers can quit any time. There will be cars, we call them poop-out pick-ups, travelling the route to pick up stragglers. Also we will have nurses at each check point, who will determine whether or not walkers can continue."

The walk will start at Redwood High School at 7 a.m. with a brief opening ceremony. The first check point is the Walk Against Hunger headquarters at the corner of Sir Francis Drake Blvd. and College Avenue in Kentfield, and others in order are Redwoods Presbyterian Church in Corte Madera, Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Church in Mill Valley, Tamalpais Hills Lutheran Church in Tiburon, Church of All Faiths in Corte Madera and back to Redwood High School.

The coordinators have obtained parade permits and permits to solicit funds from each city but had to alter the route because the City of Tiburon refused them permits, according to Colleen.

Committee members will participate in a preliminary walk Sunday to check the route and satisfy their sponsores' commitments so they will be free to do other work the day of the walk.

IN OTHER cities, the girls learned at the conference, people who lived along the routes left their hoses out so walkers could have a drink and also served them lemonade and cookies.

"It would help if they left garbage cans out," says Colleen. "We want to be sure there is no litter, and there will be monitors walking who will see to this and also make sure everyone stays in single file and the streets and sidewalks are not blocked."

After the walk it is the walkers' responsibility to go back to his sponsors, show the sponsors his check point card and collect the amount of pledge.

All of the money is sent to the American Freedom from Hunger Foundation in Washington, D.C. The foundation keeps 15 per cent for its own promotion use, and the remaining 85 per cent is divided evenly between a local project and a foreign project chosen by the walk's local coordinators.

The Marin project is the Marin County Supplementary Food Program, which pays the handling cost of government surplus food supplied to mothers and children with nutritional deficiencies. The money will be used to expand the pilot program.

FOR AN overseas project the walk committee has chosen a project to help equip a multi-purpose food factory in South Korea.

"People are surprised when they hear about the walk," says Colleen. "They think there are no hungry people in Marin."

The reason for sending 42 per cent of the funds out of the country, according to Annette, is because the quality and quantity of hunger is greater abroad.

If costs for printing, insurance, water, gas and electricity are not donated they will have to come out of the proceeds.

"We need walkers, so the committee will show films and speak at junior high and high schools and at our headquarters. We need volunteers the day of the walk to drive cars and man check points, and in addition to money we need food, salted celery is great, and bandages," says Colleen.

"It's hard to convince people of the need and also that it is not a Communist plot. The walk idea has been endorsed by many people including Governor Reagan and Senator Cranston. Hunger brings people of different political views together."

MOST OF the committee members will be off to college the week after the walk. Colleen is going to the University of California at Los Angeles, and Annette will be a student at U.C. at Santa Cruz. They are concerned about a follow up after people are aware of hunger and a continuing effort to help other people.

The walk is important, they say, because it raises money, but it is really a gimmick and it is the work that is done after that is more important. In other cities where walks have been held, they learned at the conference, groups dedicated to helping others have been formed.

They wonder, "Will it happen in Marin?"

U.C. Extension Course On Images Of Women

Images of women in literature, from Aristophanes to Dorothy Parker, will be studied in a new University of California Extension course scheduled this fall in San Francisco. The class will consider mythical, traditional and current roles of women and will study heroines of drama and fiction, legends and symbols of ancient cultures, works by women poets and images in painting and film. Gretchen E. Milne will teach the course on Tuesdays from 7 to 9:30 p.m., Sept. 22 through Dec. 8 at the U.C. Extension Center, 55 Laguna Street.

Another new extension course scheduled this fall is "The Second Time Around," a weekend program for the divorced or widowed. A husband and wife who are counselors will lead the program of lectures and group encounter sessions Oct. 16 to 18 at El Rancho Rodeo in Sonoma. They are Ben Ard Jr., professor of counseling at San Francisco State College, and Constance Ard, marriage, family and child counselor.

A career planning workshop for women titled "The Next Step" will be conducted by social psychologist Martha Sturm White on Thursdays, 9:30 a.m. to noon, Sept. 24 to Nov. 19 at the U.C. Extension Center in San Francisco. The program offers workshops and lectures on educational, volunteer and second career possibilities for women in the Bay Area. Special attention is given to women's changing roles, evaluating capabilities and goals, the educated

By JANE ROGERS

London Express Feature

LONDON — The evening out scene gets more complicated all the time. When you're invited to join a rather smart party for the theater, to go to the local hotel for a dinner dance, or simply to dine out with some friends who, you know, make quite an occasion of a meal, the choice of what exactly to wear looms large.

At one time it was so simple — a straightforward decision between a fussy little dress in crepe or something similar, probably black or brown, which you then jazzed up with some glitter if the evening was likely to be extra smart, played down without any jewelery if it was not. Or else it was obviously a grand occasion, and you had to wear something long.

Now, it seems, anything goes. The idea is to dress to express yourself — if you have the time to organize the wardrobe to go with it. And there's hardly a woman around who has not gnashed her teeth at the sight of the girl who turns up at a party, apparently very casually dressed, but looking so stunning that the men have eyes for nothing else.

YOU KNOW, and she knows that the apparently casual effect — the slightly windblown tumbling curls, the simple little silk dress that clings exactly where it should, the unmade up face that is in fact coated with several different glistening preparations — has taken her far more time to achieve than it took you to struggle into your rather fussy garment, run a comb through that set, boiled-look hairdo that the hairdresser dreamed up for you and tuck the kids into bed. But the men all think that the lady looks as delectable as that all the time, even in bed.

If your time and your budget are limited, unless you're a professional playgirl just how can you achieve that chic "I-just-slipped-something-on" look the easy way?

First, take a long hard look at your make-up. The heavily powdered made-up face is dated, even more so for day than for evening. Everyone can seem to have that casual beautifully cared-for skin if they use the right preparations. Anyone who is powdering her face right now is stuck in a groove five years back in fashion time.

Take another look at the foundation you use. Have you stuck to the same type for years? Then try another, lighter and slightly browner in its tone. Most women make the mistake of walking around with faces one shade lighter than their real skin tone, that's what makes them look so mask-like.

THEN YOUR rouge — if you are using a powdered one, switch quickly to the liquid or gleaming kind. Mary Quant and Estee Lauder, at two opposite ends of the price range, both make transparent rouges which can be smoothed high on the cheekbone for a natural look.

Then your eye-shadow, if that hasn't got a built in gleam of some kind, then you're out of date. A silvery sheen is the most natural and the most flattering, and does wonders for deepset eyes.

Try a pearly shiner, for instance. Finally an all-over high-lighter and a gleamer is a necessity now, especially for evening. If you like a tanned look then you can buy one in stick form or if you want something more pink and ladylike try an illumination make-up accent.

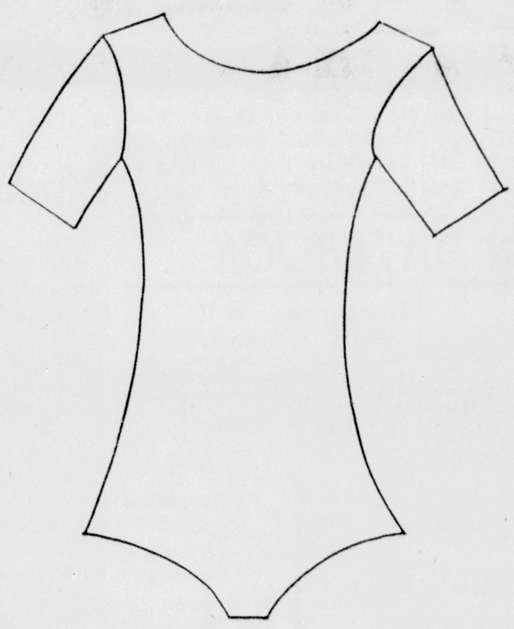

Pin-on ringlets of man-made hair that match your own are the easiest way of giving your-

CULOTTE SUIT FROM DIOR

The London collection for fall from Christian Dior includes this culotte suit designed by Sweden's Jorn Langberg. It is done in jungle gray suede and Borg fur fabric. (UPI Cablephoto)

This is a thing.

A thing is a thing to wear with anything. With pants. With shirts. With a suit. With a new midi skirt. With anything. Or just with you. Furthermore, a thing is a thing for the seventies. For the new instant way of dressing. Where inner things go out into the world. And where stereotyped ideas about clothes just aren't anymore. So have yourself a thing. With sleeves. Or without. With neckline high or low. Have it in any number of groovy colors. At our place. Where things are really happening.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

He's Great Looking But Not Exactly The Last Big Spender

DEAR HELEN:

The guy I'm dating is great looking, but not exactly the last of the big spenders. His idea of fun is feeding dry bread to the ducks in the park, or parking by the lake for two or three hours. (just necking and talking.)

Then when we come back, it's always "Sorry, but there isn't time to eat." So he takes me home starved. Then he cleans out the fridge.

He has a part time job and more money than most of the guys I know. But he sure hangs on to it where I'm concerned. Of course his car is different — nothing's too good. That Mustang has upholstery that won't quit, but we don't even sit in it at a drive-in — though sometimes he parks on a hill above it so we can watch the picture without sound — for free.

What bugs me is, the always has some perfectly good excuse for not going anywhere that costs money: Like the county fair is just too hick-townish or there isn't a decent movie in town or "Milk shakes are fattening." I'd be glad to go Dutch. No luck.

What do you do with a guy like that? — FASTING AGAINST MY WILL

DEAR FAMW:

I could do without him very easily. But if you can't, in spite of his pinch-penny ways, then maybe you should take along a sack lunch.

("And then give him the sack" adds our teen-age daughter.) — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I am a girl of 14. I dated a 16-year-old boy a couple of times and then he called me up and asked me to meet him that night at a school parking lot.

I was surpirsed to find five of his friends were with him when I got there. He hung back a little and they started to gang up on me. My boy friend got in a fist fight, but it didn't seem real. It was as if he knew what was going to happen or even planned it that way. They said they'd beat me if I didn't keep quiet, but I yelled anyway. I was scared to death.

Two policemen heard me screaming and the boys all scattered. I didn't tell them about the attack because I didn't want to cause trouble, and besides, I still can't help loving this guy, even though he might be mixed up with this gang.

How can I find out if he's clean? — W.S.S.

DEAR W.:

If this fellow scattered with the other hoodlums, he is probably as guility as they are. At the very least, he's a coward who runs with dangerous friends, and should be avoided like the plague. — H.

The most frightening thing about this letter, and all too many others like it, is that a girl feels she must confide in an advice columnist rather than her parents, whose duty is to protect her. Where did family communication go?

DEAR HELEN:

I am 13 and my cousin is almost 12. We were up in my room when my cousin asked me for a cigarette. I gave her one, but didn't smoke with her.

My Mother came in and saw her smoking, so she punished me. She thinks my cousin never smoked before, but I could tell her different except I'm no fink.

Why should I get grounded when my mother didn't see me smoking this time. (She'd caught me two weeks before though.) — CINDY

DEAR CINDY:

You're guilty on two counts: Being "in possession" (you don't have cigarettes in your room unless you intend to smoke them, right?) and "contributing" to the stupidity of an 11-year-old.

If the blow fits, bear it. — H.

The future bride is a graduate of College of Marin and is employed by Marin Telephone Answering Service.

John is the brother of Kevin and Mary Mahoney of San Rafael and Zoe-Ann Mahoney of San Jose. Mrs. Elizabeth Mahoney of Terra Linda is his grandmother. He attended College of Marin and is in the Army, stationed at Ft. Ord.

J.M. Sauter Will Wed Miss Hahn

Mr. and Mrs. Kurt L. Hahn of San Rafael have announced the engagement of their daughter, Bonnie R. Hahn, to John Michael Sauter, son of Arthur R. Sauter of San Rafael and the late Helen Sauter.

Bonnie, who is the sister of Mrs. Richard Flynn of Burbank and Renee Hahn of San Rafael, was graduated from Terra Linda High School and the College of Marin. She is now attending San Diego State College.

John is the brother of Karen Sauter of Oakland and Nora Sauter of San Rafael. He is the grandson of Mrs. Katherine Sauter of Mill Valley.

John was graduated from San Rafael High School, the College of Marin and Spartan School of Aeronautics. He is employed with the Stuart-Sauter Co. in South San Francisco.

Think Mirrors

CHICAGO (UPI) —For elegant decorating, think mirrors, suggests the Picture and Frame Institute. Mini-mirrors or large, a selection of at least two or three grouped together can bring light, verse and space to dull, isolated areas.

self a casual evening hairdo, even if your hair is short. Otherwise get your hairdresser to set it simply. Those giant lacquered cauliflower hairdoes perched on the back of your head give the impression you have spent all day trying to achieve the effect.

FINALLY YOUR dress. It must be casual in its appearance. Anything in stiff satin or heavily tailored rayon looks too contrived. This year crochet is the answer, whether it's real or fake.

There are some superb crochet-look dresses around, some of them in gleaming fibers like lurex that give exactly the right balance of casual chic, and they're so comfortable to wear too.

You can roll them up in the corner of a suitcase, and they'll spring out uncrumpled, ready for the evening ahead. Coming up now for next season are full length dresses in knitted wool lace that looks just like crochet, complete with a giant stole which you can wrap round you like a college scarf for an extra casual look or drape round you as if it was a fur.

For the girl who is wedded firmly to the trouser suit, there are some all-in-one catsuits with that crochet look that are washable and trimmed with fringes.

Falsie Curls

Now you see curls, now you don't. Carousel wigs is making these "falsies" for the head in synthetic stretch that can look either smooth and close to the face or else teased and flipped out into soft curls.

MAVIS KATHLEEN LEE

Mavis K. Lee Will Be Wed

The engagement of Mavis Kathleen Lee to William G. Troutman has been announced by her parents Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Lee of San Rafael. A graduate of San Rafael High School and the College of Marin, Kitsie, as she is called, attends Sonoma State College. She is the sister of Carol Jean Lee of San Rafael.

William, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy W. Troutman of San Rafael, is also a graduate of San Rafael High School and the College of Marin. He attends the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco and is serving hospital pharmacy internship. Robert W. Troutman of Sonoma and Michael M. Parker of Petaluma are his brothers.

The couple plan a Dec. 19 wedding.

"The Story of Diana . . .

The Making of a Terrorist"

A startling document of our times

This 5-part series tells the story of Diana Oughton, a rich girl who became a revolutionary . . . only to die at age 28 in the explosion of a "bomb factory" run by the radical Weathermen in Greenwich Village. Thoroughly documented, it adds up to a compelling story of a disturbing and continuing aspect of the American scene today . . . how intelligent young people often from affluent and cultured homes, become dedicated agents of destruction. Thought-provoking, disturbing - and well worth reading.

Elizabeth Henerlau, Arthur Butler Wed

Mrs. Elizabeth K. Hererlau of Novato and Arthur M. Butler, formerly of Cedar Grove, N.J., were married at the campfire circle at Samuel P. Taylor Park in Lagunitas on Friday.

The Rev. Karel Botermans of the Unitarian Church officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Beach of Upper Montclair, N.J. She was attended by her 9-year-old daughter, Heidi. She is also the mother of Gretchen, Paul, Meggan, Wendy and Eric Henerlau.

The bridegroom was attended by his son, Arthur N. Butler Jr. He is also the father of John Butler and the son of Mrs. Dorothea Little of New Hartford, N.Y.

Wide Variety Of Meats For Weekend Shoppers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service reports that shoppers this week will find a wide variety of meats offered. Good beef buys include several kinds of steaks and ground beef.

Hams highlight the pork offerings. Broiler-fryers will be the feature at most poultry counters.

Vegetable bins will have abundant supplies of potatoes, onions, cabbage, and tomatoes.

TOP FRUIT buys will be apples, bananas, canned fruit cocktail, and dried prunes.

The Department of the Interior reports best buys in fish are canned salmon, fish sticks and portions, and canned tuna.

Foods listed on USDA's plentiful foods list for September are canned peaches, canned applesauce, split peas, and peanuts and peanut products.

Now a closer look at food supplies in the West.

THERE ARE few significant price changes in West Coast markets this week, and consumers will do well to check advertised bargains to locate the most attractive buys.

Among fruits and vegetables in best supply are apples, bananas, cantaloups, casaba melons, watermelons, cabbage, carrots, onions and potatoes.

Broiler-fryers are slightly lower at wholesale in the Portland area, and butter has advanced slightly at San Francisco.

Hemline News

Mostly, the look was the long hemline in the Paris collections. But couture designers also are offering alternatives. The suits of Gabrielle Chanel, for instance, just cover the knees as they have for years. Pierre Balmain and Hubert de Givenchy pegged daytime clothes at two to three inches below the knee, depending on the height of the model. Christian Dior, Jeanne Lanvin and Jean Patou elected for the mid-calf length.

Cook-Holmquist Vows Said

Dianne Holmquist became the bride of Harold Cook Aug. 30 in a ceremony at Christ the Victor Lutheran Church in Fairfax.

Mrs. Diane Franco of Corte Madera was matron of honor, and the bride's sister, Patricia Perkins of Petaluma, was the bridesmaid.

Peter Akin of Fairfax was best man, and guests were ushered to their seats by Jim Coffey, Bill Gibson and Bruce Ayala.

Following a reception at the San Geronimo Country Club the couple left on a wedding trip to Southern California. They will live in San Rafael.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Perkins of Petaluma. She was graduated from high school in Anchorage, Alaska, and is employed by Pacific Telephone Co. in San Francisco.

Harold is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cook of San Anselmo and the brother of Cecil Sanders, also of San Anselmo. A graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School, he is employed by Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael.

Mrs. Douglas Abel Heads CHS Chapter

MRS. DOUGLAS ABEL

Mrs. Douglas H. Abel of San Rafael will lead the Tom Thumb Chapter of the Children's Home Society of California as its new president this year.

Mrs. Abel and her husband, who is a trust officer with Crocker-Citizens Bank in San Francisco, have been Marin residents for four years, and Mrs. Abel has been a member of the chapter that long.

She has previously served as its corresponding secretary and vice president.

She plans for the chapter's activities a fashion show in November and a games night and dinner in March. The chapter raises funds to aid the Children's Home Society's adoptive and counseling services.

Letitia Abel is also a member of the board of directors of the diocesan altar guild, Diocese of California, and vice president and past president of the Episcopal Churchwomen of the Church of the Nativity in Marinwood.

Born in Tacoma, Wash., Mrs. Abel attended the University of Washington and California State College at Los Angeles, majoring in music and elementary education. She lists her interests as sewing and tailoring, music, singing and "experimental cooking."

Other officers for the Tom Thumb Chapter are Mmes. R. Frank Wilson, vice president; Fred Salomon, membership chairman; James Brainerd, recording secretary; Louis Lombardi, corresponding secretary; Robert Stephens, treasurer; Douglas Scudamore, publicity chairman and Edwin Ela, council representative.

'Dolly' Now The Queen Of Broadway

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ethel Merman climbed the aluminum stepladder at 43rd Street and Broadway, pointed to the street sign that now read "Hello Dolly Square," and the photographers took their pictures.

Before the yellow and black cardboard was taped over it, the sign read "Times Sq." but Wednesday for the theater crowd it was Dolly Square and Miss Merman, toute en plumage, was Dolly and "Hello, Dolly!" had never begun and would never end.

Wednesday's matinee was the 2,718th performance for "America's Favorite Musical." With that, it became the longest running musical in the history of Broadway, passing "My Fair Lady."

To celebrate, producer David Merrick pulled all the stops and even had a long-distance runner jog all the way from Yonkers, N.Y. where much of the show is set, to the St. James theatre on West 44th Street off Broadway where it is staged.

Everything was timed for Hirsch, at a leisurely pace of 14.2 miles in just over 2 1-2 hours, to come jogging up to the St. James at 1:40 p.m., 20 minutes before showtime.

But Hirsch, who ran the 26-mile, 365 yard Boston Marathon last year in less than 3 hours, got to Manhattan 45 minutes early, he said, so he dropped into Central Park for an extra four miles and trotted by the marquee at 1:38 p.m.

After he posed, wet more with rain than with perspiration, with Miss Merman, Merrick and director Gower Champion in front of a little plaque by the door commemorating the record, he doused the torch in a coffee can and disappeared.

When the curtain went up Dolly stopped the show before she ever said a line.

The Queen (Eliza Doolittle is dead. Long live the Queen (Dolly Levi).

At the finale, out rolled a huge birthday cake-looking device on wheels — slanted, so the audience, and the cameras, could read the red frosting message and see the candles forming "2,718."

Merrick and Champion and music and lyrics writer Jerry Herman and book author Michael Stewart came out and joined the cast

Ross Valley Players Set 'Wait Until Dark' Opener

The Ross Valley Players will present "Wait Until Dark," a mystery drama by Frederick Knott, on Friday and Saturday nights, Sept. 18 through Oct. 10 at the Barn at the Marin Art and Garden Center.

The play centers on three con men who attempt to regain a heroin filled doll, which was smuggled into the country from Canada by an unsuspecting Greenwich Village photographer and his blind wife.

Featured in the play will be Sue Glausen, Mike Lopez, Hugh Leppo, Barry Hicol, Dea Belrose, Bill Derveniotes, Tom Hendricks and Scott Burton. The play is directed by Manny Miro.

Five of the eight performances will be performed as fund raising events. They include the Peter Behr for State Senator Campaign on Sept. 18, the Marin Symphony Guild on Sept. 25, Centerpoint on Sept. 26, Marin Star Club on Oct. 3 and the Joe Forrest for Assembly Campaign on Oct. 9.

Tickets for all performances are available through the Ross Valley Players, P.O. Box 626, Ross.

MUSIC, ART, DRAMA

'Hair' Now Into Its Second Year

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

"HAIR," the American tribal love rock musical, passed a milestone a couple of weeks back in San Francisco. The occasion, its first birthday in the Bay city.

From all indications, the musical of the now generation will be around for a lot longer. Shifted from the Geary in early spring, the musical is still holding sway at the Orpheum Theater.

Turning to a more classical nature, the San Francisco Opera season opener is only 10 days away. The company will open its 48th season in the War Memorial Opera House Friday, Sept. 18, with Puccini's "Tosca," with Regina Crespin.

In connection with the opera season, Jan Popper, opera scholar and director, will give eight Monday evening lectures at the University of California Extension Center on Laguna Street in San Francisco beginning Monday on the 13-program series. Details can be obtained through the U.C. Extension office.

DRAMA

Ticket sales open Monday for the world permiere engagement of Dame Judith Anderson's "Hamlet," which will open at the Geary Theater Sept. 28. The production is under direction of William Ball, general director of the American Conservatory Theater in association with Paul Gregory. The three-week San Francisco engagement will mark the beginning of a 26-week nationwide tour.

Other attractions:

Survey Shows Drink Prices On Increase

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Prices per drink are increasing in many San Francisco bars and the cost of wine by the bottle may be expected to jump also.

A survey of taverns Wednesday by the San Francisco Chronicle showed most drinks up by a nickle a nip because of the boosted prices of bottles and pay increases won by employes.

Pair Of Murder Suspects Nabbed

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (UPI) —Two murder suspects who escaped from the Fort Ord stockade have been arrested here, according to the FBI.

They were identified as Sgt. Thomas G. Stidham, 22, and Sgt. John E. Foppiano, 21, who broke out Aug. 17. Mrs. Dolores Stidham, 21, was also arrested at Monterey, Calif.

The FBI arrested the men on kidnapping charges, however, since they allegedly took Eustace W. Brooks of Prescott, Ariz., from Hollister, Calif., to Nampa, Idaho, after their escape before releasing him unharmed.

The FBI men said the men had been in Great Falls for the past three weeks.

Study Tour Of Mexico Slated

Dominican College will sponsor a winter study tour through Mexico from Dec. 28 to Jan. 14 to study pre-Columbian and colonial art.

An Oct. 10 deadline has been set for registration for the tour which will be headed by Sister M. Joanne, an artist and sculptor on the college staff.

12th Petaluma Art-In-The-Park

Painting, pottery, weaving and wood cuts will be among arts demonstrated Saturday and Sunday at the Petaluma Art Association's 12th Annual Art-in-the-Park.

Artists will be on hand to present their media from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days in Walnut Park on Petaluma Boulevard South.

New in the show this year will be the opportunity for children to try clay sculpturing and drawing.

Opera Workshop Opens Auditions

Auditions for the Sonoma State College Opera Workshop's production of "Hansel and Gretel" will be held at 7 p.m. next Tuesday in Room 101 of Ives Hall of Music on the college's Rohnert Park campus.

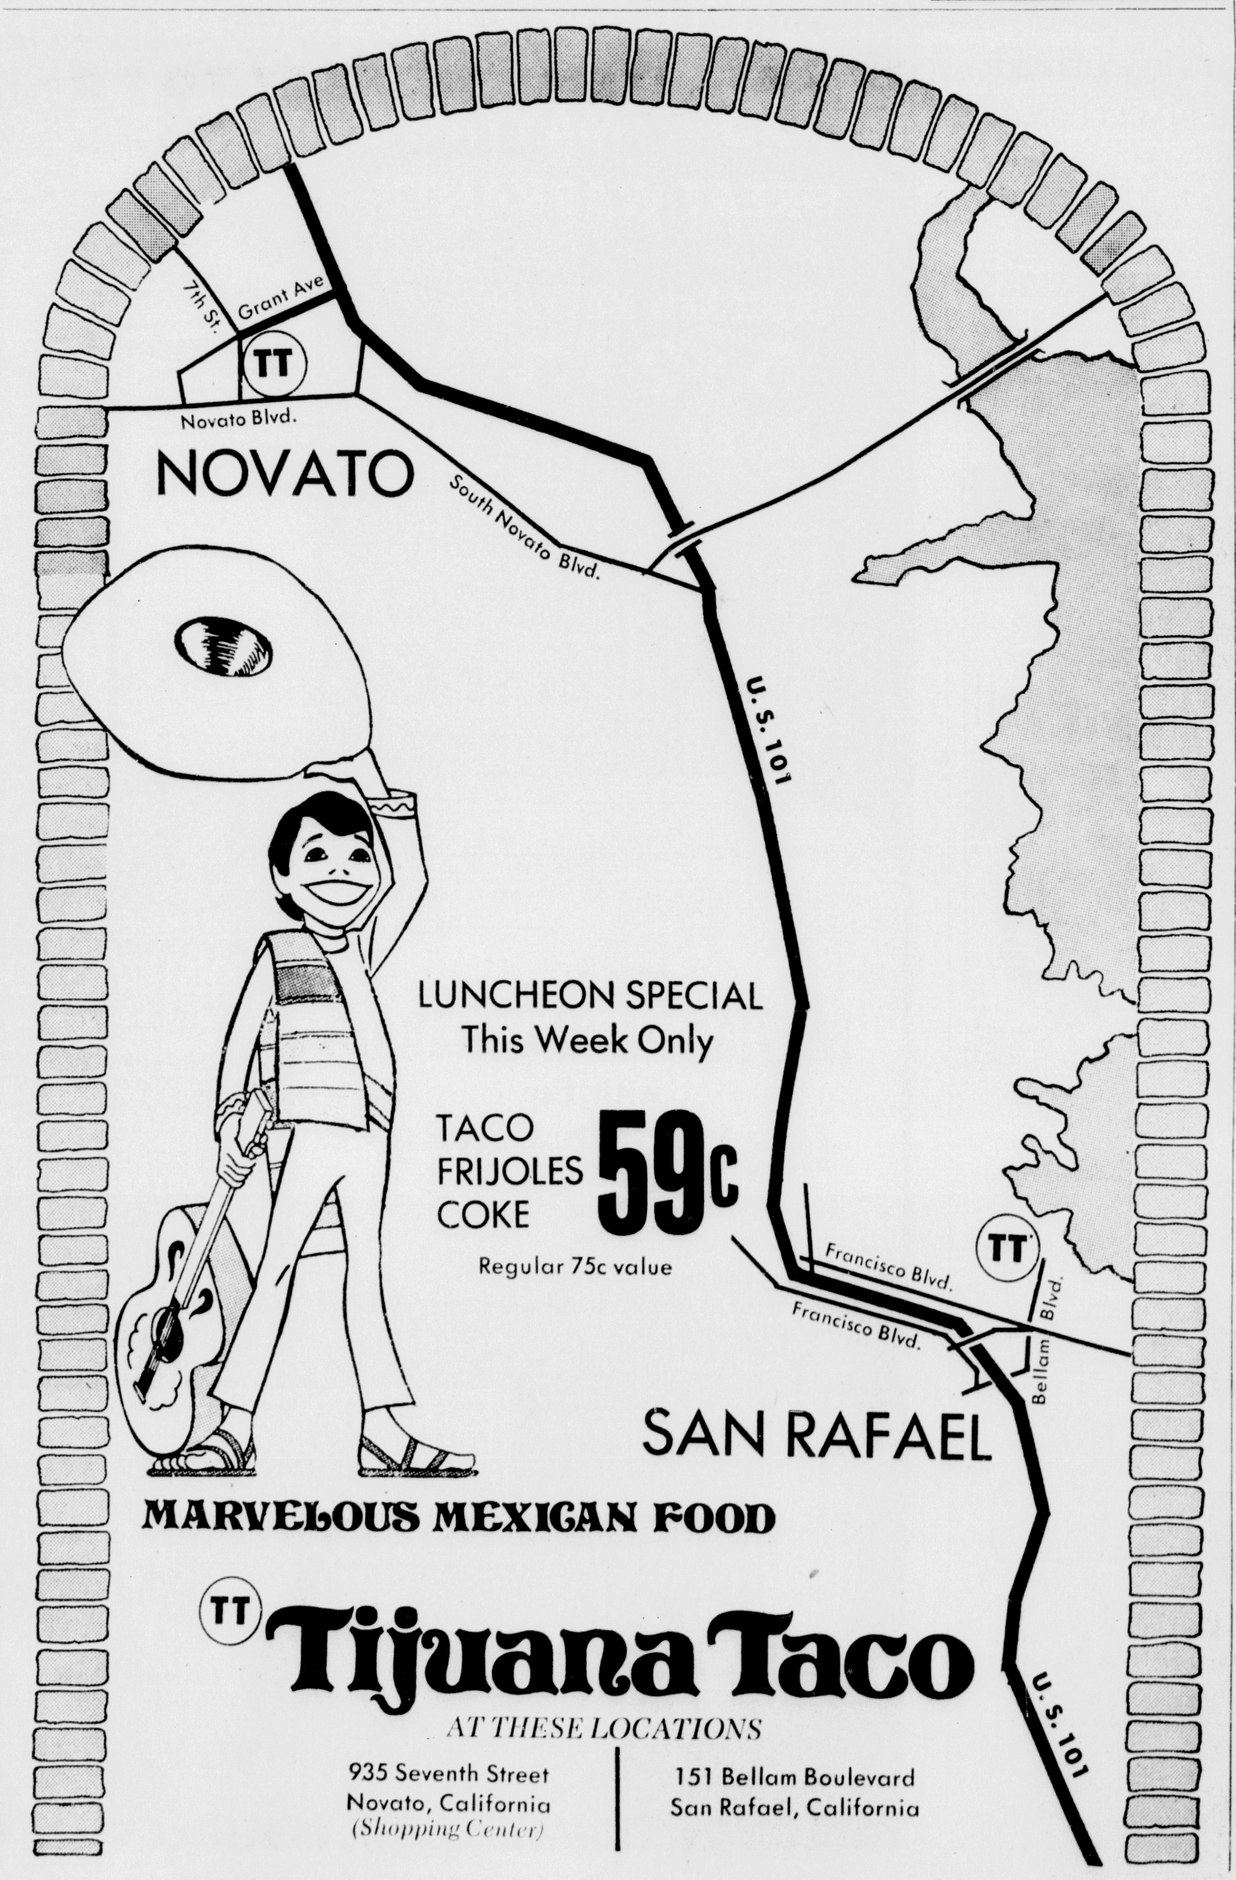

The opera, directed by Dr. Peggy Donovan-Jeffry, will be presented Dec. 16-19.

Hobby Spans Age Gap

By WAYNE RATLIFF

What do an 11-year-old Novato boy, who doesn't like horses because they bite, and a 55-year-old woman probation officer talk about when they meet?

Flying — what else?

Gertrude Cherry, of 296 Butterfield Road, San Anselmo, a grandmother who took up flying after she turned 50, made her first aerobatic solo flight on her 55th birthday last month.

Cameron Conacher, a sixth-grader at Olive School who doesn't share his classmates' interest in horses, is almost ready to solo after logging about a dozen flying hours — except that he has to wait until he's 16 because of federal regulations — according to John R. Hess of Spectrum Air, flight instructor for both.

Cameron is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Conacher of 180 Atherton Avenue, Novato.

Mrs. Cherry is a Marin County adult probation officer and the wife of Fred Cherry, owner of Fred Cherry's Wine Discovery Shop in San Anselmo. She has four children aged 19 to 27 and a 5-month old granddaughter.

"Somebody turned my husband on to flying first," she said, "We started out together at first. He didn't like it, but I'm hooked. There's no way I could quit flying."

Mrs. Cherry said she couldn't really explain why she loves flying, and especially aerobatics. "I don't get philosophical about it; I just feel."

She had thought about learning to fly during World War II, Mrs. Cherry said, but was unable to start because of her children.

She didn't think much about flying after the war until her husband interested her in it about four years ago, she said.

"I wish I had thought about it. There were all those years wasted when I could have afforded it and had all sorts of time," she sighed wistfully.

Mrs. Cherry, who has logged around 285 flight hours and earned her private license in May 1968, classified herself as a slow student.

Her first flight instructor gave up after a few weeks, she said. "He told me to forget about it, take up golf or something."

Although her husband no longer flies with her, she said, "He thinks it's wonderful; he's very proud of me and happy — the kids think I'm crazy."

Her 27-year-old married daughter, Ruth Coman, and sons Charles, 25, and Joe, 22, have flown with her, she said; but her youngest son, John refuses.

"He just grins and says 'no,'" she said, "I don't really know why. He's working at the Grand Canyon this fall. I'm going to fly down and see him . . .maybe I can get him."

Mrs. Cherry plans to continue learning aerobatics and work on the side to get a commercial license, she said. "I'd go right up to getting an instructor's license, but I don't want to sit there while somebody else flies."

Young Cameron, who got his first flying lesson as a Christmas present last year, has to sit on two pillows with another one behind him to reach the controls of the Cessna 150, his instructor said, but that doesn't keep him from being an unusually quick student.

He makes his own preflight checks, does his own radio communications, knows traffic patterns and landing and departure procedures and has even made unassisted landings in crosswinds and done spins, Hess said.

He has also had training in short field and soft-field landings (landings on grass or dirt runways), Hess said.

Hess characterized Cameron as a "very cooperative student," and said, "I could tell right from the first lesson that he was really interested. From the questions that he asked and things he knew I could tell that he'd done some reading."

Cameron's father said that after his first lesson "Cam was so pleased and excited that we just kept going, letting him have a lesson every now and then. I thought it would give him a confidence that would stay with him throughout his life. Some of his chums are practically cowpunchers on horses and Cam wasn't, so I thought this would be a good idea for him."

Cameron has two sisters, Sharil, 7, and Susan, 9, both interested in flying.

"Susan had one flying lesson a few months ago and she came back all smiles," said Cameron's father, "Cam is like that, too. The day before a flying lesson he's like an angel, but afterwards he's back to fighting with his sisters again."

Conacher does not fly but did log about 10 hours in a seaplane 15 years ago, he said.

Cameron said he likes cross-country and instrument flying best.

He has no particular plans for the future, he said, because he has to wait until he is 16 to solo and until he is 17 to get a private pilot's license to carry passengers.

FLIGHT PLANNING — Cameron Conacher, a flying sixth-grader at Olive School, Novato, and Gertrude Cherry, a Marin County adult probation officer, confer on flight plans. Mrs. Cherry, a licensed pilot for two years, recently took up an aerobatics course because she was afraid of air turbulence and made her first aerobatic solo on her 55th birthday. Innovation Held Sausalito School Key

(Third of four articles on candidates for the Sausalito School District board)

Because of the depth and complexity of problems in the Sausalito School District, Robert A. Thompson, a candidate for the school board, believes run-of-the-mill, everyday solutions may not be effective. (See a candidates' night story, page 32)

If elected, Thompson would like to thy "innovative approaches" to improving education in the district. He expressed interest in the possibility of hiring a private educational corporation to administer the Sausalito school system until significant academic progress is achieved.

Several such corporations exist in this country, according to Thompson, who said the firms will come into a district with a guarantee (on a money back basis) that at the end of three years youngsters in the schools will equal or exceed scholastic averages set by the National Education Association.

He said such a program is currently operating in Geary, Ind., a multi-ethnic district with many problems similar to those in Sausalito.

He explained a corporation would study the problems carefully, then decide what programs are needed. Existing faculty and administration would be retained and used by the firm, while the school board would act as "caretakers for the program."

In Geary, the corporation charged $880 per year per student, he said, or the cost the district was already paying to educate each youngster. Money for the program would be no problem in Sausalito, he feels, since the cost per child per year is approximately $1,900.

"This is certainly the type of avenue which should be immediately and exhaustively explored as a possible solution to our problems," the 39-year-old attorney said. "It might provide the means for taking politics out of the district and making education the obvious and immediate goal."

According to Thompson, those who would benefit most from this kind of program would be youngsters who are below average in their academic achievement. "They would get the biggest boost, the children everyone talks about, those who have not yet been reached by programs in our district," he explained.

The candidate feels his 17 years experience in practicing law and engaging in various kinds of businesses would be a valuable asset to the school board. As an attorney for the Interstate Commerce Commission, the candidate said he became "thoroughly familiar" with administrative procedures. In addition, the job gave him the experience of working with many kinds of people, including special interest groups.

The work also involved cost accounting, he said, and the task of proving that budgets of many millions of dollars would work — often furnishing proof to adverse groups.

"I think some of Sausalito's problems are business-oriented problems," he said. "The administration and the board have often reflected an almost incredible naivete in business procedures and administration."

He believes his long experience in trial law and litigation, which included civil liberties work in the 1950s, has given him "a certain amount of ability to sift the facts and come up with a program people can understand."

Thompson expressed serious concern for the future of the Sausalito School District if present trends — and decreasing enrollment — continue. Unless parents can be convinced their children will receive a safe, enlightened education in Sausalito," the exodus will continue," he said.

If this happens, Thompson said the "overwhelming number of students left in the schools will be black youngsters from Marin City. These children will find themselves in a situation of defacto segregation which cannot be allowed to continue under present interpretations of the Constitution," he added. And this would result in involuntary busing of black youngsters to schools all over the county.

In addition, if conditions do not improve, Thompson fears voters will reject the continuation of a tax base for the district in the 1972 tax election required by law. "Then the district will be bankrupt and the county will take over and Sausalito children will be sent to schools throughout the county," according to the candidate.

He believes the district is suffering from "the aftermath of a grandiose sociological scheme foisted off on the people of Marin City and Sausalito under the name of 'integration,' which we already had in the district."

According to Thompson the district, "trying to acquire a racial balance in teaching and administrative staff, in some instances let race overwhelm professional considerations. The racial balance began to be more important than acquisition of top professionals," he said.

Thompson believes all children in the district have been "receiving a ghettoized education under the heading of 'education relevant to a black child.'"

He feels "some of the parents and many of the black personnel will settle for nothing less than an education tailor-made to their needs, whether or not it will provide all children with the tools" necessary for advancement in life.

"People who are determined to give every child in the district a competitive education are frustrated by this militant group which views every act and gesture with deepest suspicion and distrust," he added.

Thompson said the district cannot be changed for the better "unless you convince these black militants their approach has been unsuccessful or, failing that, remove them for positions of influence."

As for bringing people in both communities together, Thompson is convinced "people are going to come together if they have something positive to work on. If they have a school district they are proud of, most of the communication problems will evaporate," he commented.

The candidate admitted he does not feel he would be able to work with either Robert E. Fisher Jr. or Royce McLemore, the two Marin City candidates for the school board. "I don't think they are genuinely qualified or understand what the problems are," he said.

Approval On Purchase Of Site For Schools

Purchase of a 63-acre site for new Petaluma junior and senior high schools has been approved by the Petaluma Board of Education.

The board authorized the purchase, following review by the Sonoma County Counsel's office, of three parcels for a total of $435,029 at a meeting Tuesday night.

Board secretary Marion Beltzner said a combined junior and senior high school building for 1,100 students should be ready to open on the site at Ely and Casa Grande roads in the fall of 1972.

As enrollment increases, a second building will be constructed on the site, and the two schools will be split.

The Petaluma Board of Education also:

NOTE — Authorized sale of $500,000 worth of tax anticipation notes to tide the district over until tax revenues are received in December.

CONTRACT — Authorized staff to renew a contract with the Sonoma-Marin Fair board for use of the fairgrounds as a site for San Antonio High School, but ordered an investigation of other possible sites for the portable school buildings at a cost less than the annual $6,000 paid for the fairgrounds site.

Marin Art Auction To Offer Many Crafts

Paintings, sculpture, jewelry and other crafts will be offered Sept. 20 when the Marin Society of Artists holds its 11th annual double auction at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

The silent bidding will begin at 1 p.m. and the vocal bidding at 2 p.m. Auction items may be previewed any day from 1 to 4 p.m. beginning tomorrow at the center.

Man Arraigned In Break-In

Steven Gregory Samochim, 33, of San Rafael has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of attempted burglary stemming from his reported try to break into a doctor's office Monday.

Dr. Arnold A. Nutting told police he was working in his office about noon on Labor Day when he heard someone trying to break a glass door. He said he recognized Samochim, who was arrested later at his home at 1539 Lincoln Avenue.

He was to return to court today to enter a plea to the charge.

East Grant Plan Passes With Changes

The Novato Planning Commission last night approved, with several changes, the Sedway-Cooke plan for downtown Novato and program's recommendations for the East Grant subarea.

The Novato City Council will act on the commission's recommendations in a special meeting at 7 p.m. today.

Recommended revisions include retaining and allowing expansion of, on a use perbit basis, heavy commercial and light industrial land uses north of Scown Lane and east of Machin Avenue.

The proposed construction of a Pizza Hut restaurant at the corner of Machin and De Long avenues was approved, and use of the remaining land on the west side of Machin between De Long and Grant avenues was set to be reevaluated at Monday's commission meeting.

The proposed vacation by the city of Sweetser Avenue rights-of-way between Machin and a proposed extension of Reichert Avenue was rejected by the commission, which felt that the street would be necessary for traffic circulation in the area of the proposed expansion of city offices.

The commission also recommended that Grant Avenue between Redwood Highway and Machin not be designated as a mall at this time as recommended in the Sedway and Cooke report.

Island Trip To Be First Audubon Event

The Marin Audubon Society will begin its fall activities Sept. 27 at 9:45 a.m. when members will meet at the Angel Island Ferry in Tiburon for a field trip to the island.

Other fall activities include a speech Oct. 2 at 8 p.m. at Ross School by Dr. David Mason, biologist and assistant professor of civil engineering at the University of California at Berkeley; a hike Oct. 5 at 10 a.m. led by Elizabeth Terwilliger of Mill Valley; an Oct. 12 canoe trip to Brooks Island, Richmond; an Oct. 17 pelagic trip to the Farallon Islands; an Oct. 19 bicycle trip to San Francisco and on Oct. 26 swan boat ride on Richardson Bay.

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE
By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Leading Honor In First Finesse May Keep You Out Of River

Probably every experienced bridge player has heard that 10,000 Englishmen have drowned themselves in the Thames because they forgot to draw trumps; and that twice as many Americans have tossed themselves into the Mississippi because they drew trumps too soon. It's time you heard about all the Canadians who have come to a damp end in the St. Lawrence because they led the wrong trump.

DOWN ONE

It happened in Canada a long time ago. West led the jack of spades, and the defenders rattled off three spade tricks before you could say Manitoba. Then East led the four of clubs to dummy's ace.

Declarer, an experienced but not expert player, led a low trump from dummy and won a finesse with the queen. West discarded a club, and South then realized that East still had the K-10 of trumps behind dummy's jack and was therefore sure to win a trump trick. Down one.

NO COST

It couldn't cost South anything to lead the jack of hearts from dummy on the first round of trumps. In the actual hand, of course, East would have to cover with the king to prevent the jack from winning the first trump trick. South would win with the ace and would discover the bad break when West failed to follow suit. South could then return to dummy by ruffing the third round of clubs and could then lead another trump to finesse through East's ten.

If East didn't have the king of hearts, dummy's jack would lose to the king, but South would lost only the one trump trick he was always doomed to lose.

Remember this position when you have 10 trumps in the combined hands. Lead an honor to begin the first finesse so that you will be in position to take a second finesse if all of the missing trumps are in favorable position. This advice may keep you out of the nearest river.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - J 10 9
♥ - None
♦ - J 7 6 3 2
♣ - Q 10 8 7 3

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

You are not happy about the heart suit, but it is even more dangerous to bid than to pass. You may run if partner is doubled at one heart, but don't run before you're in trouble.

ALMANAC

Today is Thursday, Sept. 10, the 253rd day of 1970 with 112 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1889 Empress Elizabeth of Austria-Hungary was assassinated by an anarchist.

Man Injured In Minor Wreck

An 18-year-old San Rafael man received minor injuries in a three-car accident at 11 p.m. Tuesday at Third and D Streets, San Rafael, police reported yesterday.

Robert Joseph Morris of 705 Kerner Boulevard, Apt. 8, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a cut on his lower back and multiple bruises.

Morris's car, northbound on D Street, collided with cars driven west on Third Street by Albert Blum, 64, of 95 Bothin Road, Fairfax and Michael David Barbera, 16, of 300 Oak Crest Road, San Rafael.

Police had no details on the accident.

Volunteer Program Aiding Washington State Felons

SEATTLE — "Stinking-thinking" and long-lasting friendships are helping "hunks of junk" and "nobodies" stay out of trouble in Washington State.

The combination is part of a program in which craftsmen and businessmen are volunteering to help Washington felons find jobs and become useful members of society.

The program, called Job Therapy, Inc., and Man to Man, is aimed at the convict who, officials say, sometimes regards himself as a "hunk of junk" or a "nobody."

But, some of the "toughest prisoners" in Washington State have been helped by the group, prison officials say.

It's all based on a system developed in the Netherlands in which volunteers help rehabilitate criminals. Simmons says the system involves eliminating "do-gooders" whose only aim is to make themselves feel good.

"We want persons who will realize that this is a permanent relationship, not a counselor-client situation," says Simmons. He calls the volunteers "job advisors" and their prisoner friends "clients."

"We encourage our job advisors to bring their families when they visit their clients inside prisons," he said. Advisors also must be willing to help find work for a client after he is released from prison.

A job, program officials say, results in having "the client upgrade his self-esteem and ambition and gain the respect of family and friends."

Washington State Appellate Court Judge Robert Utter, president of the 4-year-old group, calls all other programs "sheer failures" because of what he sees as their not stressing the importance of helping an exconvict find a job.

Utter says that out of 450 prisoners who have participated in the program, 65 per cent so far have remained outside jail.

In Washington State, he said, only 15 per cent of the men released from prisons normally remain outside. The other 85 per cent become lawbreakers again.

"Stinking-thinking," meaning recognizing one's faults instead of blaming others, is another vital part of the program, Simmons says.

Once a "client realizes the fact that he's in jail because he's either lazy or irresponsible, he stands a better chance of staying outside bars," he says.

But there are failures. One Job Therapy official said a client robbed a grocery store on the same day he was released from prison.

"He had gone to prison for holding up the same grocery store and apparently wanted to get even because of his being convicted," the official said.

The job advisor had stopped briefly near the grocery store to run an errand and left his client inside the car when the second robbery occurred.

The Washington State Division of Vocational Rehabilitation and The Department of Institutions have praised the program and have cooperated in matching job advisors with clients.

Prisoners participate in the program by volunteering for Job Therapy.

The group has asked the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration of the Department of Justice for a $211,700 demonstration grant to underwrite part of one year's operating expenses for the program.

Simmons says Job Therapy's staff of about 10 persons has had to operate on private donations since its formation.

One of Simmons' pet projects is to establish some type of air transportation that would ferry advisers from the Seattle area to the Washington State Penitentiary in Walla Walla, Wash.

The prison is located in central Washington, making it difficult for advisors from Seattle, 263 miles away, to visit their clients.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Chronic Diarrhea Causes Loss Of Vital Chemicals, Fluids

Van Dellen

Diarrhea is a common intestinal disturbance. It is a frequent manifestation of food poisoning, and how long it takes to develop after tainted food is eaten offers a clue as to the causative microbes. Most attacks are not serious, but when diarrhea persists, the loss of fluids and vital chemicals often leads to dehydration and prostration.

Certain mineral salts and most of the liquids in the intestinal contents are absorbed by the first part of the large intestine. But when diarrhea is present, digesting foods pass through the intestine so rapidly there is no time for absorption. As a result, the water content of the residue increases, causing profuse, semifluid stools.

MOST ACUTE diarrheal attacks last from 12 hours to three days. Tea and toast followed by a bland diet and frequent sips of tap or barley water supply nourishment and replace the liquids that are lost. More than 75 products lessen diarrhea. Among these are paregoric, Kaopectate and Lumotil. When an infection is responsible, one of the antibiotics or a poorly absorbed sulfonamide is helpful.

CHRONIC DIARRHEA lasts longer and determining the cause requires a thorough study, including a proctoscopic examination, barium enema, and laboratory tests of the stools. The condition may stem from a bacterial infection of the intestinal tract, such as amebiasis (and other types of dysentery), typhoid fever, and cholera. In addition, chronic diarrhea may stem from organic and nervous forms of colitis and ileitis. Enzyme deficiences that cause malabsorption of carbohydrates or fats may do the same. Lack of hydrochloric acid in the stomach, for example, may induce morning diarrhea.

Chronic diarrhea also upsets the body concentration of sodium, potassium, proteins, iron and many vitamins. These must be replaced to avoid loss of appetite, vomiting, weakness, and loss of muscle tone. A change of bowel habits from normal to loose stools may be an early sign of cancer of the bowel.

INFECTED FINGER

Y.C.A. writes: A runaround near one fingernail was not helped by lancing. Have you any suggestions on further treatment?

REPLY

See your physician. Soaking the hand in hot water or applying moist dressings and heat may bring the infection under control. Our leaflet on this problem can be obtained by sending stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

ANIMALS AND RABIES

L.T. writes: If a rabid animal drinks from a container, will other animals which drink from this container also develop rabies?

REPLY

ONE OVARY

P.V. writes: The doctor says my right ovary must go. Will this prevent me from getting pregnant?

REPLY

Conception is possible if the remaining ovary is healthy and the pelvic organs are normal.

RODENT ULCER

REPLY

A type of skin cancer (epithelioma) in which the edges of the lesion look as though they had been gnawed by a rodent.

A NEW GROWTH

A reader writes: What is a neoplasm?

REPLY

Neo means new and plasm refers to any abnormal growth, such as a tumor.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Time Limit On Estate Claims

After a long illness, Mrs. Hunt, a widow died and her estate went equally to her children. The court named her eldest son executor of the estate. After he petitioned to probate the will, he published a notice to creditors to file claims.

Eleven months later a local clinic filed a $7,500 bill, stating merely that it had rendered extensive service while Mrs. Hunt was at a hospital, but it gave no dates nor listed the services.

When the son rejected the Under the law any crtditor's claim must be filed and verified within four months of the notice to creditors. Creditors must attach an affidavit stating that the amount is due and that no payments or offsets to the claim have been made. A late verification invalidates the claim itself although it had been filed in time.

The executor cannot waive a claim's timeliness. If he wants to pay the claim himself he may but not with the estate's money.

After a claim is filed, the executor may pay it, reject it, or compromise it. If he rejects, creditor can then sue the estate within three months or forfeit his claim. Rather than go to court with a suit over a disputed claim, the executor may have a referee or some impartial person review it and report to the court.

The executor can also compromise and settle claims and hire accountants, lawyers, and others to help him.

As an officer of the court, the executor must account to the court for all the estate's assets. Without a court order he cannot distribute the assets of an estate.

The question is often asked why the probate laws are so strict on formalities. For one thing, it is in the interest of everybody that there be no undue delay in settling an estate. The courts make every effort to close the case promptly, and the law gives no one power to grant exceptions once reasonable notice has been given through publication.

The doctrine of Papal Infallibility was approved by the Ecumenical Council in Rome July 18, 1870.

TELEVISION IN REVIEW

Carol Channing's Latest Exposure Somewhat Better

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Miss Carol Channing made yet another stab at television Wednesday night. She appeared in her fifth special, and on her third network, in an hour of comedy from London with Art Carney, Fred MacMurray, Sir John Gielgud and Sir Ralph Richardson.

This hour was courtesy of NBC-TV, and had the asset of toning down her broad stage mannerisms somewhat, at least more than in her past video specials. In addition, her four notable leading men, who aided her British-themed skits, took up much of the limelight themselves, thereby further minimizing her usual larger-than-life style, which is naturally anti-television in its technique. She really ought to study Marshall McLuhan's communications theories.

Miss Channing has, of course, been a tremendous success on the stage and in clubs, where her enormous projection of personality and style is valuable. But television is something else, and those huge assets of the stage often seem gross and unnatural in this intimate home medium.

Miss Channing is an acquired taste, like artichokes or Greek brandy, which also can overwhelm you if the doses are not carefully controlled. In a medium, television, where reality registers best, she projects the image of a rather distant, unreal caricature. I admire Miss Channing on the stage, but I confess that her wide-eyed cuteness and gravelly voice on her various video specials have almost made me climb the nearest walls.

The latest Channing program did attempt to achieve a sort of madcap sophisticated tone, and, oddly, this succeeded most of all in sequences that featured not a single one of the stars—but, rather, an unlikely, frantic, female string quartet that bridged the skits. Shades of Billy Wilder's wild, schmaltzy musicians in "Love in the Afternoon." But that, of course, had Gary Cooper and Audrey Hepburn.

Hearing Date Set On Four Drug Counts

A preliminary hearing has been set for next Tuesday in Marin Municipal Court for Richard Arlen Sparrow, 32, of San Quentin Village, who faces four felony charges of possessing heroin and methamphetamine and trying to bring them into the prison.

Sparrow was arrested in August on a warrant which had been issued following an incident at the prison gate Feb. 14. Guards said he threw a hypodermic kit into the gate office.

Former POW Looks Toward Mended Life

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Navy Lt. Robert F. Frishman's right arm will never again be as long as his left, but within a few weeks he may have a right elbow for the first time since late 1967 when he became a prisoner of war in North Vietnam.

Frishman is one of only nine prisoners of war released by the North Vietnamese. He describes his imprisonment as "21 months of pain, degradation and torture" in a rat-infested "hell hole."

The surface-to-air missile that shot down Frishman's Phantom jet Oct. 24, 1967, over the Phuc Yen airfield outside Hanoi also shattered the Navy pilot's right arm. It was Frishman's 125th combat mission.

He managed to eject safely from his crippled jet, as did his radar intercept officer, Earl H. Lewis Jr. They were captured almost immediately after they hit the ground.

Taken to a prisoner of war camp in Hanoi, Frishman was questioned and threatened with execution until he passed out. The next day, a North Vietnamese surgeon operated on his arm.

"When they removed the cast from my arm a few weeks later, I found I no longer had an elbow," Frishman said. The surgeon had removed the shattered section of bone in his arm and fused together what was left, leaving a red, unsutured scar, and Frishman's arm was stiff. It took six months to heal.

The North Vietnamese released Frishman in 1969 to a peace delegation from the United States. He arrived in New York Aug. 7, and the Navy immediately placed him in the U.S. Naval Hospital in Bethesda, Md.

Early this year he was moved to the Navy hospital at San Diego, Calif. his home state. Surgeons there implanted an artificial elbow joint in February, but the results were discouraging.

"It just flat didn't work," a Navy spokesman said. "They went back in and found that the device had broken." That second operation took place in June.

Much of his time has been spent, however, trying to make sure that other Americans do not forget those remaining prisoners of war. Friends in the Navy have helped by typing many articles and speeches about his harrowing experiences.

Late this month Navy doctors plan to try implanting another artificial elbow in Frishman's arm.

"If this works," a spokesman said, "he will be able to bend his arm again. But the right arm will always be shorter than the left one, and he will always be limited in his use of it."

The English lost less than 100 men in the battle with the Spanish Armada.

Small Turnout For Marin Tars Football

Unless more people go out for football at College of Marin, it's going to be a long season for the Kentfield school.

Team enrollment is down from more than 60 last year to 42. And even if he picks up the usual 20 or so when school starts, coach Dick Read says the Tars will be hurting for players.

"Our problems are with offensive and defensive linemen," he says, "and we could use some linebackers."

Marin has 11 players back from last season, but only eight who did much playing. One plus will be the presence of quarterback Jim Peters, a standout in 1969 who could garnish all-league honors in the Camino Norte Conference this year.

The nucleus of the club, with Peters at its center, includes fullback Ron Blassingame, and receivers Larry Blackwell and Pete Carroll. Blassingame, a 6 foot 2, 215-pounder, sat out most of last season because of injuries. He will be joined in the backfield by George Adams and Pat Green, halfbacks who saw limited action last season.

The receivers, like Blassingame, are to a degree unknown quantities. Blackwell played briefly in 1969 but was academically ineligible the last half of the campaign. Carroll served as a premier defensive back but was used sparingly on offense.

Yet the pass catching abilities of Blackwell and Carroll are the least of Read's problems. The real crisis will be in the interior line, whose responsibility it will be to give Peters time to throw.

There is only one veteran offensive lineman — center Charlie McBride. A first stringer last year, he proved very effective on pass blocking.

Candidates for the other line spots are tackles Doug Best, Rich Simpson and Mike Russell. One of them will probably be converted to guard, a position at which the Tars are devoid of experience.

As it stands now, Simpson and Russell are slated to work both ways and will be joined on the defensive line by returning ends Stack Schaefer and Jack Straw.

The only other veteran on defense will be safety John Dohn, who may be the best the Tars ever had. With any luck this season he'll set a team record for career interceptions.

The Tars annually get a couple of outstanding players from the Marin County Athletic League. Most MCAL stars, including all the big linemen, are swept up by four year colleges.

This year Marin inherits Drake fullback Bob Sutherland and Dave Perron, Novato's all-league linebacker.

At this stage, according to Read, the team is in good physical condition, but always the lack of depth is evident. Read says that Peters, McBride and Dohn are as good as any players he's ever had, but without some heavy-duty linemen, their talents may be wasted.

The Tar offense figures to be geared to a passing attack, but that will depend on what kind of pass protection develops. Last year's team, which was also weak on the line, rode Peters' arm to a 4 win, 4 loss record.

Finishing touches are now being put on Marin's new football field. Two thousand bleacher seats have been installed, and construction is under way on a press box. The Tars return to a home field after playing last year at Marin Catholic.

The first game of the season is at San Jose City College, Sept. 19, 8 p.m.

A Little Gaelic Goes A Long Way

Well, now, shurrrre and they don't call them the Galloping Garlic Snappers.

I mean, over Moraga way the St. Mary's College athletic teams are known as the Gaels and Marin County certainly is doing its share to keep the place as Gaelic as a village green in County Cork. They don't call Moraga Shanty Town for nothing. I mean, the campus cops are called Paddy's Pigs and, well, would you believe lace curtains in the gym?

And Then Comes Hanrahan

Ah, at fullback, another freshman who stands 6-1 and weighs 190 pounds, is Mrs. Hanrahan's fine boy, Timothy, of the San Rafael Hanrahans.

Heavenly days.

And as we go down the roster looking for Marin County names we come to the guard position where there is a junior star from San Anselmo with two years of varsity experience. His name is Nick Ferrua.

O'Brien, Finnegan, Hanrahan and FERRUA?!

Glory be. The Galloping Garlic Snapper lives.

SPEAKING OF the Irish, O'Regon State again is expecting big things from defensive end Jim Sherbert of San Rafael, one of 30 lettermen returning to Coach Dee Andros at Corvallis.

Sherbert, another great product of football rich Terra Linda High, won a starting job as a sophomore last year and is good for two more full seasons of outstanding service to the Beavers. Jim, 6-1 and 208, was a linebacker at Terra Linda where he was known as an Eager Trojan. Now he's an Eager Beaver.

Former 49ers Honored

MARIN CATHOLIC High assistant coach Bruno Banducci, auto salesman Bob Toneff of San Anselmo and Redwood High baseball coach Al Endriss will be among the ex-San Francisco 49ers to be honored at the annual 49er Alumni Day in Kezar Stadium Sunday, Sept. 20 when their alma mater plays the Washington Redskins.

The 1946 charter 49er team, of which "Bandooch," a Stanford product, was a prominent member, will receive special recognition as the S.F. organization celebrates the start of its 25th season. Banducci stayed with the team through the 1954 season. Toneff, a tackle from Notre Dame, played from 1952 through 1959 and Endriss, an end from San Francisco State, played in 1952.

DiMaggio Retains His Golf Lead

RENO (UPI)—Former New York Yankee star Joe DiMaggio carried a three-stroke lead into today's final round of the 12th annual Holiday Mug Hunt Golf Tournament.

DiMaggio, a 14 handicapper, shot a second round 63 Wednesday for a cumulative total of 127. His score was 17 under par and three strokes better than Dutch Koefoed of Burlingame. Bob Dee of Reno was third at 131.

McLain Mum Following Suspension

NEW YORK (UPI)—Denny McLain, the Detroit Tigers' "bad boy" pitching star, was suspended for the remainder of the current season and faced possible further disciplinary action today for carrying a gun and breaking probation.

Baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn announced Wednesday the new suspension of the 31-game winner of 1968 for "certain new allegations brought to my attention, including allegations regarding McLain's conduct with respect to the Detroit management and information that on occasion McLain has carried a gun."

Kuhn said there will be further proceedings after the season, raising the possibility that McLain's suspension could be extended further.

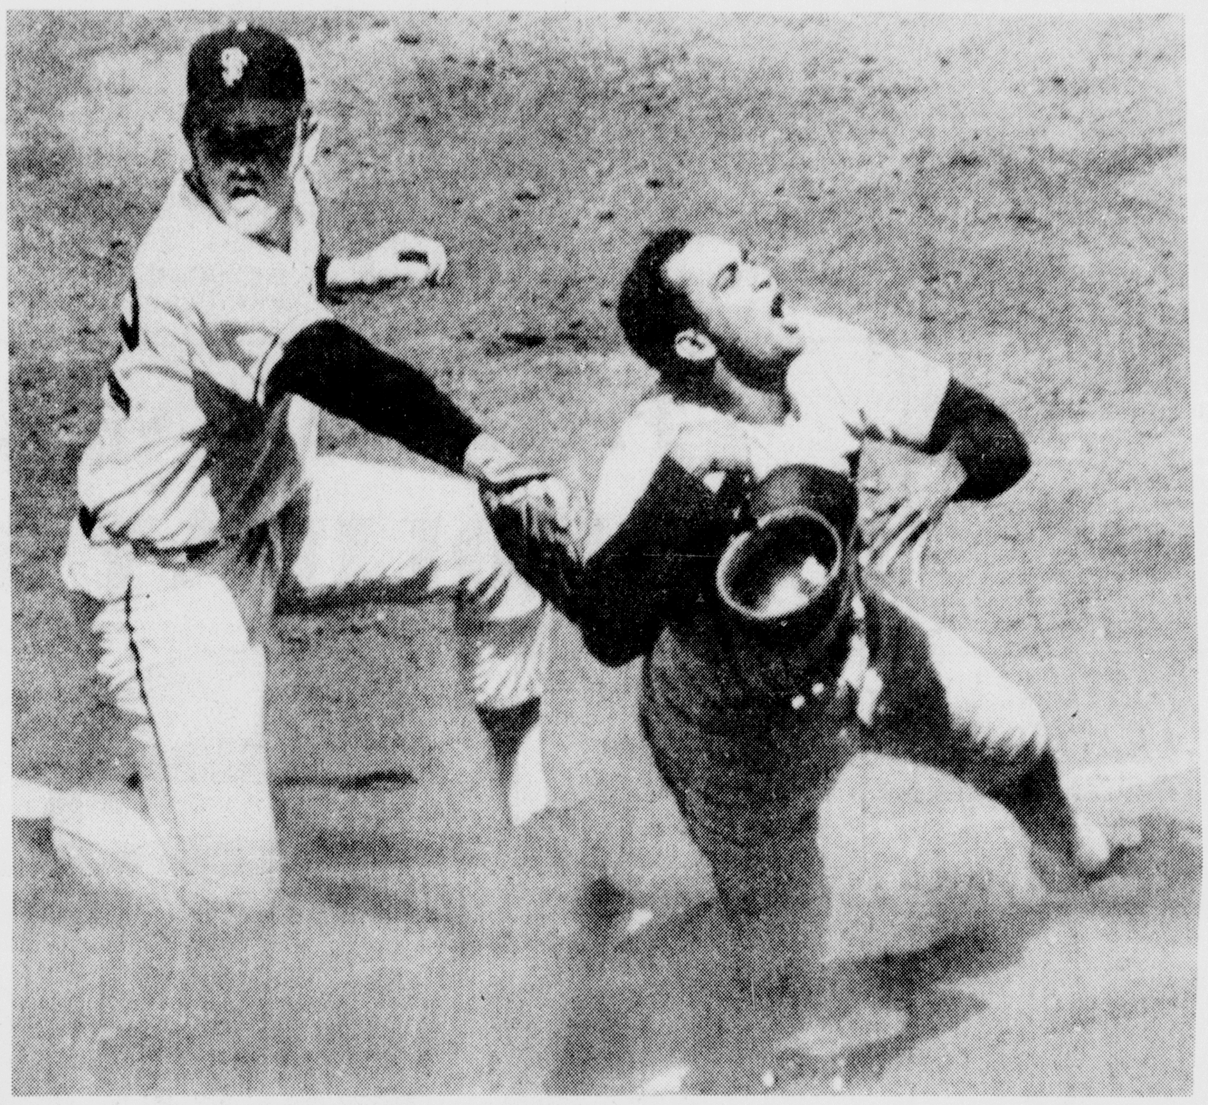

Kuhn's announcement came at the conclusion of a hearing in a downtown New York law office at which William Aikens, McLain's attorney, said he "requested an adjournment of the hearing to permit me to conduct an investigation into the matters in question and to prepare for a hearing concerning these matters should one be required."

Aikens said that McLain would not comment on the matter now or in the near future.

Aikens and the commissioner's counsel agreed that it would be impossible to resume the hearing before the end of the season so a request was made that the hearing be adjourned. McLain's suspension thus was continued until the end of the season by mutual consent of the lawyers.

Kuhn did not elaborate on the new allegations but said they did not involve McLain's recent suspension by the Tigers, Aug. 28, for throwing ice water on two Detroit sportswriters.

McLain, who won 31 games for the Tigers in 1968 and 24 in 1969, was suspended from spring training through July 1 this year for his involvement in a bookmaking operation. He appeared in 15 games for the Tigers this year but was ineffective most of the time and had a 3-5 record and a 4.65 earned run average.

JESUS OUT — San Francisco Giant pitcher Ron Bryant put the tag on Houston's Jesus Alou in second inning of yesterday's game. Alou had grounded to rookie first baseman Ed Goodson who tossed to Bryant covering first.

RETAIN BLANDA

Injuries Force Raider Gamble

George Blanda, 43, a reserve quarterback and one of the better kicking specialists in football history, was waived and then retained Wednesday along with two temmates. Neither Blanda nor guard Wayne Hawkins and defensive lineman Al Dotson were claimed by other teams.

44 LIMIT

The surprise move was necessitated when the Raiders were forced to trim their active roster to 44 prior to Saturday night's preseason contest against Pittsburgh. Fearful of losing several injured players, Oakland retained them on the active roster and waived healthy men in their place.

As a result, the Raiders may go into the game against the Steelers with as few as 38 healthy players instead of the legally permissible 44.

"We're going to get killed," said managing general partner Al Davis. "We've never been in such trouble since I've been here."

TO SIT OUT

Blanda, Hawkins and Dotson all can be restored eventually to the active roster. But they must sit out Saturday night's game. Blanda, undoubtedly, will be reactivated in time for the season opener Sept. 20 at Cincinnati. Mike Eischeid will handle the kicking chores for the Pittsburgh game.

Ordinarily, an injured player can be placed on the "move" list, his place taken on the field by a player from the taxi squad. But there is no "move" list or taxi squad in the preseason, and injured men can be protected only by remaining on the active list.

Touch Football

San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department is still accepting entries for the adult touch football league, scheduled to start Sept. 27, it was announced by Andrew Snyder Jr., director of the department.

A's Get Another Chance

ST. PAUL-Minneapolis (UPI)—The Oakland A's seem to do all right against every team except the one they have to beat.

Riding an eight-game string of victories, the A's had the misfortune Wednesday night of running into Jim Perry and the Minnesota Twins. Oakland lost 3-1 and fell 6 1-2 games behind the first place Twins in the American League West.

Heavy rain washed out the nightcap of the scheduled doubleheader, so another twi-night twinbill has been set for today.

MUST SWEEP

The A's must sweep both games to gain a foothold in the A.L. West pennant fight. A sweep would leave the A's 4 1-2 games behind with three weeks left in the season.

Oakland took advantage of lowly Chicago and Kansas City to build its eight-game win streak. But the A's must beat Minnesota to make up any sizeable ground, and this is something the club has been unable to do this season as well as last.

FIVE-HITTER

Perry, now unbeaten in four decisions this year against Oakland, drove in the winning run himself during a two-run rally in the seventh. Chuck Dobson had limited the Twins to three singles over the first six innings until Harmon Killebrew and Brant Alyea double and Perry singled.

YOUTH AT 39

Mays Should Be Tired But He's Going Strong

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Once upon a time they used to say: "As Willie Mays goes so go the Giants."

No one has said that in some time, but they could have Wednesday when the 39-year old Mays, who keeps on plugging along despite aching bones and tired muscles, drove in five runs with his 25th and 26th homers of 1970 to lead the Giants to a 9-5 victory over the Huston Astros.

TIRED

"Sure I'm tired at about this time of the year," acknowledged Mays, "But you just go out there and do the very best you can. They needed me in this one because (Willie) McCovey is hurting. I don't think I consciously tried any harder than I always do. I'm glad I could help."

It hasn't exactly been a bad year, by his standings, for Mays. The five RBIs give him a total of 75 for the year and a single gave him a three for five, boosting his average to .286.

In many ways 1970 has been a comeback sort of year for Mays, who now has 626 career homers. A year ago in his worst year ever in the majors, Mays hit .285 but had only 13 homers and 58 RBIs. It was a year also of injuries and nagging aches, something he has been able to stay away from in 1970.

HE'LL KNOW

Mays doesn't talk at all these days about when he will hang them up.

"I'll know when the time comes," he answers to all queries.

It doesn't seem far-fetched to believe Mays will hit three or four more homers this year as he continues the chase after Babe Ruth's all-time homer record of 714. Four more homers this year would still leave him 84 short of the record.

2-0 LEAD

Mays' first homer Wednesday sent the Giants off to a 2-0 lead in the first and by the time he came to bat in the fourth they were behind, 4-3, as the Astros routed San Francisco starter Ron Bryant with a three-run rally.

Hal Lanier walked leading off the fourth and two outs later was still on first. Then Tito Fuentes, who extended his hitting streak to 14 games, singled up the middle, giving Mays a chance to swing again with men on. Mays, who had hit a Larry Dierker fastball over the leftfield fence in the first, hit another fastball by Dierker over the rightfield screen.

The blow gave the Giants a 6-4 lead and they padded it with three more in the sixth as McCovey, hitting for rookie first baseman Ed Goodson, doubled to right-center to score two runs. Lanier followed with a single for a third run.

JOHNSON'S WIN

Jerry Johnson, who held Houston to one run in 3 1-3 innings in relief of Bryant, gained credit for the victory

Clay, Quarry Sign For Oct. 26 Fight

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cassius Clay, claiming that he still owns the heavyweight title, officially signed today to meet Jerry Quarry in a 15-round heavyweight bout Oct. 26 in Atlanta's Municipal Auditorium.

Clay, who was stripped of his title in 1967 after refusing to be inducted into the Army, will be making his first appearance in an actual bout since he stopped Zora Folley in Madison Square Garden on March 22, 1967.

As befitting a former champion, Clay has been promised $200,000 or 42½ per cent of the total revenue while Quarry, a leading contender, will get $150,000 versus 22½ per cent.

The bout will be shown on closed circuit television throughout the world and Quarry said he expected to make more money from this fight than when he fought Clay's successor, Joe Frazier.

Mike Malitz, handling the closed circuit television rights, said he anticipated a gross TV revenue of between two and three million dollars.

JIM MURRAY

Jim Bouton Has The Last Laugh

When Jim Bouton was a fastballing young right-hander with the New York Yankees, he threw so hard his hat used to fall off with every pitch. They knew he was through when it didn't even fall down over his eyes. You can throw a knuckleball with a top hat and monocle.

"I always figured I had to get everything I could behind everything I threw because I wasn't big or strong. So I threw myself at the batter as well as the ball," Jim explained the other day as he sat picking over his salad in the Beverly Hills Hotel.

PITCHERS who lose their fastball don't usually lunch at the Beverly Hills. They're usually having a beer and a submarine sandwich in the cab of a truck.

When Jim Bouton wrote a book, he realized he would have to knock his hat off. On the mound, Koufax he was not. On paper, Shakespeare he was not. "I knew I couldn't write a book saying, 'And then I jammed him on the fists and got the side out, and now we needed only 10 games to win the pennant.' "

So Bouton's book was hardly a knuckleball. It buzzed baseball right under the chin. It was a knockdown. He knew he had to get good stuff on the ball and he did.

BUT, ANY pitcher knows, you have to get help from the opposition. They have to swing at bad pitches, lay off good ones, run to the wrong base, make mistakes, get caught off stride, commit themselves too soon.

Bouton made a monkey out of baseball. He got them to hit HIS pitch every time.

"You couldn't have planned it better if you sat down and drew up a plan," he admitted as he stuck a fork in a lobster. "You could say, 'OK, first the Commissioner of Baseball calls you in and delivers a reprimand — which is covered by NBC, ABC, CBS, Reuters, the AP, UPI, all the big papers. You get on the 11 o'clock news and David Brinkley and in Life, Time, Newsweek, the Dow-Jones, Christian Science Monitor, Police Gazette. The Sporting News scolds you. You can only hope you get banned in Boston, denounced from the pulpit, and called up before the U.S. Senate.

"THEN, YOU get Dick Young of the New York Daily News to call you a rat-fink, or words to that effect, in a paper with two and one-half million daily circulation — not once, but three times! You get Mickey Mantle to say a few words of denouncement. That's 10,000 more copies sold right there.

"You feel just as if you were directing an orchestra which is doing exactly what you wish. You point a stick and, instead of thinking, 'Now the French horns,' you think, 'Now, the commissioner, now, Dick Young, now, Mantle, now, here we bring in the counterpoint. It was beautiful. I had a no-hitter going.

"Here I was with no fast ball. On some days, my knuckler wouldn't break — and when a knuckler doesn't break, you're throwing batting practice. But baseball still thought it had its hooks into me. My friends were shook. 'Look,' they said, 'you make $27,000 a year. And you throw it away for a few lousy book sales.'

"WELL, THE book has sold 165,000. I have made over $80,000. I am going to cover the World Series for a new syndicate. I want to make the book into a Broadway musical. Can you see the scene with 25 ball players with binoculars prancing over a Washington Hotel roof to watch broads undressing? Can you see Joe Schultz, the manager, running out at intervals to say, 'Bleep-bleep, let's do down some Budweiser?'

"Can you see paperbacks, a sequel, a movie? Why, I may have to incorporate!"

The Establishment continued to pay dividends in its indignation. When Dick Young showed up in the locker room, far from dumping a pail of water over him, Bouton stuck his hand out and grinned. Relieved, Young blurted: "I'm glad you didn't take it personally!"

Bouton clapped his hand to his head. "I thought, 'My God, the title to my sequel!' "

THE MORAL is clear. If anyone writes a book about YOU, clam up. Just smile mysteriously and, pretty soon, the author will come screaming around saying, "Don't just sit there, denounce me! Don't you realize I called you a , that I held you up to ridicule, that I told all? Get indignant! I need the money!"

Just lean over and pat him on the head and murmur, "There, there! I haven't got around to reading your little book yet but I will one of these years. But I just want you to know I just told the AP and Channel Two that I thought it was a nice little book for kiddies — you know, sort of like 'King of the Home Run.' "

Posthumous Race Title Ruled Out

MILAN, Italy — The 1970 world championship title for formula one sports car drivers will be ruled vacant if no one beats the 45 points piled up by the late Jochen Rindt, the international auto sport commission said Wednesday.

The commission, meeting here after the Italian Grand Prix at nearby Monza where Rindt died in time trials Saturday, said if Rindt's point total is not surpassed he will be the unofficial champion, but no official posthumous title would be conferred.

Baseball

NEW YORK — The New York Yankees announced Wednesday the sale of veteran relief pitcher Steve Hamilton to the Chicago White Sox in a straight waiver deal.

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. — West Covina, Calif., defeated Levittown, Pa., 10-0 to win the 1970 American Legion Baseball World Series championshp yesterday.

Hockey

PORT HURON, Mich. (UPI) — Gordie Howe, hockey's all-time scoring leader, said Wednesday he would retire at the end of the 1971-72 season.

"I think it would be pushing my luck to play beyond that — I'll be 44 then," Howe said at the opening of the Detroit Red Wings' training camp.

Basketball

NEW YORK — Pistol Pete Maravich has picked up an extra $25,000 for autographing a basketball. The price could run into six figures before he's through, says the Seamless Company of New Haven, Conn., which has signed the former Louisiana State star and current rookie with the Atlanta Hawks to endorse a line of basketballs.

and evened his record at 3-3. Don McMahon, a year older than Mays at 40, then held Houston to one hit over the last two innings to gain his 15th save.

Fox said the Giants, who have won 18 of their last 25 games, are confident now of catching the Dodgers for a second place finish.

PERRY

Gaylord Perry shoots for his 20th victory today when he goes to work against Wade Blasingame in the Astros' final appearance of the year at Candlestick Park. Perry hasn't won 20 games since 1966, when he won 21.

He won 15 in 1967, 16 in 1968 and 19 a year ago.

The Dodgers follow the Astros into Candlestick on Friday night for a three-game weekend series.

Tennis Play Resumes After A Washout

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) —The entire quarter-final round of the U.S. Open tennis championships, halted by rain Wednesday, was scheduled to take place today, with two Americans challenging Australians, two other Americans battling each other and a third Aussie, picking on the lone "outsider," a New Zealander.

Leading off the U.S. challenge to "down under" domination of the $160,000 event will be Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., who will bring his service and power game against the wily third seed, Ken Rosewall, the diminutive veteran who, at 35, has won $90,000 this year and was the losing finalist at Wimbledon.

Sadecki Wins For Mets

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Ray Sadecki wasn't wearing his glasses Wednesday night, but his vision of pitching in another World Series is 20-20.

Sadecki, signed in May of 1958 by the St. Louis Cardinals as a $50,000 bespectacled bonus baby, pitched the New York Mets into a first-place tie with the Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League East with a route-going, four-hit, 3-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies. The win enabled the Mets to gain a split in the twi-night doubleheader as the Phils took the opener, 3-2, on rookie pinch-hitter Willie Montanez' ninth-inning single.

The Cardinals edged the Pirates 6-4, and the Montreal Expos tripped the Chicago Cubs, 3-2, to throw a tight-fitting one-game blanket over the top three teams in the East. The Mets and Bucs have identifal 75-67 records.

In other National League action, San Francisco trounced Houston, 9-5, Cincinnati blanked Los Angeles, 6-0 and Atlanta and San Diego split a twi-night twin bill, the Braves copping the first game, 6-3, in 11 innings, the Padres taking the nightcap, 7-4.

In the American League, Baltimore edged the New York Yankees, 1-0, Boston topped Detroit, 4-1, Washington beat Cleveland, 5-4, Chicago swept California, 11-4 and 3-1, in a rain-shortened double-header, and Minnesota downed Oakland, 3-1, in the first game of a scheduled doubleheader. The second game was postponed by rain, as was the Milwaukee-Kansas City contest.

The 29-year old left-hander struck out 12 in pitching his first complete game win since he beat Atlanta on June 13. It was his eighth win of the season.

"I've been in a World Series before, and I'd sure like to hurl in one this year," said Sadecki, who was the winning pitcher in the opening game of the 1964 World Series.

Barry Moving To New York

ORINDA (UPI)—Rick Barry, engaged in a long struggle to return to the NBA San Francisco Warriors, apparently is resigned to his fate of playing at least for the time being with the ABA New York Nets.

Barry continued preparations Wednesday to move from his Orinda home to New York. The high scoring forward still has court action pending in which he seeks a release from ABA contractual obligations.

MARIN-SONOMA GOLF

Championship Tourney Time

Club championships will get underway this weekend at four Marin and Sonoma County golf courses. Meadow Club in Fairfax will hold medal play qualifying rounds Saturday and Sunday, while Indian Valley in Novato, Peacock Gap in San Rafael and Rohnert Park open with match play Sunday.

Mill Valley's club tourney will begin a week from Saturday, and Marin Country Club in Novato and Sonoma National start theirs on Sept. 25 and 27 respectively.

Nearly 100 players will participate Saturday in San Geronimo's annual Invitation Tournament. A breakfast and an awards dinner will accompany the best ball twosome, full handicap event.

Two holes-in-one were logged recently on Marin courses. Mrs. Larry Kett of Novato aced the 15th hole at Marin Country Club last Sunday. She used a five-wood for the 135-yard shot.

Dr. Bill Rushworth of Terra Linda shot the third hole-in-one of hiscareer Monday at Meadow Club. He used a six-iron to ace the 144-yard 11th hole.

Nagging Injuries For 49ers

REDWOOD CITY (UPI)—The San Francisco 49ers, preparing for a preseason game against unbeaten Los Angeles, are bothered by several nagging physical ailments.

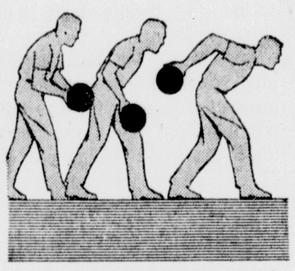

Linebackers Dave Wilcox and Skip Vanderbundt, defensive linemen Stan Hindman and Charlie Krueger, defensive back Brace Taylor and running backs Jimmy Thomas and John Isenbarger all took part in practice Wednesday despite minor injuries.

Coach Dick Nolan, hoping for his second preseason victory against three defeats, must crack a Los Angeles defense which has contributed to the Rams' five successive exhibition victories. One of the areas San Francisco will have to improve is its running game, which has averaged only 76 yards per contest.

"We had so many people hurt that we haven't been able to keep them running," Nolan said. "It will improve."

BOWLING TIPS

It is important not to waste time in picking your ball from the rack and getting ready to start your delivery. But once you begin your steps to the foul line, take it easy. Those few seconds aren't going to bother anybody and hurrying your approach can only hurt your score.

PREP FOOTBALL PROSPECTS

A Building Year For Redwood

By DAVID EINSTEIN

Redwood High School lost 18 players from last year's varsity football team, including four all-leaguers. Then they lost their coach. Bob Troppmann resigned to devote his full time to being athletic director.

Not surprisingly. The Giants, who finished with a four win, two loss record last season in the Marin County Athletic League, have only seven returning letterman and 13 seniors overall.

Roark could do worse than inherit a young team. First, he can be excused if he fails to produce a winner this year. Second, his system will differ from Troppmann's and a young, inexperienced club will take the changes easier.

Manpower will not be a problem at the Larkspur school this year. The number of candidates for the varsity and junior varsity teams has increased from last year to 93 players. Curiously, most schools in the county are experiencing a drop in football interest.

Lack of experience will be a problem, especially on both the offensive and defensive lines. Roark says, "Our whole season's going to depend on our front people."

Back from last year are center Steve Hammersly, guards Steve Green and Gary Shunk and end Steve Fleischman. Dave Shekell, a senior up from the J. V. may man the other guard spot.

The Giants are fortunate to have some big tackles from the junior varsity, Juniors Bel Stubbs and Joel Johnson and sophomore Ken Massucco all weigh more than 200 pounds. Their size may offset to some extent their inexperience.

Behind the Giants' untested line will be an untested backfield. Returning will be fullback Andy Anixter, halfback Mike Massoletti, flanker Jim Keigwin and quarterback Steve Spooner. All are seniors who saw limited duty in 1969.

Additional help could come from junior Jay Lehman, a fullback from the 1969 J.V. team.

Roark says there is going to be a battle at quarterback. Spooner reportedly can move the ball on the ground but can't throw. Bob Brown, a junior, has a good arm but can't control the ground game.

The saving grace may be a sophomore, Darryl Etralin. Roark says of him: "He moves real well and does a nice job of leading the team."

The young signal caller may be platooned with one or both other quarterbacks, and could fit nicely into Roark's plans.

Receiving chores for the club will fall to Keigwin, Fleischman and either Greg Skinner or Gary O'Neill. Those two juniors are fighting it out for the tight end position.

Roark says Redwood will go to the air about 60 per cent of the time. That will be a departure from Troppmann's ground-oriented teams of recent years.

Defensively, the Giants seem set except for the line. Linebackers will be Anixter, Shunk and sophomore Bob Fulton.

Keigwin, Spooner and Massoletti will provide experience in the secondary, although Roark might go with a couple of sophomores, Etralin and Katsumi Johnson, at the safety spots.

Although other MCAL coaches do not list Redwood as a contender, Roark feels that "we could be in there somewhere mixing it up" with the top teams. Those, he says, will be Terra Linda, San Rafael, Drake and Tam.

The Giants' first non-league game will be Sept. 19 against Sacred Heart at Washington High School in San Francisco.

Top Net Stars In Tournament

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Tournament director Barry MacKay says some of the nation's top professional tennis stars will compete in the $25,000 Pacific Coast Open Sept. 26-Oct. 4.

MacKay said Arthur Ashe, Dennis Ralston, Cliff Richey, Clark Graebner, Bob Lutz, Stan Smith and several others are expected to take part in the tournament.

COME TO DE LONG CHEVROLET AND DRIVE THE LITTLE CAR THAT BEGS TO BE DRIVEN.

You've probably heard a lot about the Vega by now.

Well, we want you to forget it all.

Forget that the Vega comes in four models: coupe, sedan, wagon and panel truck. Forget that it gets around 25 miles to the gallon. Forget that even the standard sedan comes with a 90-horsepower overhead-cam aluminum alloy engine, front disc brakes and front bucket seats.

Forget all that and just take Vega for a test drive. That, all by itself, will convince you.

Vega's tight, maneuverable. It's downright fun.

Hayakawa Praises Japan's Riot Control Techniques

By GEORGE NEVIN

American and Japanese policemen could learn a lot about the techniques of riot control if they studied movies of each other's techniques during demonstrations.

That's the opinion of Dr. S. I. Hayakawa of Mill Valley, president of San Francisco State College just returned from a 20-day tour of Japan.

"The Japanese police are much better organized than ours here. They carry sticks but they're forbidden to draw firearms," Hayakawa said. Their standard maneuver when confronted with thousands of militants is to form ranks behind a phalanx of shields.

DR. S. I. HAYAKAWA
Back from Japan

"Both sides seem to know what the rules are, and no one gets killed," the 64-year-old semanticist said.

This sort of approach helps prevent incidents such as the killing of four students at Kent State University. "That happened because the National Guard didn't know what to expect — the troops were inexperienced. It never could happen in Tokyo — they're too experienced," he said.

Hayakawa had praise for the way San Francisco police handled disturbances at San Francisco State during the winter of 1968-69.

"They acted with great restraint and discipline. Despite the hysterical cries of police brutality, I could see the improvement in police tactics as the days went by," he said.

In the great battle of Jan. 23, 1969, when hundreds of students were arrested, not one was struck by a policeman, Hayakawa said. "I think Japanese and American police could learn a lot by studying the movies of each other. If ours used shields, they could ward off the rocks," he laughed.

A marked similarity between American and Japanese student radicals was evident to Hayakawa. "Like our New Left, they're critical of their own system without knowing much about it. The theoretical Marxism they espouse comes mostly from books."

But many differences exist as well. "The Japanese students are much better organized, each splinter Marxist party has its characteristic riot helmets stenciled with slogans," he said. Like the police, they carry long staves.

Another difference: "I've heard it said that when the Japanese radicals are finished with school, they go right into the Establishment. That's not the way it is here."

During Hayakawa's stay in Japan he was guest of the Japanese government, touring universities and colleges and discussing problems faced by educators on both sides of the ocean.

At one lecture, he said, he told his audience about the futility of complaining about racism. "The charge of racism is a self-fullfilling prophecy," he said. "If a person behaves as tough he is being discriminated against, then hes urely is. If he blames his failures on racism, he's licked right there."

Hayakawa believes that the climate at San Francisco State has changed completely since the 1968 disruptions. "The student government, which was in the hands of the radicals who wanted to close the college down, now is in the hands of those who want to keep it open," he said.

"There's a vast improvement in the membership of the faculty senate as well. The responsible faculty members, the farseeing liberals opposed to violence, won control of the Senate," he said. "Two years ago, the student government represented only the radical wing. Now it is representative of a broad range of viewpoints."

A professed believer in academic freedom, Hayakawa upholds the right of communists to teach on campus "as long as they're not members of a political conspiracy."

"I favor a balance of viewpoints within a department. You're not in trouble when you have one communist out of a department of 20, but when 15 out of 20 are communists, you get a distorted picture," he said.

As for the future of San Francisco State, the president believes a repeat of the disturbances unlikely. "Organized conspiracies against the college aren't going to happen this year," he said, basing part of the prediction on steps he is taking to "knit a more cohesive all-college policiy. With less cause for divisiveness, things aren't as likely to go wrong."

College Lists Music Courses

Courses beginning next week are: Community Orchestra, Mondays from 8 to 10:15 p.m.; Community Band, Wednesdays from 7:30 to 10 p.m.; and Opera Workshop, Wednesdays from 7 to 10 p.m.

Courses beginning the following week are Sight Singing, Rhythm and Ear Training, Sept. 21 at 7:30 p.m.; Recorder Playing, Sept. 22 at 7:30 p.m.; and Community Chorus, Sept. 22 from 8 to 10:15 p.m.

"Are you with the State Department?"

"No. I'm the secretary of labor."

Smut Fighter Halts Liberal Panel Report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Acting with the knowledge, and perhaps the approval, of the White Houst, a smut fighter who was President Nixon's sole appointee to the Presidential Commission on Pornography has won a court order blocking publication of the commission's liberal report.

With the help of a lawyer who aided actress Loretta Young in keeping her old film clips out of the movie Myra Breckenridge, commission member Charles H. Keating Jr. of Cincinnati obtained the temporary order Wednesday in federal court.

He said he and six others on the 18-member commission were opposed to portions of the commission's report — including a finding pornography laws should be relaxed and that obscene material does not cause deviant behavior or sex crimes.

Asked if the Nixon administration supported his move, Keating reminded reporters he was Nixon's only appointee to the commission formed by President Lyndon B. Johnson. He said he was in touch with the White House and "they are well aware of this action."

As portions of the report began leaking out in recent weeks, the White House disassociated itself with the panel. And the administration did not send a lawyer to court to defend the commission against Keating's suit.

Politics Held Sausalito School Thorn

Four candidates for the Sausalito School District board last night pondered the future of the troubled district with views ranging from hopeful to gloomy.

The contenders, Robert R. Lyon and Robert A. Thompson of Sausalito, and Robert E. Fisher Jr. and Royce McLemore of Marin City, spoke before about 75 persons at the Sausalito Woman's Club.

They saw the district at a crucial turning point when playing politics with the schools should be eliminated and education stressed.

Thompson said the future of the district "as it stands is obviously very dim," if past mistakes aren't rectified.

Enrollment in the past four or five years has dropped from 1,200 to less than 600 pupils, and parents are taking their children out of district schools, he said.

Some parents are talking about having their own private school, "and can you really blame them?" he asked. At this rate, sooner or later there would be a "de facto black school situation," he asserted.

Thompson proposed that the administration of the district be undertaken by "a business firm that would operate on a money-back basis."

Mrs. McLemore contended the future of the district lies with what the people of the district make it. She said she didn't think the district has been a failure, and felt "last year was one of the better years" educationally.

She pointed out that this fall's enrollment wasn't as low as expected, which she felt was "due to some parents not turning their backs on the situation."

The district can profit by its mistakes, "mistakes made by both sides," and it needs the help of the community, she said.

There is a need for improved teaching, improved human relations between black and white students and an improved reading program, Mrs. McLemore said. "Parents should get out into schools, take a positive approach and see what is going on."

Fisher said the district's future is up to the people, either it can "tumble and fall" or "grow and prosper."

He said he wouldn't "tolerate use of kids as political tools," and would "make decisions for the benefit of all kids."

Fisher said the goal should be a sound educational system. This would draw back those who have been dissenters and those who have sent their children to private schools, he claimed.

He proposed that the district lease Central School for commercial use, a move that would bring revenue and reduce maintenance costs. Children from Central could attend Martin-Luther King School until enrollment increased, he explained.

Lyon said the future of the district "is the responsibility of all the people in the Sausalito district . . . either it flourishes or there's none at all."

If using the schools for social experiments and racial and political overtones are allowed to continue, "there will be a short life for our schools," he asserted.

Lyon felt "that given a chance the administration" of the district will improve, and he called for a board dedicated to conservation of funds and education of the pupils.

With an improved teaching staff and a stable academic environment, the confidence of the parents will be gained, Lyon contended.

He conceded "it will take a while to dispel the feeling of failure, many now hold."

A resident asked candidates why "the district is on the brink of failure."

Fisher replied there had been too much "political action" in the district and "people using children to gain I don't know what. They've forgotten about the children."

Thompson also laid the blame on "the use of politics as a stalking horse," and said the district has to get back to basic disciplines.

Lyon saw the fault in the district's "inability to perform," with an unstable atmosphere and academics "at the bottom of the barrel" because of political overtones and militancy."

On the question of whether Marin City should have equal representation on the board with Sausalito, the replies were:

Lyon — "I think board members are dedicated to education of all kids. I see no need for representatives on separate basis."

Mrs. McLemore — "If there were more representation on the board from Marin City, it would eliminate some of the upheavals at board session, which resulted from the feeling of Marin City parents that they weren't being heard."

Fisher — "I'm not running on any particular political philosophy, and neither do the residents of Marin City all agree on one political philosophy. What is needed isn't regional representation, but representation that entails new ideas in education."

Thompson — "This assumes you are talking about different attitudes, and difference doesn't follow."

Other comments during the evening were:

Fisher — Pupils should be given an education that will enable them to deal intelligently with any situation.

Mrs. McLemore — There should be strong in-service programs for teachers, more direction from administration and more supervision of teachers. Teachers "who don't feel comfortable in the Sausalito District could be encouraged to teach in a more suitable setting."

Thompson — "They have been confusing improved education with social experiments. We don't need any great social experiments in school. We need to teach kids to go out and compete."

Lyon — "We need participation of all people and communication rather than oratory and name calling."

Dormitory To Become Youth Hostel

A former Sonoma State College dormitory in Rohnert Park will soon house a youth hostel for traveling young people, a fabric shop, a public cafeteria and offices for community and college service organizations.

The building at 781 East Cotati Avenue was formerly Jack London Hall. It was purchased by a private company, Student Projects Inc., which changed the name to the Family Annex but continued operating it as a student dormitory.

The Rohnert Park City Council on Tuesday granted Student Projects a use permit for the additional services in the building, according to City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan.

The council Tuesday also accepted an offer from Western Host, a housing developer, to deed the equivalent of seven residential lots to the city for a park in exchange for the city providing $14,000 worth of street work to the developer.

Callinan was directed by the council to proceed with a study of the possibility of combining Rohnert Park police service with the City of Cotati. The action came at the request of the Cotati City Council.

The sport of sailing was introduced to England by King Charles II.

Seven GIs Suffer Bad Liquor Trip

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Seven prisoners at the Presidio stockade nearly blinded themselves when they injected into their veins a homemade liquor composed of sugar, baker's yeast, water, potato peelings and canned peaches partially fermented in paint cans.

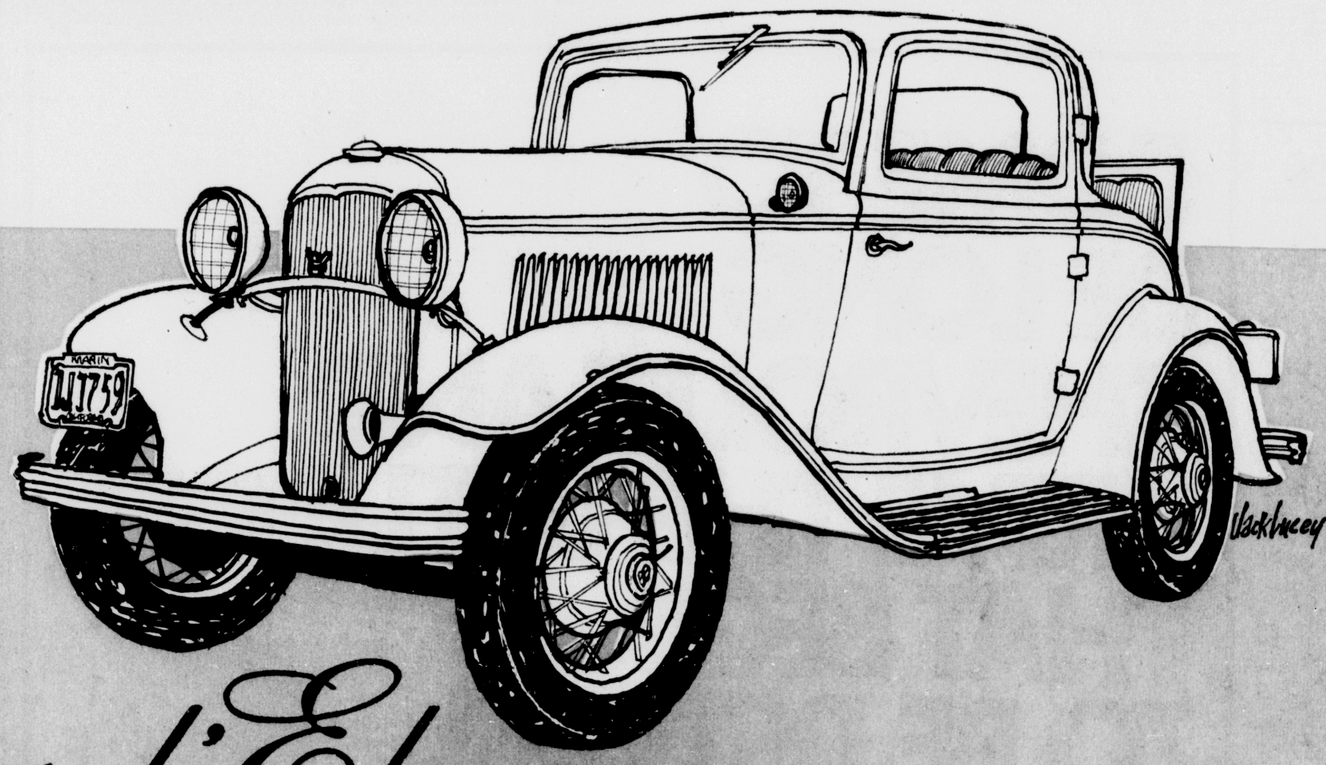

Army doctors Harvey L. Eichner and Ernest Aebi reported Wednesday that the young GI's, the oldest of whom was 22, "injected what was basically garbage in their veins early in 1969."

They fell gravely ill within an hour with fevers as high as 105 degrees and suffered from nausea, neck, chest and back pain and numbness in their extremities. But the most dangerous symptom of all was a rare hemorrhaging of the retina—the fragile light sensitive eye lining.

Doctors at the post hospital gave them quick injections of antibiotics or else "it was quite possible that the seven could have suffered blindness or death," one of the doctors said.
